

IT IS A REMARKABLE BOAT.

Can Sail Against Any Wind and in Six Inches of Water.

There is on Lake Brintin, in this county, one of the most peculiar boats in the country. It will not do to call it a sailboat, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press, for, although it is driven by the wind, it has no sails. The term stern-wheeler is somewhat a misnomer, for that name indicates something by steam, or gasoline, neither of which this strange boat uses.

The machinery consists of a windmill, set up in the center of the boat, the wheel of the mill being connected with the shaft on which the wheel that drives the boat is hung at the stern, and when the wind blows and drives the windmill around the windmill turns the paddle wheel at the back of the boat and she moves forward through the water.

The boat is made with a flat bottom and is quite wide, so that it draws only a few inches of water, and inasmuch as there is no propeller to become tangled in weeds beneath the surface, the boat can sail over the water anywhere where it is six inches deep, and is therefore in great demand when the season for gathering water lilies arrives.

The windmill is so adjusted that the power it gives to turn the paddle wheel is far in excess of the resistance the boat offers to the pressure of the air upon it, and the boat therefore moves easily forward, directly against the wind, although driven by the power of the wind alone.

This makes it very convenient to use, for although it is, in reality, a sailboat, there is never any danger of its getting caught against a lee shore and being unable to get away. All the helmsman has to do is to turn the prow directly into the wind and connect the power, and away she goes, skipping over the water as lightly as a bird upon the wing.

Theodore Pettman, of Wheatley, is the maker and owner of the boat, and he has had so many orders for duplication of it that he is liable to go into the manufacture of others like it.

Defends Jews.

"It is ignorance and race prejudice that lead immigration restrictionists to classify Jewish immigrants among the undesirable," declared a Chicago banker of the race. "There is no such thing as a grave Jewish problem in this country. Statistics show that the accession of hundreds of thousands of 'ignorant' and 'Russian' Jews by immigration in recent years has not burdened the rich Jews. On the contrary, it has helped to make them and the country as well richer and more prosperous. As to the differences between the liberal Americanized Jews and the newly arrived orthodox Jews there is nothing to be exercised over. For brethren to quarrel occasionally is but natural. But no matter how bitter the attack of the orthodox Jew on the liberalized Jew, the tenets of strict orthodox Judaism command that all differences between Jew and Jew must be forgiven and forgotten on the eve of Atonement day. No scene can be more impressive than that in Jewish homes and in orthodox synagogues on the eve of Kol Nidre, when those who have happened to quarrel during the year tearfully extend the hands to one another, earnestly praying forgiveness."

An article published in a newspaper of Hungary recently led to thirteen duels, in all of which members of the editorial force took part.

Pecan Nougat.

Stir together one and one-quarter pounds of pulverized sugar, one pound of glucose and one-eighth of a pound of gelatine dissolved in hot water. Whip or beat the mixture until it becomes light and white, then stir in slowly one pound and one-quarter of sugar cooked to the ball. Now mix in thoroughly one and one-quarter pounds of chopped pecans, not very fine. Line a box on the bottom and sides, first with ordinary blank paper, then with paraffin paper, and pour in the candy, pressing it down to form a smooth, compact mass. Lay paraffin paper on the top and set aside to become cold and dry. The nougat may then be readily slipped from the box and sliced nicely with a sharp knife. The slices should be wrapped in paraffin paper.

Egg Timbales.

The housewife who is on the lookout for something new to tempt the appetites of her family should try some egg timbales, for breakfast. To prepare these, break open four eggs into a bowl, add half a teaspoonful of salt, a saltspoonful of pepper, and, if liked, a few drops of onion sauce. Beat only until thoroughly blended, then add gradually a cup of rich new milk. Divide equally among six well-buttered timbale molds (common cups will serve the purpose). Stand them in a pan half filled with hot water and bake in a moderate oven about twenty minutes, or until firm to the touch. Turn out carefully on a heated platter and pour around some bread sauce.

Pie Crust.

Into three cupfuls of sifted flour stir two teaspoonfuls of salt and one teaspoonful of baking powder, and sift all thoroughly. Turn into a mixing bowl, add a cup of good lard, and cut this into bits with a knife, keeping each piece covered with the flour. Do not use the hands. When the lard is cut into the tiniest possible bits add, gradually, enough ice water to make a dry, crumbly paste, mixing it with a fork. Turn upon a floured board and roll out. This paste may be used two hours after making, but it is better if allowed to stand in a cold place over night. It will not cause dyspepsia.

Simple Pudding.

Ingredients: Three ounces of bread crumbs, a few almonds and raisins, half a pint of milk, one ounce of butter, a dessertspoonful of sugar, rind of half a lemon, two eggs. Method: Butter a pudding mold, and decorate it with the almonds and raisins. Soak the bread crumbs in the milk for a quarter of an hour; add the butter, the grated lemon rind and the well-beaten eggs. Mix all well together, and pour the mixture into the mold; cover with buttered paper and steam for three hours.

Nut Cake.

Six eggs, half pound of butter, one pound of sugar, one pound of flour, one teacup of sweet milk, two light teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one pound of chopped pecans, two teacupfuls of raisins, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and allspice, one nutmeg. Mix and bake in a deep pan. This cake may be baked in layers and put together with plain icing or caramel.

Chestnut Patties.

Shell a quart of chestnuts, pour boiling water over them and skin; cover with boiling water and cook until soft; drain and mash through a colander; add one-half cup of cream, two well-beaten eggs, a quarter cup of sugar, a saltspoonful of salt and a cup and a half of milk; line patties with rich paste, fill with the chestnut mixture and bake.

Rice Balls.

To one pint of hot boiled rice add a large cup of finely minced cooked chicken, a well-beaten egg, salt and pepper to taste, and sufficient thick cream sauce to moisten slightly. Mix all smoothly together, and when cold form into small balls, egg and bread crumb them and fry in deep fat.

Quince Honey.

Seven pounds of sugar, one quart of water, six quinces, pared and grated. Boil the sugar and water to a thick syrup or until it falls in fine threads from a spoon lifted out of it. Drop the grated fruit into the syrup and boil for ten minutes. Do not stir.

White Liniment.

Into one quart of pure vinegar and one-half pint of turpentine put two fresh eggs, shell and all; let them stand until the shells have dissolved; then remove the thin skin that remains and shake very hard, when it will turn perfectly white and is ready for use.

Feeling in His Art.

The singing teacher was visiting the school, and as this was an important event in the district, the pupils had been instructed to memorize a verse or two to recite for the entertainment of the visitor.

During the delivery of his lines, one small boy was especially noticeable for the action with which he accompanied his words; so much so that the teacher, surprised at his efforts, commended him highly on the ease with which he spoke and the apparent practice which he must have put on the piece.

"It was fine," she exclaimed, in closing, "and shows a large amount of rehearsal! But, Johnny, where did you get the gestures?"

"Tain't the gestures," replied the young genius, with a twist, "tain't the gestures; it's the hives."

At a Disadvantage.

"You say Congressmen are at a disadvantage in dealing with the railways?" asked the indignant citizen.

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, "they are at a disadvantage."

"For what reason?"

"Well, you see, Congress can't issue passes that will get you anywhere."—Washington Star.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.
