Taxpayers Take Notice.

The statutes provide that unless at least one-half of the taxes is paid on or before the first Monday in April, 1905, a penalty of 10 per cent and interest at the rate of 12 per cent until paid from said first Monday in April, 1905, will be added.

Birthdays Party

Mrs. Dan Grady, assisted by Miss Maud Horning, gave a very pleasant party at her residence on Saturday afternoon from 2 until 5 in honor of her daughter Eleanor's birth. The time was spent in playing games, after which a dainty lunch was served. All went away happy and wishing Eleanor many happy returns of the day. Those present were:

Onda Ellsworth, Juliette Bradson, Nellie and Edna Brown, Anna Hawkins, Aileen Gaidner, Elma Waugh, Marie Collins, Alta and Edna Waugh, Viola Gannon, Eulalia and Galilea Reed, Endelle Bethers, Imogene Aitree and Eleanor Grady.

The Debt Removed.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Charles M. Brown. It was a profitable meeting and the nice lunch furnished by the hostess was appreciated. The treasurer's report showed that the entire debt of the church building and parsonage has been paid, and the Society desires to thank the many citizens of Toledo and vicinity who have aided the good cause.

Died.

At Yaquina, Or., March 12, 1905, Andrew J. Stout, age 69 years.

Deceased was born in Jacksonville, Ill., April 18, 1836, and came to Clackamas county, Oregon, in 1853. He was married to Sarah Jane Stephenson November 27, 1856. He moved with his wife and two sons, Alonzo and Lucien, who survive him, to Yaquina Bay in 1896, where he has since resided, his family being present at his death.

Funeral services were held at the home Tuesday, conducted by Rev. C. R. Ellsworth of Toledo, followed by interment in Newport cemetery.

Mr. Stout was a kind husband and father and a useful and highly respected citizen. The sympathy of many friends goes out to the bereaved family.

Boat Once a Month.

John Lindstrom, Mayor of Aberdeen, is negotiating for the steam schooner Toledo for service between Portland and Gray's Harbor. It is proposed to make a round trip each week to points on the harbor and once a month to send the steamer down to Alsea and Yaquina Bay. The Toledo was built last year and is a first class coaster, but has not been able to find an opening on any of the lower runs. A. Fay of San Francisco, a part owner in the steamer, was making inquiries yesterday for a master for the craft. Several years ago there was profitable business for a steamer between Portland and the harbor, but the building of the Northern Pacific extension killed it off. It is thought that the heavy travel in the West this summer on account of the Fair will enable a steamer on this route to do a paying business.—Oregonian.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks the kind friends who assisted us during the illness of our husband and father.

Some of the old and neglected apple trees in Toledo are "lousy" with woolly aphis. They should be cut down and burned, being pest breeders, and neither useful nor ornamental. We understand there is a bit of law covering the case which might be brought into action.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hoffman departed yesterday morning for Eugene, where Mrs. Hoffman will remain during the coming summer. Mr. Hoffman will go into the Bohemia mining district, where he has accepted the foremanship of one of the Oregon Securities Company's ore mills. They expect to return to Toledo next fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green have been placed under arrest for the murder of E. G. Sharratt. The former had an examination last Saturday before Justice Wakefield, who committed him without bonds. Mrs. Green probably had a hearing yesterday in the same court. More next week. Particulars next July.

Captain R. A. Bensell of Newport was a Toledo visitor yesterday. Mr. Bensell reports that the outlook at Newport is unusually encouraging. While it has long been recognized as the finest summer resort on this coast, it is now attracting attention as a winter resort, with the result that a number of easterners are preparing to build cottages for winter use. The climate the year through is about the best to be found—a fact which travelers and homeseekers are learning. Newport will experience quite a growth this summer, and the season promises to be the best in its history.

That Awful Bear Fight.

THE LEADER noted last week that Owen Beam captured a little bear cub on his farm on the Siletz and took it to Albany. While in Toledo Owen, ably supported by Johnny Wells, related the story of the capture of that cub, with many interesting details. They told how the mamma bear stood up and heroically battled with the abductors of her little black baby; how they—the abductors—pulled their trusty five-pistols and filled Mrs. Bruin's head full of lead—or would have filled it full of lead, but the bullets all glanced off without doing serious damage. However, the fusillade caused the shrewish mother to lose her nerve, and she finally took to the brush and left Messrs. Beam and Wells in possession of the gory battlefield and also her baby. There was a pair of the cubs when the fight began, but in the scrimmage the mother accidentally sat upon one of her infants and killed it. All this, dear reader, seems to have been a dream, or a nightmare. At any rate, Oscar Wood of Siletz says he sold Owen Beam a little bear cub for the insignificant sum of $5—so we are informed. How to Stay Young.

How old are you? The adage says that women are as old as they look, and men as old as they feel. That's wrong. A man and woman are as old as they take themselves to be.

Growing old is largely a habit of the mind. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." If he begins shortly after middle age to imagine himself growing old he will be old.

To keep one's self from decrepitude is somewhat a matter of will power. The fates are kind to the man who hangs on to life with both hands. He who lets go will go. Death is slow only to tackle the tenacious.

