Just One Little Wish.

I do not wish to dwell upon
This rough old earth for many years;
There's too much bumping here below,
Too much of grief, too many tears.
I would not shun one heavy task
That Fate has ordered for my hand;
I'm quite content to take my share
Of thumps and bruises, understand;
But some day I will have enough,
And then the little space I fill
In this sad world may be assigned
To one possessed of stronger will—
One who delights in constant strife
And bares his bosom to the fray
Without a thought of where he'll stand
When dawn for him the final day.

But while I would not linger here
Till frosty locks adorn my top,
Or till there's but a smooth expanse
Where flourished once an ample crop,
Before I leave this vale of tears
And to that peaceful haven glide,
My weeping friends, lend me your ears:
I wish Bill Bryan would subside!

The Party for Young Men.

Edward Hoch, Republican nominee for Governor of Kansas, in an address at Marion, in that state, said:

"But now these vociferous gentlemen have suddenly discovered that the gold standard is all right, and their candidate for President blandly announces that that question is 'irrevocably settled.' Young men should join a party that espouses good principles and policies at the beginning, and not a party that opposes every good thing until it is 'irrevocably settled' against it, and then tags along with a belated approval of all it had stubbornly opposed."

A few days prior to the Democratic national convention, W. J. Bryan handed out the following to Judge Parker: "A man who is weak enough to put his candidacy in the hands of Hill and Belmont before the convention would not be strong enough to resist their influence after election, if he were by any possibility successful." Well, Judge Parker received the nomination, and now Mr. Bryan has lined up with Hill and Belmont and is whooping it up for the "weak" man. What a picture!

In his first attempt to discuss the situation in the Philippines, Judge Parker made a mistake in figures of only $471,000,000. If this habit should grow on the Judge, some close observer, before the close of the campaign, may remark that he is somewhat careless.

With Claus Spreckles of the Sugar Trust and August Belmont of trusts too numerous to mention—32, we believe—working for Parker, the Democratic nominee would not feel that he is altogether an object of distrust.

Since the Ladd victories in the show ring at the St. Louis Fair cattle breeders all over the world know Oregon is on the map. Such advertising helps the state and should be appreciated by every citizen.

The Chinamen of Portland may think they have exterminated the devil, but they needn't expect the Eugene Guard to believe it while Harvey Scott flies, moves and has his being.

A Portland man is suing his employers for $5000 for the loss of a big toe. Estimated by the inch or ounce, that man is worth more than a white elephant.

Mothers, keep your little ones indoors after nightfall. Mr. Bryan says that old terror Imperialism is at large.

The Portland baseball team is clinging tenaciously to its old position in the pennant race.
