Interesting Bits of News Taken from all sources.

Assessor Sterling says that he found out, while in Salem attending the assessors' convention, that the Supreme Judges were alike in state to assessors in county—inadequately paid.—Drain Herald.

One of the heaviest wind and snow storms ever experienced in Northern Grant county is reported. About 2 o'clock in the night the people generally were aroused from their slumbers, and so terrific was the wind that many sought safety in stronger buildings, cellars, etc. However, when the light of the day appeared, no damage was done except to fencing.

A Swiss statistician has taken the trouble to count the number of steps he took in walking during a whole year. The number he finds to have been 9,760,000, or an average of 26,740 steps a day. Going still further into details, he declares that over 600,000 of these steps were taken in going up and down stairs. On an average he estimates that he walked nearly ten miles a day in order to bring about these results.

Mary Peco, an Indian woman who claims a little farm down Rogue river, has at last a title for her land, but it is not perfect. Her deed, signed by Grover Cleveland, is a trust deed, and provides that patent absolute shall not issue for 25 years. Mary and her heirs can hold and cultivate the land till then. It is in effect the establishment of a small Indian reservation under government protection during the term of her disability.

Last Friday morning, while engaged in clearing a grain chute, Abner C. Simpson lost his footing, falling a distance of fifteen feet, striking directly upon the head, causing concussion of the brain. He was picked up unconscious and conveyed to his home, where he died in the afternoon from the effects of his injuries. It was found that the skull was fractured at the base of the brain. The deceased was working in a mill run by his father, George F. Simpson, a well-known citizen of Albany.

Not a hundred miles from Albany live a religious class of people who are very austere in their religious belief. Among their religious tenets is one forbidding the use of tobacco. One of the members of this religious body who, before becoming a member, was an inveterate user of tobacco, was visiting a neighbor when the neighbor said to him "I see you do not use tobacco any more." The man answered in the most earnest manner: "No, I do not use it any more. I became convinced that I must quit it or lose my soul's salvation and thought it best to choose the less of two evils."—Albany Democrat.

Last Wednesday, in his argument for the Nicaraguan canal, Senator Morgan (of Alabama) said it was the most important measure that had been before a legislative body in this country or any other for fifty years. In the course of his speech he gave descriptive details of the physical features of the canal enterprise, demonstrating that the difficulties were only such as could be readily overcome by modern engineering methods. Senator Morgan thinks this canal will be one of the great agencies which eventually will transfer the seat of commercial enterprise from the Eastern to the Western hemisphere, and place the United States at the head of the commerce of the world.

It is rumored that the Spokanites are going to purchase the Ada Rehan silver statue and coin it into silver dollars which they will distribute free, and thus insure the free coinage of silver.—Walla Walla Statesman.

No part of the world is better for growing flax than our Northwest Pacific states. It should become one of our great crops. In the differentiation of agricultural industry, flax and tobacco should have leading places. Application and skill will open the way.

John Clark, a full-blooded Chippewa Indian, was ordained deacon in the Methodist church at Duluth, Wis., recently. He is the only Indian member of the Minnesota conference. He has been engaged in church work many years and does his preaching in the Chippewa language.

The people along the Simlaw river are building wharves at the beat landing. There is also a movement on foot to build a long wharf on the Glenade side of the river, to cost about $2,500. The shipping business of that river is now becoming extensive, and the people are awakening to its needs.

A Kansas printer in making up the forms one day got a marriage and grocer's notice mixed up so as to read as follows: "John Smith and Ida Qua were united in the bonds of holy sour kraut, which will be sold by quart or barrel. Mr. Smith is an esteemed codfish at ten cents while the bride has nice pig's feet to display."

P. W. Schenck, who has large interests in Montana, is in Portland, and tells of an acquaintance of his buying 1000 range horses in Fergus, Montana, for $3 a head, killing them, boiling the meat in a huge caldron and using it to feed a large number of hogs on his ranch. The ranchman claims he will get more for his hogs than he would if he had invested the amount he paid for the horses in corn.

The Seattle Telegraph has been absorbed by the Post-Intelligencer and now Seattle is without a democratic newspaper. Hundred of thousands of dollars has been expended in the effort to give the democrats of this state a first class newspaper and the Telegraph filled the bill but those who should have assisted it failed to connect. It will be many a year before we see another democratic newspaper like the Telegraph.

From several sources that seem reliable it is learned that there will be a very large immigration to Oregon during the next year or two. A Nebraska editor, who has been in the state several weeks, says there are thirty families on the road headed for Oregon, and that between 400 and 500 families from his section of Nebraska will also start to find homes in the Northwest. Now, these people should be treated right. The man who attempts to create a speculative boom and to swindle these immigrants by selling them town lots off in some swamp or mountain addition deserves to be drummed out of the state. These people are not going to pay big, fancy prices for land; if such are asked they will go back disgusted and check the tide of immigration setting this way; but if good lands are offered them at reasonable prices and they are given fair and advantageous business opportunities, they will stay and send for others. Never before was it so necessary for Oregon land owners, capitalists and business men to be not only honest and hospitable, as we know they are, but also liberal and far-sighted.—Ex.
