Clever Advertising.
It is a well-known fact that most of the circulars sent to the busy men nowadays are consigned immediately to the waste basket, without so much as a hasty perusal. An English firm, realizing this, got around the difficulty by printing the following on the envelope: "Caution. Remove the envelope carefully and exercise still greater care in handling the inclosed circular. Don't throw it in the waste basket or give it to the servant to light the fires with, as the most disastrous results will follow.
Inasmuch as the circular is dipped in a solution of dynamite, the most powerful explosive known. Hang it up in a cool, dry place, and after a few days' exposure its dangerous properties will disappear, and it can be burned like any other circular." Then at the lower end of the envelope was printed: "N. B.—Most firms do their heavy lying in the circulars; we alone do all ours on the envelope."

As a Brother.
A certain curate was of a painfully nervous temperament, and, in consequence, was constantly making aw-ward remarks—intended as compliments—to the bishop and others. Having distinguished himself in an unusual degree during the gathering of clergy to an afternoon tea at the bishop's palace, he was taken to task for his failings by a senior curate, who was one of his companions on the way home.
"Look here, Bruce," said the senior, decidedly, "you are a donkey! Why cannot you keep quiet, instead of making your asinine remarks? I am speaking to you now as a brother—" Loud laughter interrupted him at this point, and for the moment he wondered why.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

NEW TELEGRAPH INSTRUMENT.

Can Be Strapped to the Ears Like a Telephone Receiver.

A new telegraph instrument, known as a "Morse watch," has been put on the market. Outwardly it looks like an ordinary timepiece, but in reality it is a transmitting and receiving telegraph instrument, a key and a sounder, inclosed in an ordinary watchcase.

This type of instrument, says Electricity, is known to the telegraph craft under the general title of "secret sounder." The Morse watch is so constructed that the click of the instrument can be adjusted loud enough to be heard in any part of a comparatively large room, or be adjusted to a point where the click is inaudible unless the instrument is held in contact with the ear.

The Morse watch is accompanied with a suitable flexible head band to fasten the instrument in place on the head over the ear, leaving both hands free for transcribing messages or other work. It also has a very neat silk conducting cord, with specially designed terminals, so that the instrument can be conveniently and quickly attached to or disconnected from the ordinary instrument of a telegraph line.

The employment of the art of telegraphing has so far developed at the present time that the telegraph operator is found in one corner of many brokers' as well as newspaper offices, police stations, etc., and in such places it is desired to maintain for the transaction of other business as much quiet as possible. The Morse watch secures that end by permitting the telegraphing to go on to all intents and purposes in perfect silence.

Probably the most important use, however, that the Morse watch will serve is in connection with the military telegraphs and all offices where absolute secrecy is one of the first requirements.

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

Self-Adjusting Rack-Saw Guard to Protect Workmen.

The accidents with rack saws working rough timber, unlike accidents with ordinary saw benches, are chiefly due to workmen stumbling or slipping while moving the logs, and a fall onto the saw teeth leads to fearful consequences. The rack-saw guard depicted in the illustration is an English device to prevent accidents of this kind, and as the guard is self-sustaining and is adjustable by a touch of the hand, while at the same time it presents no obstacle to the action of the sawyer, it will doubtless be welcomed by workmen. A standard secured at the side of the bed carries an arm adjustable vertically to suit saws of different diameters. On the extremity of the arm a socket is fixed, to which a pair of dished steel wings are independently pivoted, and these wings are supported by counterweights on chains passed over pulleys fixed to a beam overhead.

The action of these wings is so apparent in the engraving, and the construction is so simple, that no further explanation is necessary.

Connubialities.

only wants to go on the stage, but she wants to begin as a star.

PERIODS OF PAIN.

Menstruation, the balance wheel of woman's life, is also the bane of existence to many because it means a time of great suffering.

While no woman is entirely free from periodical pain, it does not seem to have been na-

otherwise healthy should suffer so severely.
