SAYS JUDGE COKE HAS LITTLE OPPOSITION

W. W. Cardwell Declares He Is Opposing Judge Hamilton for District Judge

The Eugene Register says: W. W. Cardwell, a well known attorney of Roseburg, was in Eugene yesterday. He is a candidate for the Republican nomination of circuit judge of this district. He says he will in no wise interfere with the candidacy of E. O. Potter of Eugene, as there are three judges to be elected in this district. If he is nominated he will oppose Judge J. W. Hamilton, of Roseburg, who is a candidate for reelection on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Potter will have as an opponent at the polls Judge G. F. Skipworth, who is seeking reelection. Judge Coke, the other candidate, does not seem to have much opposition.

RAISE OWN FISH MANY ESTATE CASES

LAKESIDE MEN MEET AND START PUBLIC HATCHERY

Chafed at Delay in Getting Things Started—Site Is Donated and Part of Funds Secured

Lakeside is to have its own fish hatchery. At a meeting held there a few days ago, officers of the Lakeside Public Fish Hatchery were elected and arrangements were made for the starting at once of a building for the fish raising.

Byler and Simpson have donated the ground for the hatchery, Otto Meutzel, of a mill near Lakeide, has promised a very moderate rate on the lumber used and between $35 and $40 a month has already been promised, according to J. E. Hedges, who is just returned from the Ten Mile country.

T. J. Scammon has been elected superintendent of the hatchery, Ed. E. Smith, proprietor of the Lakeside hotel, is chairman, while Milo Pierson and James Cowan directors and J. D. Magee, secretary.

The 50,000 fish owned by Mr. Scammon are to be placed in the hatchery, Mr. Hedges says Frank Smith, of the Coos River hatchery, has 50,000 more fish for the cause and the state will be asked to aid to the extent of 200,000 more trout, all of these to be ready for liberation in the lake for restocking.

Chafed at Delay The matter of added fish for Ten Mile lakes was taken up here very actively by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce. It was planned to raise the fish at the Coos River hatchery and thus do away with the added expense of a hatchery at Lakeside.

But chafing at the delay the people of Lakeside have gone ahead of their plans and are determined there will be fish this year for the lake. An appeal will be made directly to the fishermen of this section who will get a benefit from the stocking of the lake.

Donations of 50 cents, seventy-five cents and a dollar a month, it was estimated, ought to bring revenue, with what is promised to keep the hatchery going. It is figured the expenses of the superintendent will be $50 a month and sundry expenses will amount to between $10 and $20 more a month.

FINDS CALIFORNIA POOR PLACE TO GO

Coos Bay Man Says Work is Scarce and That He Went Broke While Trying to Get Job

Several men who came back from Eureka where they went from here in the hopes of securing work and finding better conditions than on Coos Bay, do not bring very encouraging reports from that locality. Six men walked up from Eureka to Coos County, coming over the coast road. They walked because they were broke, all excepting one of the crowd, who had a little money and helped the others in the way of buying provisions. One man who follows the restaurant business, says that he could not find any opening in Eureka.

"They treat you very nice at first," he says, "but if you stay around the place for a few days, someone begins to fear that you are going to get their job. The home men hold all the places. At one restaurant they told me the only way I could hope to get a job would be to stay around until someone on the force died."

"California is overrun with people who came from Washington, Oregon and Idaho after those states went dry. San Francisco is worse than Eureka. I was able to secure only a few days of odd work. The wages paid are poor, and even when one can secure a job. Most all who went from Coos County expecting to better their condition are broke now and I would have been money ahead if I had never left here. I found none from this part of the state who had not met with some disappointment when they got into California."

PEOPLE OF WEDDERBURN FLEE TO GOLD BEACH

Store Closed and Residents Cross River to County Seat for Safety—Rains Heavy

(Special to The Times) GOLD BEACH, Ore., March 22.—The people of Wedderburn again fear slides from the hills behind the town on account of the continued rains and have fled from the place to Gold Beach for safety. Several weeks ago after the severe rains there were a number of bad slides and for a time it looked like the big hill back of the main part of town would come down and possibly push the buildings into the river. There was a big crack along the top of the hill extending for three hundred yards.

