LOCAL NOTES.

Bonds for deeds for sale at the LEADER office.

Ed Wade is over from Salem visiting his relatives.

Hon. R. A. Bensell and wife were up from Newport last Monday.

The celebrated Parker and Snag Proof gum boots at O'Brien's, Yaquina.

Misses Nettie and Cora Mays, of Elk City are visiting friends in this place.

Assessor Parker was out to Albany on business the latter part of last week.

Senator Crosno and John Gaither were out hunting last Friday and bagged a fine 74 pound buck.

Dan Grady brought a radish into the office today that measured 13 inches on one circumference and 15 on the other.

The tug Robarts made into Newport from the Siuslaw last Saturday with only three sticks of wood left. Pretty close shave.

Rev. A. L. Hawley will preach in the old school house next Sunday at 11 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Everybody are cordially invited.

Capt. Blake's sidewalk up to the court house may not be a thing of beauty, but it is certainly a joy forever during this muddy weather.

Several of the people of Toledo and vicinity clubbed together and bought a car load of Stayton flour. They get it somewhat cheaper than Corvallis flour.

A lot of the papers of the state are trying to change the name of the Chinese pheasants to Denny pheasants. We don't believe they can make the change.

A. Thomas, the barber, and family left for Cottage Grove last Monday where they will make their future home. This leaves Toledo without a barber.

Mayor-elect Crosno states that the first council meeting will probably be held next Saturday night, when the city council will organize and be ready for business.

County Commissioner Trapp has moved with his family into his handsome residence house in this city. Toledo has room for lots of citizens of Mr. Trapp's character.

There are many scenes of rare beauty pictured on the sloping mountain sides of our country these autumn days. The frosts have changed the colorings of the leaves on the trees and shrubs, and the kaledioscopic colorings are most beautiful to behold. The rich colorings of the maple leaves are worth portrayal by any painter's pencil.

The scale house at Wulf's slaughter house near Yaquina burned last night. The house inclosed a fine pair of 6 ton scales, and was filled above with hay. It is supposed that the fire was the result of some tramp taking a night's lodging in the hay. The wind happened to be blowing away from the slaughter house, which was near, or it would have been consumed also. The property belongs to Henry Wulf, of this place.

County Clerk Jones is working quite a force in his office now. He is preparing two duplicates of the original assessment roll for 1893, one for the state board of equalization and one for the sheriff. He is also copying the delinquent roll for 1892. He expects to complete the lattter in time to turn it over to the sheriff with a warrant attached for collection the latter part of this week. The other rolls he expects to have completed about the 10th, of next month. His force of clerks are Miss Effie Crosno, Lee Wade, L. M. Starr, John Gaither and M. E. Peairs.

W. E. Rich went up to Elk City this morning on business.

Geo. Hodges, the genial postmaster at Salado, was in town today on business.

O. A. Krogstead has bought the Austin Rosebrook 80 acre tract near the rock quarry.

Ella Knotts has brought suit against her against her husband in the district court for a divorce.

Charley Miller and Judd Mays, of Elk City, came down yesterday to engage in fishing the rest of the season.

Miss Clara Duncan and Mrs. Ethel Esterbrook are at Toledo prepared to do dressmaking, and can be found at the residence of Mr. M. L. Trapp.

A bear got after a goat near Elk City the other day and party of brave hunters got after the bear. The bear got his goat but the brave hunters failed to get the bear.

The salmon run has been quite good for the past week. The nets have all been making good catches and the sportively inclined people have been having lots of fun trolling.

Dan Hurley, another one of our seal fishermen, returned last Friday. Mr. Hurley started out last January and killed while on the voyage 256 seals, netting him the neat little sum of $1,024.

The postoffice at Little Elk has been ordered removed from that place to Eddyville and Israel F. Eddy has been appointed postmaster. Mr. Eddy was down yesterday preparing his bond as such officer.

This office has turned out some very neat tax receipt books for the sheriff's office. The work will compare most favorably with similar work turned out by the Portland offices, and the price is in favor of the county.

