

Scrofula

It is commonly inherited. Few are entirely free from it. Pale, weak, puny children are afflicted with it in nine cases out of ten, and many adults suffer from it.

Common indications are bunches in the neck, abscesses, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting, and general debility.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Eradicate it, positively and absolutely. This statement is based on the thousands of permanent cures these medicines have wrought.

"My daughter had scrofula, with eleven sores on her neck and about her ears. Hood's Sarsaparilla was highly recommended and she took it and was cured. She is now in good health." Mrs. J. H. Jones, Parker City, Ind.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

THEY ARE RECONCILED.

The Reuniting of a Vanderbilt Scion and His Wife.

A reconciliation has taken place between Elliott Fitch Shepard, Jr., of New York, a grandson of the late William H. Vanderbilt, and his wife, Esther Wiggin Potter Shepard. For six months they were separated by reason of allegations of impropriety on his part, because of which Mrs. Shepard brought suit for a legal separation. The influence of the family prevailed, and, presumably, there will hereafter be smooth sailing.

The marriage of these young people was a society sensation. Elliott Shepard, whose father was the famous publisher, was one of the liveliest young men Yale ever turned out. His bride was the daughter of a grocer who kept a small store in Greenport, L. I. She was the prettiest girl on the island, could swim, ride a horse and play tennis. Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, the mother of the defendant, who was instrumental in reuniting the young people, lives at Woodlea, which is situated at Scarborough-on-the-Hudson, and is one of the finest country estates in America. The Pampelion gardens there are marvels of the gardener's art.

What the Duke Is.

A teacher who was showing portraits of Queen Victoria and her family held up a picture of the Duke of York. Nobody in the class could tell who it was. "Well," said the teacher, "he is the Duke of York, and now can any of you tell me what he is?" The hand of a little girl went up as she answered quickly and promptly: "He's the heir consumptive to the British throne."

What He Was Coming To.

Gruff Doctor—Unless you die young or acquire a little gumption, you have before you the prospect of the greenest old age possible to humanity.—Baltimore American.

Science AND INVENTION

A French physician removes most foreign bodies from the ear by sucking them into a soft rubber tube.

"Nieves penitentes," slightly inclined snow columns resembling shrouded figures doing penance, are a peculiar phenomenon of the Andes to which Sir M. Conway has given attention. They are the last remains of drifts or slides which have become hardened in nearly vertical strata of different densities.

A plan recently employed in France for giving a stereoscopic effect to magic-lantern pictures thrown upon a screen is to furnish each spectator with a pair of prisms, set in spectacle frames, through which two pictures, side by side on the screen, are viewed. The angles of the prisms are varied for widely different distances from the screen, but owing to the natural power of accommodation of the eye, the same angle serves at distances not widely variant.

Two coats of hot oil, carefully applied after thorough cleaning of the metal, are recommended by a Canadian artisan as an improvement over any process now in use for preventing rust of structural iron and steel. The oil would fill crevices, cracks and holes where paint cannot enter. It would cover rough places often imperfectly coated in ordinary painting, and it would be a fine preparation for subsequent painting or covering with cement coating.

Some of the giant Sequoias of Southern California are estimated to be from five thousand to eight thousand years old, having perhaps, spanned the entire period of written history. A section in the American Museum of Natural History was cut from one of these trees at a height of twenty feet. Is a little more than eighteen feet in diameter, and its concentric rings show that it began its growth in 550 A. D., the tree reaching a diameter of thirteen feet at Columbus landing.

Arsenic, the dreaded poison that Professor Armand Gautier of Paris asserts is essential to life, proves to be disseminated in the primitive rocks, from which sea-water derives its store. The minute quantity taken in the food becomes localized in the skin and its appendages, the thyroid and mammary glands, the brain and the bones, and it is stated to be the exciting ferment of the functions of sensation and reproduction, just as phosphorus is the exciting element of the functions of cellular nutrition.

Fresh discoveries are continually adding to the world's known stores of iron. Last summer extensive fields of iron ore were found in northern Norway, on the coast of Sydvaranger Bay, near the Russian border. Analyses at Christiania show that the ore, because the presence of titanium which is regarded as a good indication, because the presence of titanium in large quantity retards the melting of ore. It is said there are good harbors near these new iron fields, and surveys have shown that the ore covers a very large territory.

Recent researches by Professor Macfayden have shown that many micro-organisms can be exposed to the temperature of liquid air for a period of six months without any appreciable loss of vitality, although, at such a temperature, the ordinary chemical processes of the living cell must cease. Referring to Professor Macfayden's experiments, Professor James Dewar says that the organisms in the state just described "cannot be said to be either alive or dead, in the ordinary acceptance of these words. It is a new and hitherto unobtainable condition of living matter—a third state."
