Statements by other manufacturers to the contrary have been declared by the official authorities falsifications of the official reports.

ONE GIRL'S FUNERAL

It Was in the Early Days of Montana and Was Different From Most Funerals.

During the construction days of the Northern Pacific railroad many small towns were born that flourished until the road was completed and then died. The little story following actually occurred and made an impression on me that I shall never forget. To me there was a tinge of sadness that went straight to the heart. I occupied the exalted position of justice of the peace. Now, a justice of the peace in Montana in early days was a bigger man than the chief justice of the United States is today and had a perpetual variety entertainment. He married, buried, buried the dead, put out fires, took a drink with everybody, refereed dog fights, settled family rows, preached, made speeches and had to be ready for any kind of work. For this aggregation of duties he was called judge, but if he rendered a wrong decision his name was Dennis.

One cold morning I was waited upon by a delegation of gamblers and informed that one of the girls was dead. They said she had passed in her checks during the night, and as she was the slickest girl in the camp she was to have a 24 carat sendoff and no mistake. I went around to see the body to find out, if possible, the cause of her death. I was satisfied that the girl had taken morphine and died from the effects, and so I rendered my decision, which satisfied all. I set the hour for the funeral and returned to the cabin to prepare my remarks. There was not a Bible in the camp, and so I had to play it alone. It was a cold, stormy Montana winter day, and that added much to the sadness of the occasion. The grave was dug out among the pines, and a more God forsaken place it would have been hard to find, but it was the best we had or could get.

The hour arrived; the procession formed, myself in front of the pallbearers, consisting of gamblers, with the body in a rough pine box. Next came the girls of the town and the business men in the rear. We wended our way slowly to the last resting place, where, alone and unknown, amid the rocks and pines, with the awful stillness of the mountains, all that was earthly of that unfortunate girl would stay until the last day.

No one could pray; no one could sing. I poured out my soul to my God in my poor, stumbling way—told him all about it. We were unanimous in the belief that she was more sinned against than sinning, and would be in his infinite goodness and loving kindness forgive her, wipe out all the black spots on her soul, forget her past and save her for herself, and that she would spend all her soul, throw open wide the portals of heaven, have sweet music played on a thousand golden harps and bid that poor, tired, sin stained soul enter the realms of happiness, purity and rest?

It was our funeral, because everybody did all they could. There were but few of all kinds, to be sure, but humans with souls to save. There are many of the old boys scattered through the northwest who will recollect that stormy Montana day, and how we knocked at eternity's door for admittance for that girl's soul, and all will agree that our knocking was not in vain—that the gates were thrown open and forgiveness and rest came to her.—Orting Oracle.

Blindness Not Necessary.

Simkins was speaking about his visit to the blind asylum, and he wound up by saying what fun it would be to have some of the blind men as fellow boarders. "It would be rich," he said, "to see a cup of hot water before them and to put them gravely drink it, supposing it tea or coffee." "Awfully funny," said Mrs. Simkins. Then she thought and abruptly concluded by remarking, "Mr. Simkins, you're a fool."—Pick Me Up.

THE WOMAN'S SIDE NOW

Mrs. Buffum's Version of the Buffum-Wetmore Scandal.

SAYS SHE DID NOT BUY THE BABY.

Neither Did She Inveigle the Doctor Into Matrimony, but Supplied Him With Money and Sent Him to Europe—Like the Roy Hamilton Case.

HE Buffum-Wetmore case, involving a romantic marriage, a divorce, a matrimonial difficulty and a "boughten baby," which was duly exploited in the sensational newspapers a year ago, will soon resume its place in the list of current scandals. A commissioner will presently commence taking evidence in the divorce suit in New York city, and developments are awaited with interest by a good many prominent people of New York and Pittsburgh. The principals in the case are best known to those cities, although Mrs. Buffum had an interesting career in the south some years ago.

