IN THE SCHOOLS

SCHOOL NOTES.

The Marshfield High School Athletic Association will close the season with a balance in the treasury after paying last year's deficit of approximately $75.00.

The Tercentary of Shakespeare's death will be observed with an appropriate program sometime in April. High school English classes who have been studying Shakespearean plays will contribute short selections and the grades will contribute some songs and dances. April 23 is the date of the author's birth and death supposedly.

An invitation has been extended to the high school faculty and pupils by Rev. Robt. E. Browning, of the Episcopal church, to attend the Episcopal Church Educational service Sunday. Subject of address, "Education for Service."

Grade spelling contests resulted as follows this week:

- CENTRAL SCHOOL—
Sixth grade, class A, 99.5; class B, 99.6.
Fifth grade, class A, 98.3; class B, 96.9.
Fourth grade, class A, 95.5; class B, 88.
Third grade, class A, 91.4; class B, 88.1.
HIGH SCHOOL—
Sixth grade, Class A, 98.7; class B, 99.
Fifth grade, class A, 97; class B, 86.
Fourth grade, class B, 93.
Third grade, class A, 97.

The girls of the eighth grade cookery served a 4 o'clock tea to mothers and one guest each, Friday afternoon. The lunch was dainty and daintily served, and the guests were reminded by many "little forethoughts" in decorations of the room and the menu that the occasion was on the anniversary of St. Patrick. Just at the close, Agnes Johnson gave a short life story of the "Saint."

The menu:
Tea or Coffee.
Raisin Sandwiches. Cheese and Olive Sandwiches.
Nut Tea Cakes.

The girls: Clara Abel, Edith Johnson, Collina Knox, Agnes Johnson, Edythe Ayre, Helen Stack, Emma Lou Douglas, Irene Cook, Lillian Seaman, Stella Magnus, Rhoda Anderson, Mariam Wright, Ruth Halstead, Willa Bonebrake, Doris Sengstacken.

The eighth grade will do some gardening as a supplement to their school work in agriculture. A small tract of ground has been plowed, platted, fenced and, ere long, will be planted.

One of the anticipated events of the near future and which we hope those interested will be able to work out to their satisfaction is designated as "College Night." The idea is to have a program of talks by the college and university men and women of the city, supplemented by balopticon views of buildings, scenes, or important events in the student life of these institutions. This idea is a good one. It has some right good possibilities. Success to it.

One of the absolutely essential qualifications of the people of a democracy is the capacity for co-operative effort. The public school that teaches that principle is doing a worth while thing. There is consolation in that thought at certain periods during the school year when it seems as though books and lessons were being neglected.

As a kind of "follow up" work to the reading recital given by the pupils in Miss Immel's grade at the Central school, Mrs. E. E. Wilson will read to the pupils of that grade next Monday morning at 9 o'clock. She will probably use their own reading book, making selections from that. The idea is to create standards of literary interpretation, as well as to give variety and pleasure.

Students of the Normal class have just completed the reading of Bricker's "Elementary Agriculture," and have begun work on a thesis each, of kindred nature.
Basketball is still the center of interest athletically among both girls and boys. The sixth grade boys' team of the high school won a famous victory over the seventh grade of the same school this week and the girls of the sophomore class won the inter-class championship.

The boys in Rudolph Hillstrom's swimming class are making good progress. We noticed some former "rope hangers" actually swimming across the tank this week.

Students of manual training, I, have been making a study of the effects of moisture on various kinds of timber.

The swimmers honor roll board is about ready. Who will be the first to have his name recorded on it?
