

FIFTY YEARS IN A CHOIR.

Three Men Who Can Sing Well at Seventy.

After having sung for fifty years in the same church choir continuously, missing very few services, at Reading, Pa., says a correspondent of the New York Sun, Daniel Shaaber, Jacob Shaaber and James Hill sent in their resignations because their voices were possibly not as good as the large congregation had a reasonable right to expect. These singers are now nearly 70 years old, but are still young and active in mind and body, and they still can sing in a manner that is wonderful to those who hear them. The brothers Shaaber say that the vocal organs of the throat hold out as well, possibly better, than the eyes, ears, arms or limbs of the human body if they are properly exercised and taken care of. They experience no difficulty in singing right along with the younger folks in the choir, but they now desire to quit because they imagine the congregation may want to hear new voices.

They have sung to five generations in the church and have kept it up so regularly that thousands of people have been more than surprised. The Shaabers sang tenor and Mr. Hill bass. Besides singing in the choir for half a century of years, they also sang at church festivals and private gatherings of the congregation, always without charge, as the church had no paid choir, and the singers officiated as a labor of love. Being comfortably situated in life, they desire no reward from the church.

The church officers held a meeting, refused to accept their resignations and consented to relieve them of active service in the choir, but reserving their places as long as they live, so that whenever they wish to occupy seats in the choir gallery their chairs will be there and their services will be gladly received. The semi-centennial of their connection with the choir was celebrated recently, and the occasion was a notable one. The brothers Shaaber in reality joined the choir fifty-four years ago. Daniel Shaaber was leader of the choir for thirty years.

Just How It Is Done.

Smith and Jones were talking one day about their business interests. Smith was a hotel man and Jones was a manufacturer's agent.

"I say," said Jones, "how ever do you use such an enormous quantity of pears and peaches?"

"Well," replied Smith, "we eat what we can, and what we can't eat we can."

"Indeed!" said the other, "we do about the same in our business."

"How is that?"

"We sell an order when we can sell it, and when we can't sell it we cancel it."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Distantly Related to Wealth.

At the wedding anniversary of a railway magnate, one of the guests noticing a somewhat lonely looking and rather shabbily attired man in one corner of the parlor, walked over and sat down near him.

"I was introduced to you," he said, "but I did not catch your name."

"My name," replied the other, "is Swaddleford."

"Oh, then you are a relative of our host!"

"Yes," replied the "poor relation," with a grin. "I am his cousin $500,000 removed."—Youth's Companion.

London is very much stirred up as to what it terms the "telephone monopoly," and a recent resolution of the highways committee asks of the postmaster-general categorically whether he does or does not intend to start "a really efficient telephone service in opposition to the monopoly."

English railway people have finally outgrown their prejudice and are adopting the American "cowcatcher" in the front of their engines. A recent accident, caused by a truck falling in front of an engine, and which a cowcatcher would have swept away, accelerated the adoption of the American idea.

Not long ago a Frenchman and a clause in his will set forth his desire to be conveyed to his last resting place in a motor car arranged as a hearse. Also near Marseilles there was held an "electric christening," wherein the party consisted of nine persons, who were conveyed to the church in an electric carriage.

A device designed for the greater comfort of wheelmen is a spring hat-pin, shaped similar to a hairpin and permanently attached to the rim of the hat, the points projecting inward. They are self-acting and adjust themselves to the contour of the head. They are hailed with delight by the male escorts, who have heretofore gallantly played the role of "hat chasers."

Wild Rush of Diamond Miners.

A wild rush of excited miners is reported at Nullagine, Western Australia, where diamonds have been discovered in large quantities, and it is feared that many will lose their lives in the mad struggle for riches. In this country the rush for gain is causing many other men to break down in health and strength. Nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of flesh and appetite and general debility are the common symptoms. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will cure them all.

Story Told on Liszt.

There is a story told of Liszt to the effect that he was one day very hard on a pupil whose playing he condemned rather severely. The pupil said she had studied the piece under Mme. Schumann. To which Liszt replied: "Mme Schumann, Mme. Schumann! Yes, you have learned from her how one plays the piano when one has six children—poor woman, six children! In such bourgeois life any great interpretation is impossible. You must play this piece differently when I am your master. Thank God, I have not six children."

Wild Justice.

First and last the words "Revenge is a kind of wild justice" have been quoted hundreds of times probably in extenuation of the lynching habit. The context is never quoted. What Lord Bacon wrote was "Revenge is a kind of wild justice which the more a man's nature runs to the more ought law to weed it out."

Locomotor Ataxia and Paralysis Can be Cured.

These extreme nervous disorders were treated with wonderful success by the discoverer of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, previous to his discovery being offered to the public generally. This remedy is the only known specific in many diseases that, until recent years, were pronounced incurable. Here is the proof:

James Crockett, a sturdy old Scotchman living in Detroit, Mich., at 88 Montclair St., was cured of Locomotor Ataxia by these pills. For many years he has been a chief engineer of one of those big passenger palace steamers plying upon the great lakes. This is a position of great responsibility and the anxiety causes a great nervous strain. Mr. Crockett says: "For fifteen years I watched the big engines and boilers without a single accident, and only noticed that I was getting nervous. Suddenly without warning I was taken sick, and was prostrated. I had the best of physicians but grew gradually worse. At a council of doctors, they said I had nervous prostration, and had destroyed my whole nervous system and would never recover. For three years I was unable to move from my bed. The doctor said I had locomotor ataxia, and would never be able to walk again."

"The pains and suffering I experienced during those years are almost indescribable. The friends that came to see me bid me good-bye when they left me and I was given up. The doctors said nothing more could be done. My wife kept reading to me, articles about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. We finally decided to try them. The first box gave me relief. I continued to use them for about two years before I could get strength enough to walk. I am nearly seventy-five years old and there is not a man in this city that can kick higher or walk further than I can and to-day I owe my present good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for they saved my life."—Detroit Evening News.

A Literary Note.

"Your majesty," said the prime minister, "this is the page who has been remiss in his duty."

"Aha!" exclaimed the king, "we'll have to bring him to book."

"He! he!" laughed the page; "a noble jest, I'll be bound."

Thereupon the king's heart softened, for he marveled that a man so young could make so old a joke.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Chinese Commercial Methods.

It is often said no European can understand Chinese commercial methods. Here is a curious instance of the celestial's inversion. A Chinese hotel-keeper had contracted to board and lodge a visitor for a dollar a day. As time went on he found it impossible to get his weekly account settled. So he offered to maintain the guest for half a dollar a week. He said he would lose less.—London Chronicle.

ALABASTINE

WHAT ALABASTINE IS. Alabastine is the original and only durable wall coating on the market. It is entirely different from all kalsomine preparations. Alabastine is made ready for use in white or twelve beautiful tints by the addition of cold water. It is put up in dry powdered form, in five-pound packages, with full directions on every package. It takes the place of sealing kalsomines, wall paper and paint for walls. Alabastine can be used on plaster, brick, wood or canvas, and a child can brush it on.

WHAT "KALSOIMINES" ARE. Kalsomines are cheap and temporary preparations, manufactured from whiting, chalks, clays, etc. They are stuck on the walls with decaying animal glue. Alabastine is not a kalsomine. It is a rock-base cement, which sets, and it hardens with age. It can be re-coated and re-decorated without having to wash and scrape off its old coats. Beware of a large four-pound package of light kalsomine, sold to dealers for four pounds and offered to customers as a five-pound package.

CHURCHES AND SCHOOLHOUSES. The interior walls of churches, schoolhouses and all public halls should never be coated with anything but the durable and pure Alabastine. So evident has this fact become, that hundreds of tons are used annually for this work. The genuine Alabastine does not rub or scale off. It is clearly during the long period of its usefulness. Every owner of a building should use it. Ask your paint dealer or druggist for card of tints, and write for free copy of our paper, Alabastine Era, to Alabastine Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.

REJECT THE "JUST AS GOOD." The dealer who tells you that he can sell you the "same thing" as Alabastine or "something just as good," either is not posted or is trying to deceive you. In offering something he has bought cheap and is trying to sell on Alabastine's demands, he may not realize the danger to himself as well as to you. Beware of all new substitutes. Dealers risk a suit for damages by selling and consumers by using an infringement. Alabastine Co. own the right to make and sell wall coatings adapted to mix with cold water.