It is noteworthy that in all the columns which have been printed about the case not one word of the woman's side has been presented. Hitherto she has refused to say anything about the series of events and the attacks made upon her, but she yielded to the blandishments of a New York World reporter the other day, and the following story is the result:

Dr. Frank E. Buffum is the son of a brewer in Pittsburgh. He lived in the house kept by Mrs. Eva Wetmore at 242 West Twenty-third street while pursuing his medical studies in New York. According to his story, Mrs. Wetmore is much older than he, but she was wheedled into loving and finally into marrying him. Then, in order to more firmly hold him, she palmed off a baby as her own. He became suspicious and employed a private detective to look into her history, and thus discovered that she was an adventuress. In many features the story resembled that of Eva Roy Hamilton.

With the early history of Mrs. Buffum, or Mrs. Wetmore, as she is better known in New York, this story has nothing to do. There is no possible doubt of her right to the name of Mrs. Buffum. The Buffums admit that. She says that she was born on a steamer while her parents were coming to this country, and that she has high connections abroad. She says further that her relatives are rich. She was married to an officer in the United States army when she was 14 years old and had a son by him, who died about two years ago.

For three years Mrs. Buffum, or Mrs. Wetmore, as she was then, had the houses at 240 and 242 West Twenty-third street. One of the houses she sublet furnished to a family. The other house she occupied herself and rented furnished rooms. Frank Buffum came to her house for the first time in the spring of 1891. He got a letter from his brother Joseph, in Chicago, asking him to come out there and assist him in his work. Frank did not go out, as he wanted to finish his course in the college. About April he started for Chicago. He remained there until June. Then he and his brother started, and Frank went to Pittsburgh to assist his father in the bottling business. I remained in New York. Frank wrote loving letters to me every day, giving me constant advice about the approaching event, to which he referred constantly.

"The baby was born July 13, 1892. Frank was then in Pittsburgh. I received the most loving letters from him and from his mother. They wanted me to go out there and live with them. I said I would go out as soon as I was able. I reached for the baby, and while everything was lovely. Then the jealousy of Frank's mother began to make trouble. She and Frank were together all the time. After while he paid little attention to me. I could not understand the relation between Frank and his mother. Once he had told me that she was not his real mother.

"Our life flowed along peacefully and pleasantly for five months. Then, according to Mrs. Buffum, began a series of cruel persecutions by all the members of her husband's family, which finally forced her to leave Pittsburgh and return to New York. Then the doctor began an action for divorce.

Mrs. Buffum weighs only 90 pounds. She says when she married Buffum she weighed 130 pounds. In her youth she must have been a handsome woman. She says she is only 39, and she also says she looks 15 years older, which is the truth. The baby, Joseph Frank Peabody Buffum, is handsome and sturdy and bright. This baby plays a most important part in this case. In the suit for divorce Buffum declares that his wife bought the baby and palmed it off on him. He insists that he knew nothing about it until a short time before it was born. He has said that he has discovered the woman from whom the baby was secured.

"I have said nothing in answer to these charges," said Mrs. Buffum. "My time will come when the case is called in court. It will be proved by the physician who brought the baby into the world. Because I have kept silent they think I cannot prove this. They will discover their blunder when the physician goes upon the stand."

A Costly Ton of Coal.
On Jan. 10, 1799, 13 men brought a wagon with a ton of coal from Loughborough in Leicestershire, to London, as a present to the then Prince of Wales. When they were emptied into the cellar, the clerk of the cellars gave them 4 guineas, and as soon as the prince was informed of it his highness sent them 20 guineas and ordered them a pot of beer each. They performed their journey, which is 111 miles, in 11 days, and drew the coal all the way without any relief.—London Tit-Bits.

The law requires Albany saloons to close at a certain hour. The excuse of one violator, charged with keeping open all night, was that his brother had gone out of town, taking the keys with him, and he could not lock up.

A Lost Fisherman's Story.

