MARSHFIELD, THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

(By Anna Storgard.)

RANSFORM Marshfield into a "City Beautiful," would require millions of dollars and many years of labor. But no one knows what the future has in store for this city, and the things that now appear to be the seemingly Impossible, may yet be accomplished.

If all the wooden warehouses, wharfs and shacks were torn down the first steps would have been taken in beautifying the city. Then a cement boulevard should be made along each side of the bay and three large concrete warehouses built. One warehouse should be situated at the foot of Market street and the other THE Leach resorts even in this two at each end of the city. All the space that was not taken up by these should be filled with dirt.

Then if a large steel bridge spansure to be popular with those living ned the bay, it would give the city in other parts of the state. There a grand, majestic appearance and Many Cattle Recently Died in Curry coming to Myrtle Point in 1897, pointed their guardian. is no more delightful place to spend would make an impression on people a day or to camp than on the beau- just entering the city for the first

> The next thing to do, after the waterfront is finished, is to tear down all wooden shacks and build ings throughout the city, and erect brick or concrete ones in their stead. Then all the rubbish should be removed from vacant lots and backyards and trees and floweds

If the streets of the city were made wider and all those paved that were not it would be a great improvement. Then trees could be grown on each side of the street that would shade them in summer. Playgrounds for children could be made from the vacant lots. These could be made beautiful by trees, flowers and fountains, If all these things were accomplished Marshfield would indeed be City Beautiful.