The recent rains have been so heavy the people are afraid that there would be more slides. The store and telephone office has been closed and some of the property removed and the people have left and come to Gold Beach. The only telephone communication is through Gold Beach.

HOWARD TAYLOR, STUDENT OF NORTH BEND, DISAPPEARS

Mother, Fears He Has Gone Away to Work Somewhere—Not Heard From Since Early Yesterday

Since eight o'clock yesterday morning Howard Taylor, aged 16 years, has been missing from North Bend, and today his mother, Mrs. May Taylor, of the Aloha Inn, at South Inlet, is almost frantic. The sheriff's office has been notified of the boy's disappearance and Sheriff Johnson has taken up the search.

Worked For Board

The lad has been working at the Coos Restaurant for his board and has been attending high school in North Bend. His mother said this morning that he worked very hard, being up generally at 4:30 in the morning and working again after school hours, very often until eight in the evening. She believes this fact started him away that he might go somewhere and earn some money.

It was feared that he had gone away on a tugboat, inasmuch as he has taken great interest in the sea and the boats. However, it is not believed that he could have left on any boat from Coos Bay and Mrs. Taylor said today she thinks he has gone up toward Gardiner and that he may go to work in a camp near there.

Will Search Himself

"If I don't find him very soon," she said, "I am going out to look for him myself." Her business at South Inlet keeps her busy all of the time, making it hard for her to get away. She is very much worried over the disappearance of her son and wishes that anyone knowing of his whereabouts inform her at once.

REGISTER OF MERIT JERSEY SIRES TO BE PRODUCED

J. L. Smith Arrang's for Bringing Blooded Bulls Here—Prices Have Been Made Very Low

Register of merit Jersey bulls for $100 each, freight prepaid, opens up the possibilities of bringing up many Coos county herds. J. L. Smith, county agriculturist, has made arrangements for these extremely low prices and Prof. Barr, of O. A. C., will pick out the animals before they are shipped.

The idea, as explained this morning by Mr. Smith, is to get new and better blood into Jersey and grade herds of the county. The sires are to be sold in groups of five, one to a farmer, in this way each farmer, after two years time, will be able to exchange animals with his neighbor, thus preventing inbreeding.

Three dairymen have already spoken for animals. They are Schroeder Bros. of Arago, John D. Carl, Arago, and W. T. Warner, Myrtle Point.

Mr. Smith is enthusiastic over the arrangement that has been made for securing the blooded sires at what he terms very reasonable prices. The fact that a competent judge of cattle, Prof. Barr, can pick them out before they are sent, believes Mr. Smith, will insure the bringing here of excellent stock. Ordinarily the farmer sends to the Willamette Valley and buys "unsight-unseen" and the result is often discouraging.

He hopes that a somewhat similar arrangement can be made for the owners of Holstein herds in the county and is now working on such a plan.

TWO TONS ARE SOLD

When J. L. Smith was here yesterday he stated that in the Coquille Valley more than two tons of seed corn have already been sold for planting in May and June. Also today 200 more pounds were added to the local order bringing up the amount to 500 pounds ordered from here.

The agriculturist says the seed comes from the Agricultural College at $3.75 a bushel. Now is the time, he states, to get the land in shape for the planting later.

Prizes are to be awarded this year for corn exhibits. The school children are to have a separate contest and cash prizes.

IRA RIDDLE SLANDERED

Former Court Reporter Rescued Report of His Dabbling

The following from the Roseburg Review will be of interest here as Mr. Riddle served a court reporter at Coquille for several years:

The many friends of I. B. Riddle, candidate for district attorney at the Republican primary election, are having considerable fun over an item which appeared in yesterday's Review to the effect that Mr. Riddle was planning to attend a dance at Canyonville Friday evening. Mr. Riddle has not attended a dance for many years, according to his friends, and consequently they were somewhat surprised when they read an item to the effect that he was to again indulge in the light fantastic. Mr. Riddle had intended to pass Friday at Canyonville meeting friends, and it was jokingly given out that he was to attend the dance. This was an error, however, as Mr. Riddle has an engagement at Riddle which will compel his return there early Friday evening.