"I had been fishing for trout one day in a North Carolina mountain stream, and was a sportsman, and was entirely unsuccessful. Upon trying to reach camp I became lost and took refuge for the night in a small cave near Grandfather mountain. The cave was dry and comfortable, and making a pillow of my coat I soon fell asleep. The next morning I was awakened by something pulling at the coat, and opening my eyes saw that it was a cub bear."

"A few feet distant was a large bear sitting on its haunches and another cub playing around her. I had no weapon of any kind and was completely at the mercy of the animal, but she was not in the humor to dispose of me just then. She sat watching the cub as it pulled at my coat, and I was careful to make no motions that might be considered as hostile. For two or three hours we looked at each other, and then the mother bear ambled off with her two cubs, and I beat a hasty retreat."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Pleasant Man to Interview.

Professor Felix Adler, the founder of the Ethical Culture society, is a most pleasant gentleman to interview. He says that he has found the newspaper man to be honorable in the highest degree, and that he has never found it necessary to indicate what part of his conversation is intended for publication and what part is to be considered as purely personal. This of course means that Professor Adler does not limit himself in an interview to the matter directly in hand. He is not unwilling to speak of things that are entirely too personal for publication and will give an elaborate discourse on metaphysics to his interviewer and not express the least shade of doubt as to its being correctly put down.—Chicago Post.

CROSSING THE ATLANTIC

Usually involves seasickness. When the waves pitch and toss with you, stomach indeed must be the stomach that can stand it without vomiting. Tourists, commercial travelers, sea-men, mariners, all testify that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the best remedy for the nausea experienced in rough weather on the water. Nervous and weak travelers by land often suffer from something akin to this, and find in the Bitters a sure remedy. No disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels is so obstinate that it may not be overcome by the prompt and thorough remedy. Equally effective in cholera, fever, kidney and rheumatic trouble, and nervousness. Emigrants to the frontier should provide themselves with this powerful and safe safeguard against the effects of vicissitudes of climate, hardship, exposure and fatigue.

DR. FRANK E. BUFFUM.

We were married, he told the minister he was 40 years old, and that is what appears in my marriage certificate, now in my possession. His face shows that he is more than 30, and it did at that time.

"After the marriage we went home, and we lived along pretty much as we did before. For months we had a happy time. A COMMON-SENSE HOUSEKEEPER.

No one is better qualified to speak in regard to what is useful in family life than Marion Harland. In her popular and valuable book, "Eve's Daughters or Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother," on pages 103 and 445 she says:

"For the aching back—should it be allowed to recover its normal strength—an Allocco's Pains-Plaster is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for perhaps a fortnight.

"For pain in the back wear an Allocco's Pains-Plaster constantly, renewing as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant." BRADNORTH'S PILLS are safe to take at any time.

BOYS AND GIRLS OF AMERICA.

Why is it that to-day in America we step from our institutions of learning to be denied an honest opportunity of earning a living? Is it possible we have no field for our intelligent efforts? Are we to be content with an unsuccessful life? Are our parents and instructors to blame? We must unite in our determination not to fail the victims of our pirates and American traitors. A small book, dedicated to the boys and girls of America, entitled "Of What Use is Your Education?" will tell you fully what we are contending with. You will never regret ordering a copy through your stationer or sending 25 cents for same by return mail to the author and publisher, CARLISLE MERILEY, 1150 Broadway, New York City, N. Y.

To build up both solid flesh and strength after grip, pneumonia, fevers and other prostrating diseases, there is nothing to equal Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

PROSTRATION FOLLOWING GRIP.

Mrs. HEUBEN GARRETT writes: "I was taken with grip which finally resulted in pneumonia. I was prostrated for three months. Had a terrible cough and was emaciated and very weak. Was fast drifting into 'quick consumption.' The doctor gave me medicines all winter, but they did me no good. He advised me to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took two bottles of it and in two weeks I was able to get up, and felt I had been saved from the grave. I increased rapidly in flesh and strength."
