SAFETY ON THE WATER.

The Inspector's Department's Claim of Efficient Work.

Nearly 700,000,000 people carried on American steamers during the last fiscal year and only 285 lives lost, of whom but 96 were passengers, is the prominent feature of the new annual report of Supervising Inspector General Dumont of steam vessel inspection service. This is a smaller mortality among the same number of people, we have no doubt, than if they had all staid at home and went regularly to bed, to say nothing of traveling by rail. It proves again what we have often remarked—that travel by American steamers under the system of inspection now enforced is the safest that could possibly be devised. Thirty-five of the 96 passengers above referred to lost their lives in one disaster—the sinking of the tugboat James D. Nicol off Sandy Hook on a Sunday in June last, and General Dumont states that this disaster was solely due to the fact that the tug was being navigated by a person wholly inexperienced.

It is further stated in the report that of the nearly 11,000 boilers inspected accidents causing the loss of life have occurred to but 15 of them, defects in upward of 700 being detected and remedied; also that of 100,374 new life preservers examined only 64 were found deficient. This statement shows that as great care is taken in the inspection of equipments to prevent disaster as in the machinery employed to run them and the men who man them. In regard to the latter no less than 33 applicants for master's and pilot's licenses were rejected during the year on account of color blindness, although 1,544 passed the tests. All of which goes to show that the traveling public and the steam vessel fraternity as well have every reason to repose confidence in the inspection system as at present managed.—Marine Journal.

DANGER IN PERFECTION.

A Prince and a Baron Imitated a Stag Up to the Killing Point.

It would be difficult to find on record a stranger hunting adventure than that experienced by Prince Hohenlohe, son of the German chancellor, and Baron Vietinghoff recently. They went out together to shoot stags and agreed to decoy the animals by imitating their call on a special horn. The hunters separated, each accompanied by a gamekeeper, and went in different directions. During the course of the day they approached each other, and each heard the other's decoy call and believed a stag was before him. Imitating the heavy steps of the animal, they noisily drew still nearer. The imitation of the steps and call was so well done that they finally arrived within ten paces of each other without perceiving their mistake.

The thicket was so dense that they could not see through it. Both stood still, repeating the challenge from time to time. Each still firmly believed that he was within a few paces of a real stag. At last the prince, tired of waiting, fired three rapidly in the direction of the supposed game. The first bullet glanced off the cartridge belt of Baron Vietinghoff, the second struck his watch and sprang off, the third fell dead from his pocketbook well filled with papers. The young baron, though hit three times, stood unwounded. He was so convinced that not his fellow hunter, but a stag, was before him that he attributed the shots to the explosion of cartridges in his belt and busied himself unfastening his belt for the purpose of throwing it away. The astonishment of both when they at last found out what had happened was great.—Berlin Special.

COMPETING WITH CHICAGO.

Norway Making Arrangements to Supply London With Mutton.

London will shortly have the advantage of another meat supply—this time from Norway—which, according to the London Telegraph, is perfecting arrangements for supplying the English metropolis with as much mutton, alive or dead, as it can spare for exportation. Systematic experiments were made recently under the supervision of the Stavanger Agricultural society, and the results were so satisfactory that in the approaching cold season it is to be repeated on a larger scale.

It appears that 80 sheep, each weighing about 100 pounds, were fattened for a week or so until they turned the scale at from 115 pounds to 123 pounds. They were then shipped to London, where they realized an average price, after deducting commission, of about $7.50, and as the total outlay had only been about $6.50 per head there was a net profit of nearly $1 on each animal.

Forty were also sent over with the skins, hoofs and interior intact, but on these three was an average loss of 10 shillings per head, partly explained by the skins being damaged through bad packing.

Nevertheless the Stavanger society has come to the conclusion that the business promises to be remunerative, and the English people have thus an additional guarantee of an adequate supply of mutton.

In England there are 114 widows to every 54 widowers. In Italy their relative numbers (per 1,000 women and 1,000 men) are 135 and 60, in France 130 and 73, in Germany 130.5 and 50, in Australia 121 and 44.

