The Elks Clambake.

The clambake at Newport last Sunday, given by the Albany lodge of Elks, was a very successful function, in point of numbers, at least. The first crowd of Elks went down on the regular Saturday train, and consisted of a crowd of about 150 persons. The main crowd went down on Sunday morning's excursion, which was composed of a train load of seven closely packed coach loads of passengers. It is estimated that there were from 400 to 500 people on Sunday's train. The engine was handsomely decorated, and on the front of it was a beautiful large Elk's head.

The clambake was all that could be expected, being fully appreciated by the large crowd present. There were clams galore, and crabs, fish, roasting ears, sweet potatoes, and other good things in abundance. The day was pleasant on the beach, and the visitors seemed to greatly enjoy the occasion.

The Eastern Oysters All Right.

Prof. F. L. Washburne, of Eugene, and Mr. Geo. King, of Oysterville, have made a complete examination of the eastern oysters planted at Yaquina last fall. This examination has disclosed the fact that at least 95 per cent of the oysters are alive and in a flourishing condition. They found many of the oysters filled with mature eggs, almost ready for spawning. This demonstrates beyond a doubt that the eastern oysters will spawn in these waters. It now remains to be seen whether the spawn will flourish here or not. It is believed by old and experienced fishermen that they will thrive and grow after being spawned here. If this be a fact then the fate of the eastern oyster in Yaquina Bay is an assured success.

The Centre of Our Population.

The centre of population is the centre of gravity of the inhabitants of the country. If the United States were considered a plane, with all its people as of equal weight, the centre of population would be the point where the whole plane might be balanced and remain steady through equilibrium. It expresses the net resultant of the movements of population from decade to decade. This point, according to the census of 1890, is located at 39 degrees 11.9 minutes north latitude and 85 deg. 32.9 minutes west longitude, about twenty miles east of Columbus, Indiana. It moves westward about four miles a year, and is now three-fourths of a degree south and more than seventeen degrees east of the centre of area.—William George Jordan in July Ladies' Home Journal.

The superiority of Toledo over Newport, says the Oregonian, was again attested last week when the married men of the former beat those of the latter at baseball by a painful score of 22 to 21. As the season at the beaches has begun, the Newport men are believed to have been weak from loss of rest.

The state teachers' association will convene in Newport on Wednesday, July 28th, and will be in session for four days. On August 2d the summer school for teachers will begin in the big building, now being erected for that special purpose in Newport, and will continue for thirty days.

Now if the papers will let up for a little while on Queen Victoria's jubilee business it will be a much appreciated change. These anglo-maniac papers ought to shut off the jubilee racket in time to make mention of the Fourth of July celebrations, at any rate.

"Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Frederickstown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedies had failed, then we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by O. O. Krogstad, druggist.

Senator Hoar made a noble talk in the senate the other day against trusts, which he vigorously denounced as the enemy and menace of the republic. At the close of his great speech he quietly voted for a sugar schedule by which the sugar trust can take from five to ten millions dollars from the American consumers' pockets each year in increased profits.

Rumors of an extra session of the legislature still continue to float around, but nothing of authority can be found in any of these rumors. The need of an extra session is apparent, but it is not so apparent that the legislature would do any better in an extra session than they did in the regular one. Gov. Lord probably feels somewhat loath to calling an extra session without some sort of an assurance that the disgraceful scenes of last winter will not be repeated.

A Statesman representative at the big Elks' outing at Newport on Sunday found the old and only original "subscriber," so well known in newspaper correspondence, in the person of J. K. Smith, the popular boniface of the "Seaside" resort, who, as boy and man has read the Statesman and paid for the privilege ever since the first issue of it, forty-seven years ago. Another old friend of the Statesman was found in W. H. Alexander, of Toledo, whose father, the late J. C. Alexander, was a subscriber of the paper since the No. 1 of volume 1 was issued, and Mr. Alexander, Jr., practically learned to read the Statesman before being of school age.—Salem Statesman.

"The Britons proudly boast that the sun never sets on the Queen's dominions, as if they were special subjects of solar favoritism," writes William George Jordan on "The Greatest Nation on Earth," in the July Ladies' Home Journal. "But it is equally true that there is always sunshine on some part of Uncle Sam's great possessions. When it is 6 p. m. on Attoo's Island, Alaska, it is 9:36 of the day following at Eastport, Maine. If we locate the center of the United States, calculating it as midway between longitude sixty-seven of Eastport and longitude one hundred and ninety-three of Attoo's Island, it will be found on the one hundred and twenty-sixth degree of longitude, about two hundred and eighty miles west of San Francisco, in the Pacific Ocean.
