Capt. J. A. Olsson paid in a good round sum to the county for taxes last week. Mr. Olsson is one of the heaviest resident tax payers in the county, and he is a prompt payer, too. Mr. Olsson's taxes never get delinquent.

C. L. Gowell, Wm. Bogue, Wm. Alexander, Ira Wade, J. F. Stewart, A. O. Krogstad, C. B. Crosno and E. J. Davis went to Albany to attend the district convention Tuesday. The two latter and R. A. Bensell were delegates from this county. From Albany they went to Portland to attend the state convention.

Much interest is being taken in the artichoke just now as a cheap feed for hogs, and not a few are using them as feed for cattle. The economical feeder is the one that makes the money and as artichokes are a cheap feed the raisers of them are on the right road to prosperity. Do not raise with the expectation of selling but feeding.—N. W. Pac.

A subscription paper is being circulated asking donations to build a road from West Yaquina to connect with the road at head of Wrights creek. The list is headed by the Hon. Lafayette Y. Wilson, who puts his name down for $200. We have nothing whatever to say against the road. That is one thing that the county needs and can't get too much of, but if the whole thing is like Lafe Wilson's $200 subscription it is a confidence game, pure and simple. Lafe Wilson hasn't got $200, and we doubt very much if he has $2.00 to put into a road, or anything else. In their efforts to build a road we wish them success, but if they think the people will bite on Lafe Wilson's $200 bait they are mistaken. The people of Lincoln county know Lafe.

Glen Items.

The weather is rather moist and warm in our part of the country, but these conditions are favorable to the rapid growth of vegetation.

Cattle on the range are looking well and will soon be fat enough for beef.

Petitions? Well yes a few, only five petitions and remonstrances were presented to the county court from Drift creek yesterday, April 8, but we have not yet learned the disposition made of all of them.

The edict has gone forth "STRAIN PLATE JUSTICE" will henceforth be administered to erring mortals on Drift creek and vicinity. Take warning all ye people who have failed to please all, though you have tried.

J. Banks, W. D. Griffith, C. M. Brown, C. Brown, Irven Holbrook and Wm. Reidy were county seat callers from Drift creek yesterday. Our petition for a bridge across Big Elk at Salado failed to connect somehow, there must have been a traitor in camp.

Some garden stuff has been planted and some oats sown in the last few days.

Warm sunbiny weather is needed.

HERMANN IS DEFEATED!

Thirty-four Ballots Taken to Bring About This Result.

Albany, Or., April 8.—Special to the LEADER.—The republican congressional convention of the 1st Oregon district is past and gone, and with it went the political ascendancy of Binger Hermann's star. The fight was a long and hard one but it finally prevailed.

The delegates and lobbyists began to gather as early as Sunday. By Monday's trains most of the delegates were on the ground, only a few coming in on convention day.

The candidates were Hon. Binger Hermann, Thos. H. Tongue, of Washington county, Tilton Ford, of Marion, H. B. Miller, of Josephine, and Warren Truitt, of Polk. The fight speedily settled itself into a fight of the field against Hermann.

At a caucus held before the convention it was determined by the anti-Hermann forces to stand solid against Hermann until a break was made in Hermann's forces, and this program was duly carried out.

The convention was called to order at 3 o'clock by Thos. Tongue, and the first contest of the convention occurred in the temporary organization of the house. The anti-nominated O. H. Irvine, of Yamhill, and the Hermann followers nominated J. H. McClung, of Lane. A division of the house showed 62 for Irvine and 49 for McClung, and the anti organized the house without further opposition. The usual committees were appointed and the convention took a recess of one half hour.

After recess the committees made their reports which were adopted without opposition, the temporary organization being made permanent.

Nominations for congress being then in order the friends of the candidates named above placed their names before the convention. On the first ballot the vote stood Hermann 55; Tongue 38, Ford 18, Truitt 11, Miller 10. This was Hermann's high water mark. From this he dropped gradually to 40 on the 6th ballot. This vote he held, never going lower and sometimes going as high as 49 until the 34th ballot when a break was made in his strength sufficient to nominate Thos. H. Tongue, of Washington county, and the hard fight for the congressional nomination was over. Great jubilation appeared among the opposition and equal despondency among the Hermannites.

The convention was a good natured, disorderly outfit. The chair frequently appealed for order which came not. Ballot box stuffing was a marked part of the convention, nearly one third of the time there being more votes cast than there were voters in the convention.

Considerable soreness prevails in the Hermann camp, and it will probably be not all gone by the time election day rolls around.

One of the amusing things of the convention was the attempt of E. E. McKinney to make a speech in favor of Ford. He had his speech carefully written out and committed to memory, but when he got fairly started he forgot it like some awkward school boy. Three times he tried to repeat it, and finally put his manuscript in the hands of a friend to prompt him, but it was useless. With a wild grab and a stagger he gave it up and set down amid the whoops and yells of the convention.
