OF INTEREST TO EVERYBODY.

Mrs. Hobart of Portland is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. H. McNiel, arriving Saturday, she will remain all this summer in all probability.

Auditor Mercer, of Wells Fargo, will have a nice time this summer. Monday evening he shipped in a borro and a cart to match and that means a picnic on the beach.

Monroe Butler came up from South Beach Monday to visit Toledo acquaintances. He has been working for Harry Fant on the Newport-Waldport mail route.

Our city is almost depopulated by the chittim-peeling mania, which has taken all our able men, our beautiful ladies and most of the boys into the woods. May they do as well as they expected.

Mine Host Peter Abbey returned from Albany Tuesday looking bland and pleased. The season's near approach doubtless causes a too rapid flow of blood for normal looks and actions.

Mrs. Henry Gannon and her two little daughters, who have been visiting at Eddyville for a few days, returned Tuesday evening. We notice all these grass widowers wear a bland smile when their ladies return, and Henry is no exception to the common rule.

A northern Pacific freight and an Astoria & Columbia excursion collided a few days since. The N. P. engineer and fireman jumped but the Astoria men stayed with their train. Our friend Jim Hume was the fireman. His engineer was injured but Jim escaped.

Tuesday evening quite a number of pleasure tourists were aboard the passenger enroute to the Resort city. This is the first invoice and it will draw considerable attention but as business picks up such crowds will be coldly overlooked by the dwellers by the sea.

Mrs. LEADER returned from a visit among friends and relatives in Independence and Salem Saturday. She is looking somewhat improved but is not yet convalescent. Lee spent two weeks with his Grandma Dennis and enjoyed every minute of the time to hear him tell it.

Many a mother in the homes of Oregon, California and Idaho are saying fifty times a day to themselves: "Let me see, this is the 12th day since he left Manila. Will the time never pass?" And a number of Oregon's beautiful young ladies are echoing the same very quietly.

Altree Bros. received their shingle mill Tuesday night and at once started to transfer it to their saw mill on Drift creek, where in the course of a few days they will make cedar shingles fill the air like great snow flakes in a Dakota snow-storm. They already have several orders to fill.

Talk about strawberries, you ought to have seen those presented to us by T. J. Ewing Monday. They were all large but the top one was a cracker. It just nicely fitted that hole in our face which is almost entirely covered by a mustache. Well, they were just as good as they looked and Mr. Ewing has the thanks of the Davis family.

Mrs. C. B. Crosno and her little daughters Gertie and Tillie went to Corvallis Saturday to visit among friends and relatives. C. B. visits the custom house more often at Yaquina to look after business, is about the only difference we see in his actions, though more keen sighted people see a discouraged look on his countenance.

In another column will be found the popular estimate of Harwood, the Yaquina harbor encyclopedia, as found among his own neighbors. It is no more than could be expected of one who seeks to build up himself by tearing another down. Trumpeter Weatherston had better apologize to his home readers and in future use greater care in the selection of him who holds his leading string.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hall departed Tuesday morning to be absent all this summer at least. Mrs. Hall went to Cozad, Nebraska, where she will visit with her people and Al will stop in Portland. Should he find nothing suitable in that city, he will go to Southern Oregon and look about there. A number of their friends bade them Bon voyage at the train and expressed the wish that they might welcome them home again "When the leaves begin to turn."

From Nashville this week comes an item concerning some blue eyes and a horse and a young man and an excursion train, but no signature appears, hence, the item is consigned to the "box." People should learn after a time that articles for publication should always be accompanied by the writers' true name. It need not appear in print, but it must accompany the article. If we have published this information once, we have an hundred times—you see, ninty-nine times wasn't enough.

From the Salem Sentinel is taken the following item, which is given for what it is worth: The Idaho Midland is the projected road from Boise to the Idaho-Montana line at a point about where the Burlington would come through. The road is also incorporated west from Boise, down the Boise river to the Oregon line. Locally it has been believed that the Oregon Pacific is behind the Idaho Midland, but the Oregon Pacific may have joined hands with the Burlington in the matter. At all events it is known that T. W. Bates, the promoter of the Idaho Midland, stands very high with both the Oregon Pacific and the Burlington people.

There seems to be a growing tendency these days on the part of too many public men to shape their actions according to the ideas of Mrs. Grundy. When a question arises which they must decide, the first thought is, "What will folks say?" And many times no decision is made until the public pulse has been felt. Such men as Lincoln, Jefferson, Jackson, Patrick Henry and their like were men of principle. What the world said or would say they cared not. They were men the world has called great and that is the point where they differed from our small men today. Does this fact come home to you in your daily life? If so, for your own sake, establish some principle and stay with it. Even in your small way the world will be better for such action. Ponder it well; it means more than at first appears.
