SOMETHING NEW!
ANTIFERMENTINE
Preserves Fruit, Cider, Milk, Butter, Eggs, Tomatoes, Catsup, Pickles, Etc.

What is it: It is a simple, harmless preparation, free from taste, smell and color, that has the properties of stopping and preventing fermentation in all vegetable and animal foods.

What it does: It is especially useful for preserving fruits of all kinds without cooking, retaining their natural fresh appearance and taste.

Its Use does away with labor, and makes what has been a hot, disagreeable task, a delight and a pleasure. It substitutes for the Summer heat of the kitchen the cool shade of a lawn or piazza.

Its Results are never doubtful when used according to directions, and Plum Puddings, Peach and Berry Pies can be had in Winter as well as in Summer.

Its Use is profitable and economical, for it saves one-half of the sugar, saves the jars broken by heat, saves the fruit cooked away, and saves the time and labor lost by the old methods.

For Cider it unsurpassed. It stops fermentation at any point desired, and produces a sparkling beverage like Champagne.

The question is sometimes asked, "Is it injurious?" To allay all doubts on that score, we would say that we have consulted many of our most eminent Chemists and Physicians, and all unite in pronouncing the use of ANTIFERMENTINE as a preservative, a perfectly safe and harmless preparation.

The Bank Failure.

Monroe, July, 18, 1893.

Mr. Editor:—More than a month has elapsed since Job's Bank failed, and the depositors like the traditional turkey, are getting thinner every day. There is a large flock of Job's turkeys roosting around waiting for something to "turn up." They remember that when the bank first closed its doors there was a notice posted thereon that the bank had suspended for want of cash, but as soon as the assets could be realized upon, the depositors would be paid in full. This notice acted as a soothing balm to the lacerated feeling of those who had deposited their money (many of them the last dollar they has.)

The next thing on the program was the statement of the receiver whom Job had selected, that the concern would probably pay 75 cents on the dollar, that he was going to resign, that if Zeph. Job had told him the truth about the condition of the affairs of the bank he would have had nothing to do with it.

The next thing was the meeting of the creditors, the resignation of the receiver and the acceptance by the same gentleman of the appointment of assignee of Job, after he knew that Job had not told him the truth about the condition of the business. Since then there has been considerable talk among those interested about employing an expert to examine the books, but nothing has been done as yet. There is not much doubt but that a large amount of the assets of the bank will be used up by off sets, so that it is doubtful whether the bank will pay fifty cents on the dollar or not.

It is now apparent why the Job bank was so active and exceedingly anxious to get the water bonds marketed and the $50,000 turned over to them.

The papers in Corvallis have not much to say about the failure, their sympathy "seems" to be entirely with the bank, and one of them soon after the failure stated in effect that a man that failed was often more liberal and a better man than the one that did not fail, but this thing of being liberal with other peoples money is like Artemus Ward's patriotism, when he announced during the war, "that the rebellion must be put down if it took all the able bodied cousins his wife had to do it."

Probably the worst features of the failure was the receiving of a large amount of money on deposit the evening before the bank closed their doors, when they must have known that they could not return it, and did not intend to.

Such performances are sometimes known by another name.

TURKEY.

Speaking of bank failures the Salem Statesman says: "The failure at Corvallis was due to the "rotten" condition of the bank. It was a good thing that it failed as soon as it did, and a pity it did not fail earlier. The longer the collapse was delayed the more disastrous and flat it would have been. It was a hopeless and rotten case—and well it is that the thing running under the name of a bank is out of the way, and its sinuous business being wound up."

For a long time it has been manifested that there was a gigantic ring of smugglers at work on the Pacific coast, and it has been a matter of public shame that their operations have been so long allowed to go uninterrupted. The treasury department has made a strong effort to punish the offenders and the result of their labors so far is that the United States grand jury has returned indictments against several persons, some of whom are among the leading politicians of the state. The list embraces, among others the name of Jas. Lotan, ex-collector at Portland; Nat. Blum, a prominent democratic politician, and several lesser lights. The prosecution is determined and there seems to be no partisanship in the matter, as men of all parties are implicated.

County Court.

In the matter of money asked for by Ole Thompson, road supervisor of Road Dist. No. 45, to be used in making a ditch along the road near E. B. Fanno's house in Sec. 9, T. 15, S. R. 11, W; Petition granted and warrant ordered drawn for said amount, when ditch is completed in a manner satisfactory to the county court.

