Artist and Amateur.

A critic, who was recently asked to define the line between artist and amateur, stated that an amateur's sketches were labored and finished up to invite favorable criticism, while the artist's sketches were broad and unfinished. suggesting much to himself only. Could not the dividing line be better defined? The amount of time spent on a sketch often depends upon opportu-nity. When the time is not needed elsewhere, one quite able to sketch in the boldest, most rapid style may prefer to go on and produce a picture, trusting to the inspiration of the present rather than of the future, and to vision rather than memory. If something greater is to be subsequently developed from the work, it will be no less suggestive because of its finished character.

It may not be easy to define the dividing line between artists and amateurs. but it is easy to point out a well recognized one that is identical with it-the one that is drawn between poets and mere writers of verse, -Art Amateur.

The following story, told of the late Senator Stanford, is characteristic of the man. He was always a cheerful giver. but preferred paying for work to emptying his purse. One day he found a dilapidated cab on the avenue, with a half clad man upon the seat. "Why are you standing here in the cold?" s'pects it's 'cause I'ze got too shabby, sir,'' said the man. "Do you believe that horse could carry me to the capitol?" inquired Stanford. "Yes, sir. "Try it, then," was the response. And

Edward Donnelly Saves a Life Almost at the Cost of His Own-After Years of Suffering He is Restored to Health -His Story as Told to a Reporter of

It is on record that upon a chilly April day, a few years ago, an eight-year-old boy fell into the East river at the foot of East Eighth street, New York, and when all efforts to rescue him had failed, sion or control of a veritable chain of banks all efforts to rescue him had failed, plunge and came near dying. Auburn people have known the family, his wife being Amanda Grantman and his sister Mrs. S. D. Corry of 21 Moravia street. Donnelly himself describes the resene and the result:

"I was general foreman of the F. A. Mulgrew Saw Mill, foot of Eighth street, New York, on the East river. It was on the 20th of April, 1889, that the boy fell into the river and I rescued him from drowning. At that time I was in the water so long that I was taken with a deathly chill, and soon became so stiffened up and weak that I could neither work nor walk. For some time I was under treatment of Dr. George McDonald, who said I had locomotor ataxia. He finally gave me up, and on the 1st of June, 1892, my wife and I came up to

"When the disease first came upon me the numbness began in my heels, and soon the whole of both my feet became affected. There was a cold feeling across the small of my back and downwards, and a sense of soreness and a tight pressure on the chest. The numbness gradually extended up both legs and into the lower part of my body. I felt that death was creeping up to my vitals. I was still taking the medicine ('it was iodide of potassium,' said his wife), and was being rubbed and having plasters put all over my body, but with o benefit. "I sent to the Chas, H. Sagar Company, the popular Auburn druggists and chemists, at 109 and 111 Genesee street, and got three boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and began takring them. In three weeks' time I was so improved that from being helpless, I was able to help myse'f and to get up and go to work, and to walk every day from No. 74 Walnut street, where I then lived, to Osborne's New Twine Factory, Seymour and Cottage streets—more than a mile—where I was then employed, but all the while I was taking Pink Pills.

Then Dr. Patchen of Wisconsin, an uncle of my wife, who was here on a visit, began to poo-hoo at me for taking Pink Pills, and finally persuaded me to stop taking them and let him treat me. When he returned to the West he left a prescription with Dr. Hyatt of Auburn, who also treated me. But their treatment did me no good, and after a while the old treather are treatment and treatment did me no good, and after a while the old trouble returned and I was get-ting bad again. Then I began to take Pink Pills; have taken them ever since am taking them now; have taken in all nearly twenty boxes at an entire cost of less than $10 (my other treatment cost

"If I was able, I would at my own expense publish the virtues of Dr. Will-iams' Pink Pills to the whole world, and especially in New York city, where I am much better known than I am here."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale Peo-ple without doubt mark the beginning of a more healthful era. They were first compounded by an eminent practitioner and used as a prescription for many years in general practice with almost incredible success. They are now given to the public as an unfailing blood builder and nerve restorer, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condi-tion of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill-that flesh is heir to. These pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. The pills are sold by whatever nature. The phils are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady,

When he organized his chain of Indiana banks, Dwiggins went to towns that offered favorable opportunities for opening banks and interested residents of influence, and they took part in the enterprises. It is said by state banking department officials that these banks were capitalized at from $25. 000 to $50,000 each, but were operated on the noney of depositors; that they were at first managed as private concerns, but when well established Dwiggins reorganized the banks, sold the stock and gave notes for the shares he retained for himself.

Zimri went up like a rocket and came down like the stick. He was ousted from his throne of fame and shoved through the slough of ignominy, all because one of Un-cle Sam's bank examiners thought fit to inquire into his banking methods. Protests availed naught. There wasn't enough money to carry on business, and the Columbia National bank remained closed. Then came the pathetic side of the story. Hundreds of hardworking Indianans had their last dollar in Dwiggins' country banks, and one by one these concerns went to the wall. In Chicago two or three small concerns went down with the Columbia.

it simply I who was dead? No, this was not death, not my death, for I could feel now the bursting throb of my own heart. The stillness of everything became more appalling, more terrible from the fact that I knew not what it was nor whence it came tried to shriek for help,

Not a sound would leave my lips! Another moment and I should go mad, if ah, what a thought!—if I were not mad already. This, then, was the meaning of it all. I was mad!

With a sudden leap I sprang into the middle of the room and gazed about to meet what might in my madness come to me.

Then I saw what caused the horrible hallucination. The solemn stillness, the $1,100,000, but the state department called the capital "apparent." "I have found it imperative to have pure and simple remedies on hand in case of cuts, bruises, strains, sprains, colds, rheumatism, etc. Shortly after entering upon my profession I discovered such a remedy in ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. I tried other plasters, but found them too harsh and irritating. ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS giv almost instantaneous relief, and their strengthening power is remarkable. In cases of weak back put two plasters on the small of the back and in a short time you will be capable of quite severe exercise. In "sprint" and "distance" races and jumping the muscles or tendons in the legs and feet sometimes weaken. This can invariably be relieved by cutting the plaster in narrow strips, so as to give free motion, and applying on muscles affected."

effected by very simple means, such as a horizontal grindstone. Among these the medium powders have for some time been employed in the French navy and by various navigation companies for painting the sheet iron and partitions of the insides of vessels. The effect of such coatings is said to be to considerably diminish the conductibility of the sheet iron and the vibrations so unpleasant which are produced as soon as the sea becomes a little rough. Another use for these cork powders is in the preparation of a substance called liegine, which consists of the powder mixed with fine plaster in the proportion of about 10 per cent. This liegine composition is turned out in all shapes and sizes and is stated to be specially useful as a protection alike from heat or cold, or for partitions, roofs, lofts, ceilings and coatings of all descriptions; also as packing for boilers, icehouses, conservatories, coverings for wagons, steam pipes, and similar uses -in short, for the large number of cases where it is desirable to maintain an equal temperature.—New York Sun.

It would appear that these minute flies were attracted by the lights in the saloons, and in countless millions perished.—Central Nevadan.