There can be no excuse for a small yield of milk and butter in the Northwest this winter, because there is the finest hay crop that there has been for years, the larger portion of which will be put away in good condition. There were a few who cut their hay early that had it injured by the late rains, but these cases were not plentiful.—Northwest Pacific Farmer.

Indian Agent Brentano, of Grand

Ronde, says that the Indian citizens in Yamhill and Polk counties will cost the respective counties at least $10,000 each per year. The Indians' lands which are allotted to them in severalty by the government are not taxable, hence the only thing the Indian citizens can be taxed on is their personal property. They are also liable to the state for poll tax and road work. The infirm and pauper Indians who have become citizens will become county charges. The government made a good bargain when it conferred the right of citizenship upon the Indians, but Yamhill and Polk counties only added a lot of expense, Mr. Brentano says that the U. S. Supreme Court holds that the Indians cannot lawfully be given liquor.—Sheridan Sun.

A county superintendent at a recent session of the county institute

asked every teacher present who took their local paper to hold up their hands. Out of 100 present but 6 responded, at which he expressed great surprise, and said: "You don't spend $1 a year with these papers, and yet you expect them to print, free of charge, notices of institutes, insert long programmes of same, print reports of what you say and do on these occasions, and thus expect them to advertise you and your abilities in your profession, thus assisting you to climb the ladder to better positions and better salaries without a cent's patronage in return. Your conduct in this matter would lead me, were I the editor of one of these papers, to promptly throw into the waste basket any communication sent me by a society, the members of which were too proud or too stingy to take my paper, or if I inserted it, to demand full advertising rates for every line published." That superintendent takes a just view of the matter. But it is not only the teachers that act that way, but societies, churches, etc. They wish to give an entertainment of some description in order to raise money. The job printer is paid for posters, draymen for hauling, the merchant for what he furnishes, rent is paid for the hall in fact everybody is paid but the newspaper, which does more to make the affair, whatever it may be, a success, than all else. And the people and societies who have thus received many dollars worth of free advertising do not even have the courtesy to thank the editor for his work, or show in any manner that they appreciate what the paper has done for them.—Ex.

A Jap Suicides.

Last Tuesday morning one of the Japs who had been working on the section at Yaquina got tired of his earthly career. He therefore proceeded to "shuffle off this mortal coil" by going to the old bunk house and tying one end of a rope to his neck and the other to a beam and quietly choked himself to death. When discovered the balls of his feet were resting on the floor. Squire Parker, acting as coroner, summoned a jury which investigated the death, and returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death by his own act. It is supposed that his rash act was the result of despondency, caused by illness and an inability to pay his debts.

Crop-Weather Bulletin.

We glean the following from the weekly weather report:

"The grain crops are in fine condition. Spring grain would, of course, be benefited by rain, but the absence of rain will do no material injury. Fall sown wheat and oats headed, and bear promise of heavy yields. In Jackson county the grain crop promises well, though it appears to be poorer in that county than in any other, this fact being due to the absence of rain. Jackson county is a fruit county, and but little more grain than what is required for home consumption is grown.

Early cherries have been marketed, and the later cherries are now coming in. Rain would seriously injure the cherry crop at the present time. The first cherries were a heavy crop, and those now coming in will yield unusually well—but then, cherries always yield heavily in Oregon.

Black and raspberries are ripe. There is possibly no more prolific article of food grown in Oregon than these berries. They always do well; no matter what the climatic conditions may be, the berry crop is always large.

The fruit outlook continues to be encouraging. The apple, pear, plum and prune trees are loaded with fruit. The peach trees are filled, as well. There are fewer insects this year than formerly, and where they do appear greater efforts are made to eradicate them than ever before. The fruit crop is beyond the period of damage from climatic conditions, hence it can quite safely be assumed that a successful fruit season is assured. Potatoes and vegetation of all kinds promise very large returns.

The climatic conditions today are such that for Western Oregon no rain is probable this week. That the temperature will increase from Wednesday, and warm weather prevail the remainder of the week. Another cool period will most likely occur from next Sunday.
