Let the World Know.

On different occasions THE LEADER has invited the attention of the people of Lincoln County to the value and necessity of their co-operation in developing the natural resources of Yaquina Bay and her surrounding territory by the aid of advertising mediums. We have been ably supported in our efforts from time to time by men who believe in a great future for our county and whose labor in her behalf, has demonstrated to our citizens the fact that their works are prompted by that unselfish spirit that marks the man whose chief pleasure lies in promoting the well-fare of, and bettering the conditions surrounding their fellow-men. Among these, to whom our county owes so much, is Prof. J. B. Horner of the Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis, whose good works in behalf of not only Lincoln County, but the whole of Oregon, has placed him on record as undisputed authority as to the best methods of advertising our State, explaining in a lucid manner her advantages to the thousands of homeseekers of our vast domain who are looking toward Oregon longingly, but with doubting minds.

In a recent interview kindly accorded THE LEADER, Mr. Horner gave expression on this subject as follows:

"At the present time various railroad companies are distributing through the mails vast quantities of highly illustrated advertising matter portraying the attractive features of the sea-side, mountains and rivers of the West. The historic Columbia, the noble Cascades that have become famous as the 'Oregon Sierras,' and the old ocean with its everlasting roar and splendid scenery are among the things that Oregon enterprise mentions while inviting immigrants and visitors this way. 'Noticeable among these publications is the richly illuminated booklet entitled 'Yaquina Bay' issued by the C. & E. and S. P. Railroad Companies. It is a little gem worthy to be read. It contains fifteen illustrations in colors and a store of valuable information about our seaside in a style charming and faithful to fact.

"It occurs to me that persons interested in attracting pleasure seekers to our coast can perform a valuable service to the State of Oregon by forwarding such publications as I have mentioned, to those in our State and abroad who might be interested in scenery surprisingly beautiful, and also be benefitted by the recreations of a delightful outing. Furthermore it seems patriotic and proper to send to the managers of these enterprising companies the post-office addresses of persons who should be approached upon the subject of a possible visit or future residence in this State."
