Fourth of July was celebrated on the Siletz bay as never before.

A little drop of rain would not come amiss, although we are not suffering for it.

Chesley Bones has built a new barn on the Oscar Wood land. It is a fine large one and a credit to the community.

Several loads of wool were hauled out to Sheridan and sold for 19 cents a pound. After pricing goods, the teams came back empty so report is. Sugar was found to be 20 cents higher than at the Cloverdale Mercantile Company's store on Siletz bay.

The Della came in Siletz bay last week, loaded to the guards, which filled the little store to overflowing. Several tons of feed, with stoves and kegs of nails had to be stored in a basement hastily constructed under the store-room. Mr. Ray and Mr. Nelson were on board the ship, and assisted in fixing up the store.

Special Excursion to the World's Fair.

The Denver & Rio Grande, in connection with the Missouri Pacific, will run a series of personally conducted excursions to the World's Fair during June. These excursions will run through to St. Louis without change of cars, making short stops at principal points en route. The first of these excursions will leave Portland June 7th, and the second June 17. The rate from Albany will be $70.75 to St. Louis and return. Excursionists going via the Denver & Rio Grande have the privilege of returning via a different route. This is the most pleasant way, as well as the most delightful route, to cross the continent. The stops arranged give an opportunity of visiting the various points of interest in and about Salt Lake City, Denver and Kansas City. If you wish to accompany one of these excursions write at once to W. C. McBride, 124 Third street, Portland, for sleeping car reservations.

Willie's Sympathy.

The new clergyman was invited to dine with the family the other Sunday, and eight-year-old Willie, of course, made himself conspicuous during his stay. He seemed to be deeply impressed with the minister, and never let his eyes stray from him. He manifested as much interest as his elders in what was said, but regarded the minister with a somewhat sorrowful expression, which was altogether uncalled for, as he was of a jovial disposition and greatly amused his hearers. As the minister was about to leave Willie meekly approached him and sadly asked,—

"Why—why—how does it feel to be poor?"

"What do you mean, Willie?" laughingly asked the minister, turning to the parents with an amused smile.

"Why, I heard papa say to mamma that you was a mighty poor preacher," was Willie's startling declaration.—July Lippincott's.

Oregon at St. Louis.

Oregon's fish and game resources are very well displayed at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in the Forestry building along with the state forestry exhibit. The combined display occupies a whole section in the southeast corner of the building, and makes a fine showing for Oregon.

Of course the most important part of the fish display is the Royal Chinook salmon from the Columbia. Five of these big fish in great glass jars show visitors what Oregon streams produce in this line, each jar containing a single salmon. Two other large jars have two steelheads each on exhibition.

Every variety of Oregon game bird, both upland and water fowl, are on hand to catch the sportsmen's eyes. The birds are of course stuffed with the exception of a pair of ring neck Chinese pheasants, which live in a cage at the end of the exhibit. These birds attract great attention, though they have now lost many of their feathers. They were very beautiful for a while, and were among the most interesting features in the whole building.

Credit for the exhibit is due to Mr. George T. Meyers, Jr., of Portland, who has been appointed superintendent of the Fish and Game by the state commission. He has worked hard with the limited means at his disposal, and has accumulated an exhibit that does Oregon great credit.

As said before, the game and fish exhibit is in the same space as the main forestry exhibit. This department is under the supervision of Edmund P. Sheldon, and comprises principally an exhibit of Oregon woods and lumber. Oregon's big timber is far too large to place in the building, and it is therefore placed with other big timber exhibits in the outside space. Oregon has two of the largest sticks in this section, one being a square timber four feet on a side and 42 feet long, and the other a rough log 30 feet long and ten feet in diameter. This log is one of seven cut from an Oregon fir at Blind Slough, Clatsop county, which stood 200 feet to the first limb. The whole tree scaled 40,000 feet, board measure.

In the inside display there are over 90 varieties of Oregon woods, all nicely exhibited, ready to catch the eyes of the Fair visitors and show them what Oregon can do in the lumber line.

The Little Maid's Conclusion.

The little maid of seven summers had been busy for an hour dressing and undressing her pretty doll, but, tiring at last, she sat with folded hands gazing fixedly in the glowing fire in the grate. Looking up, finally, with a thoughtful expression on her face, she said,—

"Mamma, if I get married when I grow up, will I have a husband like papa?"

The mother turned and, looking down into the earnest eyes of the child, answered with a smile,—

"Why, yes, dear, if you get married you will have a husband like papa."

The little brow clouded. Again she asked,—

"If I don't get married, will I be an old maid like Aunt Nellie?"

"Yes, dear, you would be an old maid," answered the mother, laughing at this rather complex question; "but whatever put such thoughts into that little head?"

But the child didn't laugh; she only looked grave, and said dejectedly,—

"Well, it's a pretty tough world for us women, ain't it?"—Lippincott's.
