"Will" J. Bryan's troubles are not all purely political.

Lou Dillon, the famous trotting mare, comes back at Cresceus with a mark of 1:58½, while Dan Patch lowers the pacing record to 1:56½. This will serve as a topic of conversation until Congress convenes, when we'll get some news as is news."

It is now explained that some of Mister Hitchcock's timber reserves in Oregon are only temporary and will in due time be thrown open for entry, this being necessary to keep them out of the hands of the ungodly land grabbers. If somebody will lend us a microscope we'll begin a careful search for the logic concealed in the explanation.

Down in Camas Valley, a few days ago, a fight was precipitated by a man striking another man's dog. The owner of the dog used a knife, and the dog-beater received injuries which were expected to terminate fatally. It was really the only valid excuse for a mix-up, but the owner should have used a shotgun. A knife is a dangerous and barbarous weapon.