Ordered; That the county court commissioners prepare stipulations for submission to the county court of Benton county, Oregon, to govern the settlement of any and all differences or difficulties which may arise hereafter between the said county of Lincoln in relation to the collection of taxes on such property as may have been omitted by the county clerk of Benton county from a certified transcript of an assessment roll furnished by the county clerk of Benton county to the county clerk of Lincoln county in pursuance of the law, and to provide for the payment by Benton county to the proper officers of Lincoln county of such sums as may have been collected by the officers of Benton county as taxes on such property. Said stipulations were drawn and accepted as binding upon Lincoln county, by the county judge. It is ordered that the same be signed by commissioners of Lincoln county in duplicate and forwarded to the county court of Benton for acceptance and signature by the members thereof.

Ordered that a warrant be drawn on the county treasurer for the sum of $50 to pay for books that the county court ordered him to buy at the June term of said court, as per voucher No. 105, presented by said Judge, D. P. Blue.

Adjourned.

B. F. JONES,
County Clerk.

A Good Idea.

A correspondent from Monroe in this issue of the LEADER suggests that an expert be appointed to investigate the books of Hamilton, Job & Co. The idea would be a good one. A thoroughly honest expert should be hired by the defrauded depositors to make a thorough investigation of the books for at least three years back. The depositors would like to know what has become of the deposits, profits, etc., for that time. Notes of the properties turned over to the Assignee were of very recent purchase. There can be deposits amounting to nearly, if not quite $40,000 reckoned which the bank received within about a month before closing. It was asserted that the deposits had fallen off $30,000 since the first of the year. If so how much money had they on hand on the first of the year? By all means the depositors should hire an expert, and get some idea of how the thing had been running, and that should be done soon.

A. R. Shipley, a pioneer of Oregon, died at his home in Corvallis, last Friday, of heart failure.

Fire at West Yaquina.

Last Saturday morning West Yaquina was visited by a fire which destroyed two houses and came near burning two children. The fire orginated in a house owned by Mrs. Thompson, a widow lady, and occupied by Mr. Earl and family. Mr. Earl had work on the north side of the Bay and had just gone to work, and his wife accompanied him down to the end of the wharf on the south side. The fire originated during their absence, but in what manner is not known. Mr. Earl's children were left in bed in the upper room. When the children awoke the stairway was on fire and the children leaped from the upper window, which happened to be raised, into the arms of Mr. Devine, who caught them below, and fortunately both were saved. Mr. Earl saw the fire soon after it started but did not get there in time to save any of his goods and the only thing they saved were the clothes he and his wife had on, the children escaping with only their night clothes on. The other house was occupied by the owner, Mrs. Thompson, and her son-in-law, J. R. Short. They saved most of their goods except their stove. We understand that there was no insurance on either house. The two houses were all the property Mrs. Thompson had, and Mr. Earl lost all his property. A subscription was raised for the sufferers which will start them to housekeeping again on a small scale.

Big Elk Items.

Very fine weather.

News rather scarce in this part of the country.

Mrs. Mulkey is still quite low, though she is some better than she was some time ago. Mrs. Ballard from the Valley has been staying with her for some time. Dick and Dave Ballard, brothers of Mrs. Mulkey, who has been visiting her for the past week, returned home yesterday.

Geo. Mulkey made a trip out to the Vulley last week and returned, and Sunday again went out to the Valley with his uncle.

A party of young people from Big Elk and Shotpouch made a trip to the falls on the west side of Mary's peak Saturday. The party consisted of eleven of the young ladies and gentlemen of the above named places. Both schools were represented in the party, the teachers of both schools were also present. Most of the party seemed to enjoy themselves, though some did not seem to enjoy the falls they received while climbing the rocks under the falls, Frank Mulvany fell about fifteen feet alighting on one knee. He could not walk for about half an hour, and then only with difficulty he managed to get home, but he has not entirely recovered yet. George Mulkey sprained his ankle. Some of the young ladies fell over some rocks in returning down the side of the mountain, and were injured somewhat though not seriously. Most of the party were so tired they expressed themselves as never desiring to make another trip to the fall on a pleasure excursion alone. Foot sore and weary they early sought the arms of Morpheus, there to forget their toil and sorrows until the light of another day.

What is the matter with our Sabbath School and prayer meeting? Come out one and all especially those who belong to the church and show to the world that you are not dead. Preaching in the evening of the fourth Sunday by Rev. Yost. All come out.
