LOCAL NOTES

For Men's, Boys' and Misses' Straw Hats go to O'Briens.

Editor Matthews, of the Newport News, was in Toledo yesterday.

Capt. John A. Olsson passed through Toledo on his way to his farm above Elk City last Tuesday.

C. H. Young, of Nashville, has a contract to cut 50 cords of wood for O. R. Altree. He is now at work on the job.

Dan Hurley and Charley Don Castor will run a confectionery store and a ladies' whist parlor in Newport this summer.

We understand that Troy Maye intends opening a saloon in Elk City. He will run under a government license for a time.

O'Brien's Spring and Summer Stock is the most complete ever shown in this county. Call and see for yourself.

Tom Fish is trying to drive a well at his residence in this city. Tom has a handsome place but has been unfortunate in getting water.

Henry Burns, Joe Turnadge and Lee Cromer left last Saturday for Siskiyou county, California, where they expect to work this summer.

J. H. McNeil, the Pioneer merchant, was down last Monday making final settlement in the estate of Alvira L. McNeil, of which he was administrator.

W. C. Sheppard, the merchant, postmaster and attorney of Stanford on the Alsea Bay, was up to Toledo Monday on business in connection with the Peter Eckman estate.

F. E. Collins, the head man of the type-setting staff of this office, is on the sick list this week and the editor has to get in and set type just like he used to before he made his big pile of wealth speculating in potatoes on subscription.

We are informed that our friend John McCluskey sold his wool clip for this season to Albany parties for 11 cents per pound. This is quite an advance over what was obtained for wool over last year. With wool at 11 cents and sheep at from $2 to $3 per head, the sheep business in Lincoln county is not a failure by any manner of means.

The S. P. makes a rate of 8 cents for a ten gallon can of milk from Jefferson to the Albany creamery and returns the cans free of charge. For a haul of about the same distance, from Elk City to Toledo, the O. C. & E. wants 20 cents for ten gallons. This is a difference of a little over a cent a gallon in favor of the Albany creamery. And yet Mr. Hammond told us that he would do everything reasonable to help out our creamery. Mr. Hammond must be something of a joker.

The tug Walluski is in trouble again. Last Monday when she got to Newport Collector Ball seized her for running without a license. It seems that the inspectors had satisfactorily passed the Walluski at the last inspection, but the owner, O. R. Altree, had failed to make application and secure the proper license. After Mr. Ball had seized the vessel he telegraphed to Portland for instructions and was told to release the boat on $1,000 bonds pending the trial in the U. S. court. The boat was placed in the charge of S. A. Logan until the bonds were completed, and was allowed to go on with her work. It was probably an oversight or carelessness on the part of the owner of the boat in not securing the license before, but it will probably cause him to add $75 or $100 to his experience account.

Jas. Gaither was over from the the Siletz yesterday.

M. L. Trapp is doing the cripple act with a lame back this week.

Dr. Jennings was up from Newport yesterday helping Mr. Kroeger make proof.

Chas. Kroeger made proof on his homestead near Waldport, yesterday before County Clerk Jones.

Commissioner Williams has been attending the United States jury at Portland, but came in Tuesday evening to attend county court.

Jas. McDonald and Lefe Pepin, of Chitwood, and Jim Hamar and Z. S. Derrick, of Nashville, were down on business before the county court yesterday.

Commissioner J. J. Bristow is attending county court this week. He informs us that there is every prospect for a fine fruit crop in his neighborhood this year.

The past few days have had a good effect on the strawberry crop. The sunshine is ripening them up and is imparting to them a color and a flavor that the cloudy weather denied to them.

Mrs. D. C. Rosebrooks arrived from Portland Tuesday evening and will spend the summer with her folks at this place. She says that the summer is already commencing.

last Friday evening taking the minister and his family by surprise. After enjoying themselves socially for a couple of hours, the friends departed for their homes, leaving substantial tokens of their esteem, among which was a pound of "pay dirt," from the famous mine of "A Cheerful Giver." No one enjoyed the evening more than did Rev. Potter and his wife.

Uncle Jimmy Collins, of Waldport, was up yesterday as a witness for Mr. Kroeger in his final proof. While in town he gave us a short call, and quarreled with us on politics for a little while. We finally agreed to disagree and parted without bloodshed. In consideration of our peaceful parting we agreed not to say anything about his attempt to drown a lady down on the Alsea the other day. Uncle Jim says that it was an accident and that he did not even know the lady was trying to stand up in the till he heard her go "plunk" into the water head first. He says that he helped her out, and as he wants it kept secret we will not say a word about it.