Ponce de Leon searched in the wrong place for the fountain of youth. It is in one's self. One must keep one's self young inside. So that while "the outer man perisheth, the inner man is renewed day by day."

When the human mind ceases to exert itself, when there is no longer an active interest in the affairs of this life, when the human stops reading and thinking and doing, the man, like a blasted tree, begins to die at the top.

You are as old as you think you are. Keep the harness on. Your job is not done.—Ex.

The old subject of connecting every well-populated part of Lincoln county with the county seat by telephone is being revived. It's coming to that one of these days—perhaps sooner than is generally supposed. The only things required are a combination of capital and harmony.

Death of Moses Parker.

Moses Parker, aged 73 years, died at his home near this city at 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon after an illness of a couple of weeks of bronchial pneumonia. The funeral will be held from the family home at Sand Ridge at 10 a. m., on Wednesday and burial will be had in Sand Ridge cemetery.

Deceased was a native of Ohio and came to Oregon in 1852, since which time he has been prominently identified with the progress of this state. He was for many years prominent in the business affairs of the state and for a number of years conducted a warehouse in Albany, erecting and operating the warehouse that was later remodeled and made into the Red Crown Mills now running here.

He was a member of the Grange and of Safety lodge No. 13, A. O. U. W. He leaves a widow and four sons, all residing in Linn county, to mourn his death. Mrs. Virgil Parker of this city is a niece.—Albany Herald, March 14.

Moses Parker was a brother of Allan Parker of Toledo, and well-known to many of our citizens.

J. L. HYDE, County Treasurer.

Dated at Toledo, Or., this 10th day of March, 1905.

The Portland market is bare of broilers, with the price at 25 to 50 cents. A little three-months-old chicken delivered there brings a half dollar, and is snatched from the coop by buyers with such a demand that there is no supply. The wonder is that effort is not made to meet this demand. Nothing turns into money so quickly, or apparently pays such a profit on the investment.—Corvallis Times.

How unsatisfactory the mail order method is. A man near here who got his wife through the matrimonial newspaper route is now asking the court to grant him a divorce. It serves the poor man right. He should have patronized the home market and he would have known what he was getting. Never send away for anything when you can get the same article at home, and there is less possibility of getting cheated.—Estacada News.

Day to Honor Heroine.

July 6 has been selected as Sacajawea and Order of Red Men day at the Lewis and Clark Exposition. On this date the bronze statue of Sacajawea will be unveiled with formal ceremonies. The Sacajawea Statue Association will share the honors of the day with the Order of Red Men in giving due recognition to the neglected heroine. The exercises will be attended by many noted women who will come to attend the National Woman's Suffrage convention and the National Association of Charities and Corrections, which will be held at that time. In order to participate in the ceremonies, the Order of Red Men changed their day at the Fair from July 25. A feature of the exercises will be the presence of several thousand school children each wearing a button upon which is the likeness of Sacajawea.

For the purpose of honoring a neglected heroine the Sacajawea Statue Association, composed of prominent Oregon women, was formed some time ago with Mrs. Eva Emery Dye as President. The Association has raised the money for the erection of the statue and chosen the design. The statue was executed by Miss Alice Cooper of Denver, Colorado, and presents a young Indian woman with a papoose strapped to her back. The girl pointing toward the distant sea, her face radiant and head thrown back and eyes full of daring. A short hunting skirt, made of deer skins, and leggings, show a figure full of the buoyancy and animation of youth. The statue is composed of Oregon copper and cost $7,000.

The entire sum necessary for the installation of this memorial has not been raised, but contributions are being solicited from women all over the country, and it is expected that the total amount will be subscribed to pay off all indebtedness by the time the statue is unveiled. Western women have been enthusiastic in leading their support to this commendable movement. The statue, which is the first ever erected in honor of an Indian woman, will occupy a conspicuous position in the center of Columbia Court, the central plaza of the Exposition, facing Lakeview Terrace, where are statues of Lewis and Clark.

Sacajawea was an Indian girl, a member of the Shoshone tribe, who joined the Lewis and Clark expedition, which crossed the mountains to the Pacific a century ago, while the party was in midwinter quarters among the Mandan Indians, in what is now North Dakota. Sacajawea was then the mother of a young babe. She was the only woman on the expedition, and shared with the men the hardships of the toilsome journey across the continent. She was the friend of Captains Clark and Lewis and generally rode with them in advance of the party, where her presence served to allay the suspicions of the tribes through whose country they passed. On two occasions she saved the lives of the party, pointing the road when every one else was lost and starvation was staring the little band in the face.

Sacajawea accompanied the party through its entire journeyings. Her husband, Charbonneau, was taken along to act as guide and interpreter. When the expedition, on the return trip, reached the country of the Mandans, Charbonneau decided to stay there, and his ever-faithful wife remained with him. It is presumed that she died shortly afterwards.

It may be safely said that if it had not been for this Indian girl, Lewis and Clark would probably never have reached the Pacific. The women of the country deserve great credit for making it possible for this heroine to share in the honors of the explorers at the Exposition commemorating the expedition of a century ago.
