The Klondyke fever has appeared in a malignant form in our locality and the prospects, or talk, at least seems fair that a number of our people will succumb to the disease and make a journey to the frozen north in the spring. Among those that have the fever in the worst form are Rite Dedrick and Henry Burns. Both of these gentlemen express an earnest and avowed intention of going to some point in Alaska at an early date. Several others are quietly trying to make arrangements to go.

The populis, state central committee agreed to refer the matter of a fusion with the silver forces of Oregon to the various county conventions for their approval or rejection. The majority of the committee were in favor of fusion on a fair basis.

There are three criminal cases on the docket at the coming term of court that preents some unusual features. All three cases arise out of one. It seems that many moons ago Fred and Addie Pike dwelled together in the land of the Siletz as man and wife. In the course of time Pike became tired of his wife and his wife became tired of Pike. Then Pete Collins appeared on the scene, and according to the traditions of his fathers, swapped for Pike's wife. By this time marriages had been introduced on the Siletz and Pete Collins and Addie Pike were married, Louie Fuller, another Indian making the necessary affidavit before the county clerk. The matter was brought before the grand jury at the last session and three indictments were returned by that body, one charging Addie Pike with bigamy, another charging Pete Collins with adultery and the third charging Louie Fuller with perjury. Strictly speaking, we suppose that these parties are all guilty but they can never be made to believe it. They have transgressed no law according to their own beliefs, and if they are criminals they are not intentionally so. A conviction and sentence will not be regarded by them as a punishment but as a persecution. They have acted only according to tradition and centuries of teaching. Thus does civilization civilize.

The Salem Sentinel is booming T. T. Geer for the republican nomination for governor. It would be strictly in order now for Geer to trot out that old letter about being a "miscellaneous candidate." The collector for Portland has not yet been appointed, and it surely must be against Geer's creed to be a candidate for an thing while that office is undisposed of.
