An exchange says: "A practical woman of this town remarked the other day that she had advertised in a newspaper more clothes than anything else. 'And long hair,' as the article ran, in playing with those who did not advertise. It seems that the merchant who advertises invites me to trade with him, while the one who does not advertise suggests to me that he doesn't care enough for my trade. Then, also, I know that the merchant who advertises has fresh goods for the season that he doesn't have."
