

Free Course of Study by Correspondence.

To meet the needs of large numbers of people both old and young who live in remote sections of the country or in places where the schools are not advanced, the University of Oregon has made arrangements to conduct a four year's course of study by correspondence. The plan is to make this course entirely free, except a small charge which will cover the actual expenses. This charge will be in the form of a small sum for each lesson sent out. It will not exceed what is actually paid out for postage and clerical work in conducting the course. Students will be expected to order their text-books either through local dealers or from Portland book stores. It is hoped that large numbers of people will avail themselves of this opportunity to do this kind of work under competent guidance. It is also hoped to interest the press of the state in the undertaking so that it may become widely known. The course will be divided into five departments of study—English literature, Latin, history and civics; mathematics and science. Four years of work have been planned in each of these departments. Any person may take up one or all the departments, as he chooses.

The course will be conducted as follows: Any person who wishes to take one or more of the studies may send in his name to the University of Oregon, Eugene, Oregon. The words "Extension Department" should be written on the envelope. He should also state clearly what lines of study he wishes to take up. Directions will be sent to him at once for procuring text books and instructions concerning the details of the course.

Questions will be mailed to students covering definite portions of the textbooks from time to time as they are needed. These should be carefully answered and the answers mailed to the Extension Department of the University. They will be corrected and returned, together with a new set of questions. This is, in brief, the scheme of the course. The university has been carrying on this work in a limited way for two years, but it is now hoped to make it much more extensive and more generally useful to the people of the state. The experience of the past, however, places the extension department in a position to manage the practical details of the course accurately and promptly. The only charge which will be made will be for the lists of questions and for marking the answers which are sent in. It is thought that this can be reduced to ten cents for each set of questions, and ten cents for examining each set of answers. This small fee will probably cover the actual expenses of the course and nothing further is desired by the department.

It is to be noted that this course is open to all persons who desire to engage in study. It will cover the ground of the usual good high school course, and the questions and suggestions which will be sent out may often be used with profit in reviews and examinations in city high schools. No person should feel that a course of this kind is a complete substitute for a good school, but if the school is not available for any reason, then much advancement in sound learning may be made by taking a correspondence course.

Full outlines of the course will be sent free upon application.

That Tired Feeling

Makes you seem "all broken up," without life, ambition, energy or appetite. It is often the forerunner of serious illness, or the accompaniment of nervous troubles. It is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is therefore apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember
