MEMORIAL DAY.

All Honor to The Boys Who Wore The Blue.

Memorial day did not dawn as our our people would have wished. Instead of bright sunshine and a balmy atmosphere, the sky was overcast with heavy clouds and Old Webfoot's usual moisture was lightly and silently falling.

No obstacle barred our soldiers in the 60s and hence, nothing daunted them Memorial Day, and everything was done as per program published.

The decoration of the graves of old soldiers in the cemetery absorbed the greater part of the forenoon.

After the dinner hour the Post, with all visiting comrades, the W. R. C. and the school children, formed into line at Headquarters and marched to the court house to the inspiring music of fife and drum.

After the preliminary work of the Post was accomplished and the Quartette had rendered appropriate songs, the W. R. C. performed a very touching service in honor of the nation's departed heroes, strewing their graves with tears and flowers.

The recitation by Miss Bessie Collison was especially well chosen, and delivered in an earnest and feeling manner. One by one eyes were cast downward, lumps appeared in many throats and refused to stay down, and handkerchiefs were drawn as she portrayed the story of the death of two soldiers, the one in blue, the other in gray, during the dark hours of a night following a day of bloody strife upon a southern battle field. Told in simple language and with touching pathos, its closing words left few dry eyes in the audience.

The event of the day, however, was the Memorial address, made by Hon. Geo. C. Brownell, of Oregon City. All unnecessary is it to tell our readers of his oratory as nearly all have heard him at other times and places. But his word picture of his first remembrance of Old Glory and the boys in blue, the departure of his father from home and wife and babies in his Northern New York, and his home-coming in a plain coffin from the field at Gettysburg, was, indeed, a vivid picture. As a patriotic, eloquent portrayal of the character of American heroes, few better addresses were listened to in Oregon Memorial Day.

At the close, the audience sang "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and three cheers were given for the Oregon volunteers, and the audience was dismissed. Everybody spoke as having enjoyed the exercises.

The Richardson brought eighty people from Newport and balance of license limit from Yaquina, yet left about forty because they could not carry them.

The court house was never more beautifully decorated with bunting, flags and flowers. Much labor was given to its decoration by the W. R. C.

The Abe Lincoln Post heartily thank all those who assisted them in making the exercises as pleasant and interesting as they were and hopes they may enjoy many more like days as the years roll by.

Mrs. R. A. Bensell returned from the Valley Friday.

Renus Arnold put out a new sign Tuesday morning.

Henry Lewis and wife returned from Albany Monday evening.

Mrs. Will Ford departs tomorrow for Dallas, near which place Will is located.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers came down from Morrison Monday to celebrate Memorial day in this city.

The piano room was well patronized Tuesday and every-one who cared to play had ample opportunity.

Messrs. J. S. Gaither and Ed. Wade dropped into town suddenly Tuesday. Mrs. Gaither was here enjoying the celebration.

Mrs. Sada Davis came from Morrison Monday to enjoy the Memorial exercises. She was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. LEADER.

Our sidewalks presented the usually salvy appearance Tuesday and every visitor from other places could not but make some remark concerning them.

Now, what about the Fourth. Our people should either conclude to celebrate or announce their decision not to celebrate so others may have a chance. What shall we do?

Ye editor dined with Mine Host Simpson in Elk City Sunday. We had a pleasant chat with Elkites who were visible to the naked eye, but most of them were out o' sight.

Rev. Bryant delivered an excellent Memorial sermon to the old boys in blue and the W. R. C. Sunday and the house was crowded, even though quite a number were out of town.

Mrs. W. L. Davis will depart tomorrow morning for a visit to her parents at Independence. Lee will visit his grandmother, Mrs. Dennis, at Salem, and the old man will quietly stay at home and saw wood.

Bones, supposed to be those of Handy, lost in the mountains on the head waters of Rock creek last winter, have been found by Falls City parties. They were found about two miles from where Handy was last seen.

Dr. J. R. Bayley of Newport went to Corvallis Monday to see his friends. Jim Ball was looking after him on the way. The venerable Dr. has experienced a very hard winter physically, having been ill nearly the entire time.

Lee Brown, who for years has successfully operated a saw mill and furniture factory at Stayon, went to the beach Friday. He intends purchasing a lot and building a summer cottage at Newport. He will spend the entire summer at the Resort City.

The well known Charles Smith, he of the Yaquina hotel, and who married a daughter of Charles Schmidt died in Corvallis of heart failure Thursday. Friday his remains passed through this place enroute to Newport, where they were laid beside those of his wife, who died several years ago.

Now, if you wont tell, and we know you wont, we'll tell you something. There has been an elegant hat laid away in one of our town houses, and in another there is being made an elegant dress of the newest kind, and all this points to trouble. The rest we won't tell till later but, both parties are well known here.
