The Practical Side of "Expansion."

We are not under the slightest obligations to make haste in propounding a theory of the nature of the new relations between the Philippines and the United States, nor yet to elaborate any comprehensive scheme of government. We must drop the French model and at this point take up English methods. We need not make definitions at all about the status of the Philippines, but simply proceed to do any particular work that may require to be done, and otherwise do nothing at all. First, if the treaty should be ratified we must make a contract with private shipping companies for taking the Spanish soldiers back home at our expense. That will involve our persuading the insurgents to give up their Spanish prisoners. General Otis and Admiral Dewey would seem to be of the opinion that they can arrange that item of business without trouble. After the prisoners are yielded up and are all packed off for Spain the insurgents will have to be persuaded to disband. Gentlemen in Boston will not be able to lend much assistance at this point, but it is highly probable that men now in the Philippines or that general part of the world—such as Admiral Dewey, Consul Wildman, of Hong Kong, General Otis, and others who might be named—can arrange very satisfactorily with Aguinaldo and his people. There is little reason to suppose that we should need for any length of time to retain in the Philippines the services of more than a quarter of the American troops who are now there. There are plenty of men who have in times past served in the native regiments with the Spanish army—many of whom have also subsequently served in the insurgent ranks—who can be readily formed into an excellent body of military police. And since the people are quite certain to be very peaceably inclined and are ready to believe in the benevolence of the mission of United States, the maintenance of order is not going to be seriously difficult. It will not be a very baffling task to improve the administration of justice as between man and man, nor to simplify the existing system of taxation—removing needless burdens from agriculture and business and replacing the corrupt and rapacious methods of the Spaniards with honest and fair Anglo-Saxon methods. These matters, with the policing, are the principal ones that for some little time to come will have to be attended to. They are matters of precisely the same nature as those which without any fuss whatever Gen. Leonard Wood has been arranging at Santiago. Every one in this country will be delighted to give the people of the Philippines the large possible control of their own affairs.—Review of Reviews.

La Grigge Successfully Treated.

"I have just recovered from the second attack of la grippe this year," says Mr. Jas. A. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days against ten days for the former attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.'" President McKinley received from the American peace commission late Saturday afternoon the Treaty of peace between the United States and Spain. In presenting this momentous document, Judge Day, as chairman of the commission, said it represented the earnest efforts of the American representatives at Paris and that it would redound to the peace, credit and glory of the American nation. Accepting the treaty from the hands of Judge Day, the president responded with heartfelt thanks and congratulations to the commission as a body and the member individually. He spoke of all that had been accomplished and of the happy method by which difficult questions had been adjusted. The formal ceremony of delivering the treaty to the president occurred in the blue room and lasted half an hour.—Detroit Free Press.

Speaking of expansion and the safety of the corner-stone of the republic the New Orleans Picayune says, and rightly, too: "The constitution has never been strained, nor even stretched, in acquiring new territory or in making new states. It is equal to every emergency in maintaining free institutions and the true principles of human liberty, and in extending to other lands the blessings of that liberty and those free institutions."

Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier Journal, says free silver is shelved, anti-expansion will be settled before the next presidential election. He believes if the democrats will throw platforms to the dogs and put up Admiral Dewey and Fitzhugh Lee, they can win.

Andrew Carlson, sent from this county last January for one year, which should have been five, was liberated again last week. In all probability he will take some other route this time to Tillamook. The beach is a poor road to travel in winter anyway.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

You are perhaps aware that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of la grippe. During the epidemic of la grippe a few years ago when so many cases resulted in pneumonia, it was observed that the attack was never followed by that disease when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was used. It counteracts any tendency of a cold or la grippe to result in that dangerous disease. It is the best remedy in the world for bad colds and la grippe. Every bottle warranted. For sale by O. O. Krogstad, druggist.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

Cures a Prominent Attorney.

M. R. C. PHELPS, the leading physician of Belfast, N. Y., writes: "I was discharged from the army on account of ill health, and suffered from heart trouble ever since. I frequently had fainting and smothering spells. My face was bent as a man of 60. I constantly wore an overcoat, even in summer, for fear of taking cold. I could not attend to my business. My rest was broken by severe pains about the heart and left shoulder. Three years ago I commenced using Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, notwithstanding I had used much patent medicine and taken drugs from doctors for years without being helped. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure restored me to health. It is truly a wonderful medicine and it affords me much pleasure to recommend this remedy to everyone."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address, DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.
