All Humors

Are impure matters which the skin, liver, kidneys and other organs can not take care of without help, there is such an accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system.

Pimples, boils, eczema and other eruptions, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, bilious turns, fits of indigestion, dull headaches and many other troubles are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Remove all humors, overcome all their effects, strengthen, tone and invigorate the whole system.

"I had salt rheum on my hands so that I could not work. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it drove out the humor. I continued its use till the sores disappeared." MRS. IRA O. BROWN, Rumford Falls, Me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

Who Knows?

Did Adam smoke? Did Eve wear corsets? Did Solomon chew tobacco? Did Ruth chew gum? Did the children of Israel make for a beer garden after crossing the Red Sea? Did Rebecca eat gum drops?—Lexington, Mich., Weekly News.

Circumstances After Faces.

"But she used to be considered quite a beauty."

"That was before her father failed."

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

A Dying Race.

Jennie—Herbie, it says here another octogenarian is dead. What's an octogenarian?

Herbie—Well, I don't know what they are, but they must be awfully sickly creatures. You never hear of 'em but they're dying. — Brooklyn Life.

Of Course.

Ella—What is your idea of a good hearted fellow?

Stella—One who spends his money on me and lets his creditors wait for their pay.—New York Times.

Olives.

Do you like olives? You have to learn to like them, of course, but you will be sorry you did not cultivate a taste for them before — particularly if you let your grocer send you a bottle of the Monopole variety. Monopole olives are the largest which come to this country. They are also the most luscious and tenderest which the far famed olive growers of Spain produce. Be sure you secure this brand from your dealer. Wadhams & Kerr Bros., Monopole Grocers and Dry Coffee Roasters, Portland, Oregon.

Purely for Love.

"He says he is in business for love."

"What is his business?"

"He runs a matrimonial agency."—Philadelphia North American.

Modest Worth.

"I dont' see," said the sensible girl, "how you could bring yourself to run around after that actor; such a conceited stick as he is."

"You're mistaken," replied the matinee girl. "He's just as modest as he can be. Why, when I asked him whom he considered the greatest actor in the world he actually blushed, and replied that it wasn't for him to say." —Philadelphia Press.

Rocking Chairs Cause Insanity.

The rocking chair causes insanity, so it is said. In fact, physicians are claiming that rocking chairs are the cause of most of the nervous troubles from which women suffer, and are advising their relegation to any place where they will not be used.

All in Vain.

Clara—I suppose I shall have to give Mr. Fiddleback the next dance.

Maud—Why don't you sit it out with him?

"Well, I've tried that." — New Yorker.

All Right Anyway.

Miss Thin—Don't you think my new dress is just exquisite?

Fannie—Oh, lovely! I think that dressmaker of yours could make a clothes prop look graceful.

Developed a Negative.

Rita—Why is Mr. Kodak so glum looking?

Nita—He and Eleanor have just come out of the darkroom, where he had evidently developed a negative.

Color in the Arctics.

The leading color pictures in the February Century—the most novel and curious in subject of any that magazine has yet published—are from interesting and beautiful studies of the aurora borealis made by Frank Wilbert Stokes while in the Arctic in the fall of 1892, and are richly worthy the subject. They reproduce in print for the first time in a popular magazine the wonderful effects of the aurora. Mr. Stokes, probably the first real colorist to visit the Arctic regions, was with the Peary and relief expeditions on the Kite when he was privileged to see some color displays worth all the dangers and privations of the trip. His word painting is as vivid and interesting as his color work.

Welsh and English Lunatics.

There are over 110,000 lunatics in England and Wales, and the annual cost of their maintenance is 3,000,000 pounds.

RATHER HAVE THE MONEY.

The business methods of insurance companies are not all to the liking of a shrewd old German farmer with whom a certain agent had some dealings. The house of the farmer, insured for two thousand dollars, had burned down, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The privilege of replacing a burned house is reserved by insurance companies, and the agent, having this in mind, said to the farmer:

"We'll put you up a better house than the one you had for six hundred dollars."

"Nein!" said the farmer, emphatically. "I vill haf my one tousand dollar or notings! Dot house could not be built again for even a tousand."

"Oh, yes, it could," said the insurance man. "It was an old house. It doesn't cost so much to build houses nowadays. A six-hundred-dollar new house would be a lot bigger and better than the old one."

Some month's later, when the insurance man was out for a day's shooting, he rode up again to the farmer's place.

"Just thought I'd stop while I was up here," he said, "to see if you wanted to take out a little insurance."

"I got notings to insure," said the farmer—"notings but my vife."

"Well, then," said the insurance man, cheerfully, "insure her."

"Nein!" said the farmer, with determination, "If she die, you come out here und say, 'I not gif you one tousand dollar. I get you a bigger und a better vife for six hundred.' No, sir; I dakes no more insurance oud!"

VICIOUS LOOKING BUT HARMLESS WEAPON.

Here is a sword which you can apparently run through a person, and yet, strange to say, it will not produce any serious results. Of course, the reason is because you do not even scratch the skin. Still, those who see you thrust will be absolutely certain that you have sent the blade clean through your opponent, and you can keep up the delusion by causing to gush from the wound some red liquid which looks exactly like blood. This ingenious weapon consists of a blade, which has two sections, and of curved arms, which are connected both with the sections and with each other. When necessary the sections can be rigidly joined together. A flexible tube is also connected with the sword, and there is also a collapsible bulb, by means of which a liquid can at any time be forced through this tube. It will readily be seen that with a weapon of this kind a skilful gladiator can provide much innocent entertainment.

Shah's Tooth Pulled by Proxy.

A story is being told in Paris of the shah which savors more of previous monarch than of the present occupant of the Persian throne. When he went over to France the shah suffered from toothache, and so a dentist was summoned to remove the offending tooth. But like less exalted mortals, the shah, when he found himself face to face with the dentist, discovered that his toothache had disappeared, and so absolutely refused to be operated on. However, his majesty declared that he did not wish the dentist to lose his time, and so commanded that a tooth should be extracted from each of his suite. He said this with his eyes on the ground, and then, suddenly looking up, found, to his intense amusement, that all his ministers and staff had quietly slipped away except the grand vizier, whom he complimented upon being the only one faithful enough to undergo a little discomfort for his sovereign's sake, and then dismissed the dentist with a present.—New York Press.

Liquid Air Power.

The result of tests of a liquid air plant made at Cornell University, reported at the Pittsburg meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, indicates that the expenditure of one horse power continuously for one hour results in the production of just enough liquid air to produce, if utilized in its turn as a source of power, in a perfect machine, one horse power for one minute. The experimenter adds that the most efficient method of obtaining liquid air as yet discovered would increase the time to only five minutes.