Tuesday evening the county clerk received from Judge Fullerton his decision in the case of C. M. Grady vs. Alonzo Dundon, et al. It will be remembered that this is a controversy arising over a short piece of road leading leading from the railroad track to low water on Depoe slough, in Toledo. A hearing was had in the case over a year and a half ago before the county court and Alonzo Dundon, as supervisor, was ordered to remove the obstructions from the road. These obstructions were two frame buildings belonging to C. M. Grady, wife of Dan Grady. Mrs. Grady sued out a temporary injunction restraining the supervisor from removing or otherwise molesting the buildings. The case was tried before J. Fred Yates as referee who found for the defendant, the county, both as to the law and facts. The plaintiff, Mrs. Grady, through Judge Huford her attorney, filed a motion to set aside the findings of the referee, and the decision upon this motion is the one just rendered by Judge Fullerton, he having had the matter under advisement since last November. The decision affirms the findings of the referee, and dissolves the temporary restraining order, and adjudges that the plaintiff must pay the costs of this action. These costs will probably amount to about $85 all told. It is rumored that Mrs. Grady will take an appeal to the supreme court.

Supt. Bethers made an official to the Elk City school last Monday.

S. S. Jeffreys has moved from Corvallis to Portland, where he will practice law in the future. He left Corvallis last Monday.

The lightest school in the county is probably at West Yaquina. Supt. Bethers visited the school at that place last Friday and found a total enrollment of three pupils.

The supreme court has set the time for hearing the O. P. appeal on June 18, 1894. It is reasonable to suppose that a decision will be handed down some time this month.

Word reaches here that Max Friendly shot and seriously, and perhaps fatally, wounded Garret Long at Corvallis today. We did not learn the particulars of the shooting. Friendly is jail.

There will be a strawberry festival and dance given in Toledo Thursday evening, June 13, 1895, under the auspices of Do Good Rebekah lodge. The proceeds will be used for the purchase of regalia.

A stag gored a couple of horses pretty badly in Tillotsons pasture on the Kennedy place last Sunday night. They were both gored on the point of the shoulder and one of them on the side also. One of the horses belongs to Tillotsons and the other to Lester Waugh. Both horses will probably recover.

The farmers of Lincoln county should do like the farmers around Vancouver, Washington. Nearly every farmer there carries some clover seed in his pockets and when he comes to a bare place, or a place that has been slashed and burnt scatter some clover seed. The result is that the whole country is getting set in clover.

The Post, of this place, stated last week that a case of diptheria existed in the family of Mrs. Olsen, at Mill creek. This was absolutely untrue, and the editor of the Post could have easily found it out had he tried. Diptheria is a terrible disease, and such a publication as the Post made is reprehensible, to say the least. We only hope that he wont run small pox and yellow fever in on us before the summer is over.

The Creamery company have their books for last month balanced up and the farmers' pay roll made out. The books show that there were 66,384 pounds of milk received during the month, and out of this was manufactured 2,785 pounds of butter. The pay roll for milk foots up $4,341.18, and the cash is on hand to settle promptly with the farmers promptly on pay day, which is on the 10th.

There was quite a ripple on the surface of the creamery business last Saturday, caused by the reduction made in the price of milk, rendered necessary by the low prices of butter. After discussing the matter for a considerable time the difficulty was solved by the farmers agreeing to pay the creamery four cents per pound for the manufacture of the butter, and do as they please with the butter. A little over two thousand pounds of milk per day was signed to be delivered till the first of October. The creamery is now receiving about 2,500 pounds of milk per day at present.

And it came to pass that there was a certain man who talked very much with his mouth, and went and spoke in loud tones even unto the men of the various tribes gathered in the streets of the city to buy and to sell. Now it came to pass that as two men were talking, one of whom was known as Benjamin and the other called only John, that this man with a mouth spoke, even when it was not his turn. Then did the Benjaminite become very wroth, and shed his raiment, and I would have tain smote him hip and thigh, but he who talked would not go into battle, but fled even unto the hills which lie over against the Ollala. And thus endeth the parable.

It is further proposed and agreed by the court that they will cause to be delivered all lumber and hardware necessary to build a bridge across said slough, provided that the citizens along and in the vicinity of said road shall perform all labor and build and complete said bridge at their own expense.

The Corvallis Times says: "Appropos of the hullabaloo raised by Portland papers over the conviction of Lotan and Seid Back, the statement of a Corvallis man who served on the juries that convicted Dunbar, Mulkey and Bannon is pertinent. He regards the conviction of Lotan and Seid Back as just, and says, 'Not only are all those whose names have been mentioned rotten to the core, but there are fifty others who are equally guilty with them.' He declares stoutly that while he served on one jury last summer that deliberate attempts were made to bribe him, and has proof to substantiate his statement to that effect if necessary. He made no fuss about the attempt because he shrank from being the bull's-eye in a sensation. We have a man in Lincoln county that served on one jury thata great many people think could recite some very interesting and racy matter if he could be induced to talk."
