Exciting Hunt.

Some days since three Toledoites oiled afresh their old rifles and silently departed from town to kill a 200-pound buck deer.

Two of them bucked tide up the river about four miles and found, each for himself, a stand where there was a good view up and down the river, and an easy place to sit down, as well, while the third took over the hills from town with a horn to rout the aforesaid buck to water.

The two lonely watchers soon heard the horn and nervously walked to and fro awaiting the coming to water of the game.

For some time it came not and both were very weary with delay when one of them spied the game some thirty feet away and opened fire.

The first bullet missed the mark and the deer took to the Yaquina and then a rapid fire ensued which seemed ineffectual, as the game swam rapidly down and across the stream.

About this time the second man began fire and another succession of rapid shots followed until the deer disappeared on the opposite bank.

The third man appeared and all crossed in a boat and took up the hot trail. Soon this vanished and a hunt began. While carefully investigating a brush pile the game jumped into their midst and the fun began. One man grasped the deer and was shaken off. Then one grabbed it by the ears and another by the legs and for a moment, deer, man and heavy rifles filled the air, and only ceased when a lucky stroke of a hunting blade pierced his juglar.

Following remarks could not be obtained—they were too swift, but the large deer was taken home badly mutilated by one wound in tip top of the shoulder.

Troublesome to the Army.

During the civil war, as well as in our late war with Spain, diarrhoea was one of the most troublesome diseases the army had to contend with. In many instances it became chronic and the old soldiers still suffer from it. Mr. David Taylor of Wind Ridge, Greene Co., Pa., is one of these. He uses Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says he never found anything that would give him such quick relief. It is for sale by O. O. KROGSTAD, Druggist.

A Mother Tells How She Saved Her Little Daughter's Life.

I am the mother of eight children and have had a great deal of experience with medicines. Last summer my little daughter had the dysentery in its worst form. We thought she would die. I tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do her any good. I saw by an advertisement in our paper that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was highly recommended and sent and got a bottle at once. It proved to be one of the very best medicines we ever had in the house. It saved my little daughter's life. I am anxious for every mother to know what an excellent medicine it is. Had I known it at first it would have saved me a great deal of anxiety and my little daughter much suffering. Yours truly, Mrs. GEO. F. BURDICK, Liberty, R. I. For sale by O. O. KROGSTAD, Druggist.