The Linn County National bank will resume business as soon as permission can be obtained from the treasury department. The agreement made with the depositors provides for a payment of ten per cent. of the deposits on the day of opening, twenty per cent on February 1st., twenty per cent. on May 1st., twenty five per cent on November 1st., 1894, and balance on Feburay 1st. 1895, with interest on deferred payments at 6 per cent.

Papers were recorded last week in the clerk's office here which marked the closing of an important real estate in Lincoln county property. The parties to the deal were A. Bush, the well known Salem banker and Judge Lord, of the Oregon supreme court. The deal was quickly made and was a cash affair. The property was transferred from Mr. Bush to Judge Lord, and was a block of land in a summer resort, and the consideration was five cents. This did not include the delinquent taxes.

Last Saturday four Indian boys ranging in age from about ten to sixteen years, left the Agency school, where they were employed in digging potatoes and started for the Siuslaw country where one of the boys had an uncle living. They walked till they struck the river near Toledo, and that night they took O. Nelson's boat from where he had it tied up at his place and went down the river to South beach. There they left the boat and took to the trail again. Agent Buford and Indian policeman Spencer started in pursuit of the runaways and overtook them about four miles south of Alsea bay and returned with them yesterday to the agency.

Next Saturday there will be held another special school meeting to decide upon some plan to secure a term of school this winter. There are a great many in favor of voting a special tax to defray the expenses of the school. A three months' term of school seems to be the idea of many of the school patrons. This would entail a cost for teachers of about $255. The valuation of the taxable property of the district is $91,187. A five mill tax would create a fund of $455. Even should one-fourth of this go delinquent it would leave a fund of $345 or about $100 above the teacher's fund. On the other hand there are many who are opposed to voting a tax, believing that it would be too burdensome, some of whom are in favor of a subscription school, and there are still others who do not favor school at all this winter.

The Corvallis News says: At a meeting of the Marine and College bands last night arrangements were made whereby it is hoped that both bands will be able to have regular practice under efficient leadership this winter. They have secured Mr. David Rosebrooks as their leader, who will meet with the Marine band on Tuesday and Friday evenings, and the College band on Saturday afternoons. Mr. Rosebrooks is a talented gentleman and a musician of no mean ability. The fact that he played with the Alba Haywood company until it broke up and during the past winter was employed as cornetist with Corday's military band, one of the best of its kind in the state, is testimonial of his skill.

We find that the mandamus case against the superintendent of Benton county brought by Lincoln county to compel him to equally apportion the school fund is not generally understood. Our understanding of the case is this: When the taxes for 1892 were levied the two counties were, of course, still in one. The intent of the law at that time, and undoubtedly the intention of the county court when such levy was made, was to levy a tax on all the property of the county as would be sufficient to support all of the schools of the county, and it was evidently the intention of the framers of the bill that the fund thus created should be disbursed in exactly the same manner as was intended it should be when the levy was made, hence the provision of the bill that the apportionment of school funds should be made the same as though the counties had not been divided. To our mind the school funds of both counties should have been merged into one and apportioned the same as was intended when the bill creating Lincoln county was framed and passed.

Died.

HAMMOND.—At Newport, Oregon, Friday, October 14, Wm. Hammond, of Bright's disease. "Butch" Hammond, as he was generally known, was one of the old settlers of Oregon as well as of the Bay country. He was one of the brave Indian fighters of the Rogue river Indian wars years ago. He was the first white man to sell goods on the present site of Newport, and was identified with that place for many years. Honest, brave and liberal hearted, his memory will be cherished by many a person whom he has quietly helped through the adversities of life.

Country Crumbs.

Mr. Frank Stanton's new residence was finished last week and is a useful ornament to his fine ranch.

J. J. Waggoner shot a fine deer last Monday. He said it was the largest he ever saw. This makes the third deer Mr. Waggoner has shot since the open season began.

The interest in sheep raising seems to be increasing in this locality. John McCluskey has added 22 to his flock, and F. M. Stanton has also put a flock of sheep on his range, which, from a birds-eye view, we should judge numbers about 50 head.

Our genial road supervisor, L. Dunden, had a small crew of men at work on Thursday of last week repairing the bridge across the slough near Mr. Taylor's place.
