OF INTEREST TO EVERYBODY.

Bro. Van Cleve spent the Fourth at Portland, returning home last evening.

Capt. A. B. Clark, Elk City's efficient pedagogue, spent last Friday in our city.

Misses Anna and Blanche Hurley and Messrs. Jim Derrick and Morey went to Eddyville to spend the Fourth.

Fred Stanton was over from Siletz Monday. He is painting and papering the new clerk's residence and we have no doubt but he is doing a good job.

Grant King brought in a load of the nicest, whitest, sweetest honey that grows in any body's country. He sold all he had before he could tie his team.

Mrs. G. A. Landis, Mrs. D. P. Blue and Mrs. Stevens departed Thursday morning for New Era, near Oregon City, where they will visit for a time.

Geo. T. Smith brought to this office last week a full box of strawberry containing but ten berries. It takes but little picking to pick a quart at that rate.

Mrs. Humphrey, a former resident of Newport but now of Independence, went down to Newport Wednesday, where she will spend a few weeks visiting among old friends.

The dance given by Rosebrook's orchestra on the evening of the Fourth, was a grand success, as their dances always are. The hall was well crowded and everybody had a good time.

Mr. Flitroft upset his hack on road to Siletz, the Fourth, and scattered his load of people, candy, ice cream, etc., all around, and demolished the top to the hack, but fortunately no one was hurt.

George Sylvester, of Newport, spent the Fourth at this place. He acted as one of the floor managers at the dance in the evening. He spent the following day among old friends, returning home in the evening.

Mrs. Rust returned Wednesday morning for her home near Philomath, after a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrington, of Yaquina, and Mr. and Mrs. Bridgman, of this place. Miss Winnie Bridgman accompanied her for a visit.

Captain Clark, of the Yaquina Bay Life Saving station, spent Friday in our city making new acquaintances. He accompanied John Porter, of Newport, and apparently enjoyed the visit among our people. They returned the same evening.

Rev. Isaac Dawson and brother went through to Newport Wednesday, after having spent the Fourth at Portland. Rev. Dawson said at least 40,000 people witnessed the display of fireworks, which was claimed to be the finest display ever witnessed on this coast.

Mrs. Lockhart arrived in this place and departed for Siletz last week, where she will teach in the Siletz Indian school. Mrs. Lockhart is a very pleasant lady and an earnest Christian and no doubt will succeed with the scholars. She came from Shoshone where she has been teaching in the Indian school.

Wm. Dutton and son, of Little Elk, were Fourth of July visitors.

Mr. Durkee drove down from Chitwood Friday to do business at the county seat.

Henry Rhoades and John Logan, who have been working in the Valley, returned Friday to spend the Fourth at home.

Henry Nice, of Alsea, passed westward on Friday's train to his home; having been in the metropolis transacting business.

Miss Lulu Burt went to Newport Saturday to accept the position of assistant postmaster, which she satisfactorily filled last season. Postmaster Hampton thinks there is no girl like Lulu.

Commissioner and Mrs. F. A. Godwin, of Nashville, arrived in the county capital Saturday and spent the time till Wednesday visiting friends. They were guests of Mrs. S. V. Burt during their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunsford left yesterday morning for their home in the Valley. Mr. Dunsford has been doing the plumbing at the Agency. Miss Mary Buford accompanied them and will go on to Portland and Salem to remain until October.

Joseph Blanchard, of Eagle, Nebraska, was in this city the first of the week, and went down to Newport last evening. He is on a visit to his brother who lives near Nashville. He intends spending the year looking over the Pacific coast, and will perhaps locate at some point in Oregon.

Some Churning Suggestions.

Few, if any, really progressive dairymen use any other form of churn than the box or barrel type, having no inside fixtures. At this time of the year when cream is so plentiful there is quite a tendency on the part of users to fill these churns too full. The cream is churned by concussion, that is, the cream falling as the churn revolves, hence the greater the amount of cream in the churn the less the amount of concussion per revolution, and the longer the time required for the churning. Not only is a longer time required, but a test of the buttermilk will show more butter remaining in it when the churn is overfilled than when only a proper amount is placed in the churn. A box or barrel churn should never be filled more than half full, and only one-third full is better. Cream always swells some during the first part of the churning process and if the churn is filled more than half full there will not be the proper amount of concussion. If there is cream enough to fill the churn more than half full time would be gained by making two churnings instead of one with an overfilled churn.

Very frequently the cream from shallow pans has a "leathery" condition of its surface, which causes clots in the cream which do not break up in churning and appear in the butter as white specks, sometimes of considerable size. This difficulty can be partially remedied by stirring the cream occasionally during the interval between skimming and churning, and can be wholly overcome by passing the cream through a coarse strainer as it goes into the churn. These white specks contain much casein which decomposes easily and thus causes the butter to become quickly "off-flavored."—Oregon Experiment Station.
