Lincoln County Wants.

During the past few weeks THE LEADER has received numerous inquiries from eastern parties relative to the resources, industries and business opportunities of Lincoln county.

It is generally agreed that to the hread and thorough business man with the necessary capital Lincoln county offers inducements worthy of thoughtful consideration.

While the finest of all kinds of berries and small fruits grow in abundance, with not a failure on record, there is not a fruit cannery in Lincoln county, and the shelves of our groceries are filled with canned goods from California. Capital seeking investment might with profit investigate this industry.

No higher grade of wool or mohair is grown in any other part of the state, yet Lincoln county has no woolen mill. A home market would soon add thousands to the bands of sheep and goats which graze upon our hills, as well as thousands to the wealth of the county. This is the opinion of some of our leading citizens.

No real good reason can be advanced why Lincoln county should be behind its neighbors in the creamery business. This is destined to become one of the great industries of the county, yet today it is in its infancy—hardly sprouted, we might say. Here is certainly a chance for a wide-awake man with capital.

It is hardly to be doubted that better transportation facilities and better markets will materialize when energy and capital get busy and create a demand for them.

REV. FRANK OWEN JONES,
Minister-in-Charge.

Captain R. A. Bensell of Newport was in the city Wednesday.

Superintendent Knott C. Egbert of Siletz had business in the city Tuesday night.

C. W. Mulkey and L. A. January were visitors from the Big Elk country Wednesday.

Attorney C. E. Hawkins fly fished between Chitwood and Morrison Tuesday with considerable success.

Owen Graves, the energetic and popular Bon Ton merchant of Newport, had business in Toledo Tuesday.

S. C. Norton, one of the enterprising Siletz ranchers, left Wednesday morning on a business mission at St. Johns.

Mrs. D. Jenkins of Yaquina, who is temporarily located at Albany, passed down to Yaquina Monday evening for a brief visit.

Mrs. Wygant's new spring stock of ladies' shirtwaists, ladies' and children's underwear; also the latest in ladies' street hats, has just arrived.

Mike Mackay returned Tuesday evening from Corvallis, where he has been visiting his father, who was dangerously ill for some time, but is now recovering.

Jack Rader returned Tuesday evening from Eagle Valley mining district, where he has some promising claims. He expects to take a trip to California soon.

THE LEADER stated last week that Liveryman George Hall had socked an ax into his right foot. We apologize. It was his left foot—and we're properly glad that the foot was left.

George Chambers and family are again anchored on their farm home near Chitwood, where George will make extensive improvements this summer and peel a little chittim for pasture.

Messrs. Eugene Williams and Mark Rowin and Mesdames R. A. Bensell and Maggie Rich came up from Newport Tuesday via the wagon road. Mrs. Rich has been visiting Newport friends for some time.

George Walker of Portland arrived Saturday evening to take charge of the repair work on the steamer Richardson. Mr. Walker is an expert ship builder. Several years ago he constructed the steamer Volante on Yaquina Bay and has many old friends here. He is accompanied by his wife.

Merchant C. H. Gardner celebrated his 51st birthday Sunday evening, the 16th inst. The pleasant social time and elegant dinner were enjoyed by the following invited guests: Mesdames William Scarth, A. T. Peterson and A. J. McMillan, Messrs. C. E. Hawkins, A. T. Peterson and J. E. Franklin.

G. S. Parmele and son Clarence of Johnson were in the city Tuesday after a 4-horse load of necessities. They came over the Newport-Siletz Bay road and speak highly of that new and famous highway. They are looking forward to the day when an easy and quick method of crossing the river will be provided.

E. S. Barnes, aged 60 years, a respected citizen of Bay View, died Tuesday, the 18th, of heart failure. The body was brought to Toledo Wednesday and taken next day to Beaverton, Or., for burial, accompanied by the wife of the deceased and a son, W. E. Barnes of Beaverton. A daughter and J. C. Barnes, a brother, and J. R. Walker, all of Bay View, also came to Toledo on the sad mission.

In remitting the sum of $322.44 to the Oregon Land and Live Stock Company, the amount being the penalty and interest on delinquent taxes, the Commissioners' Court clearly set forth its reasons for so doing, which ought to satisfy any citizen who is willing to be satisfied. The members of the Court were, as they state, "fully advised in the premises," and therefore in a position to hand out justice to all concerned—including taxpayers generally.

County Clerk and Mrs. Ira Wade arrived home Wednesday evening, the latter from a visit with Salem friends. Ira went to Portland to plead not guilty to the charge of attempting to carry off a portion of the public domain. After reading a copy of the indictment, it is rather hard for a common man to figure out just what crime Ira is charged with committing. There is really nothing to it, and he will be vindicated easily when placed on trial, which may not be for a year.

Mr. Altree's constantly increasing business demands increased capacity, and he will in a few weeks be able to meet all orders promptly.
