

For that Dandruff

There is one thing that will cure it—Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is a regular scalp-medicine. It quickly destroys the germs which cause this disease. The unhealthy scalp becomes healthy. The dandruff disappears, had to disappear. A healthy scalp means a great deal to you—healthy hair, no dandruff, no pimples, no eruptions.

Fifteenth Century Manners.

The antiquary took down a small, fat volume, vellum-bound, with a brass clasp.

"This is a 'Book of Manners,'" he said. "It was printed in 1476. Here are a few extracts."

And he read:

"Do not gnaw a bone, like a dog, nor suck the marrow out of a bone."

"In peeling a pear, begin at the stalk; but with an apple, begin at the top."

"Do not wipe the hands on the clothes, nor suck them, but use the cloth."

"When you drink, lift the cup in both hands; you must not drink with one hand like a wagoner when he is greasing his cart wheels."

"Wipe your nose and mouth when you have drunk, and do not cough into the cup."

"Do not eat an apple all alone, but cut it in two and give a neighbor a piece."

"Do not use your own knife to cut your meat if the host has set a knife of his own at your place."

"Do not spread butter on bread with your thumb."

Babel in Mexico.

After answering the telephone and talking Spanish into it without apparently getting results, the clerk at a hotel hung up the receiver and remarked:

"My Spanish isn't the best in the world, I know, but I should think a man would know how to talk at least. The fellow just talking to me over the phone couldn't talk enough Spanish to order a meal, and to save me I couldn't make him understand, although I know I used correct language. While he was talking an American rushed into the hotel and up to the desk. 'Say,' he said, 'can't anyone here talk English. I just tried to telephone here and the idiot trying to talk Spanish over the phone knows mighty little about the language.'"

"I was talking to you," said the clerk.

When apologies were made the conversation continued in English.—Mexican Herald.

Trouble Ahead.

THE HOUSEHOLD

Preserving Corn on the Cob.

It is quite an easy matter to preserve corn on the cob. Gather the ears when the grains are full and before they begin to glaze. Soak them half an hour in brine made strong enough to float an egg. Then rinse them in cold water and put where they will dry. When the grains are shriveled and there is no more moisture in the cob, pack in wooden boxes and cover closely in a dark, dry closet. When wanted for use soak in warm water until the grains are filled out fairly well, then cook as though freshly gathered.

Pickled Pig's Feet.

When cleaned and cracked, put them in two quarts of water; let them slowly simmer for three hours or until very tender; then pour them through the colander. Take out all the bones, cut up the feet and put them into the liquor in which they were boiled; let it cool, then remove all fat; to the liquor and chopped feet pour a half pint of vinegar, a teaspoonful of whole allspice, a little salt and red pepper; put all into a saucepan, let simmer for five minutes, keeping it tightly covered; stir it well and pour it all into a pan.

Deviled Oysters.

Cook together five minutes two tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of chopped green pepper, half a teaspoonful chopped onion. Add half a cup well-strained oyster liquor, one tablespoonful tomato catsup, one-third teaspoonful salt, one-half teaspoonful prepared mustard, a dash of cayenne and a pint of chopped oysters. Simmer for five minutes and fill the rice cups. Serve piping hot.

Sponge Pudding.

Bake a common sponge cake in a flat-bottomed pudding dish. When ready for use cut in six or eight pieces. Split and spread with butter and return them to the dish. Make a custard with four eggs to a quart of milk, flavor and sweeten to taste. Pour over the cake and bake one-half hour. The cake will swell and fill the custard. This is delicious.

Sausage.

Mix six pounds of lean, fresh pork with half as much fat pork and grind well. Stir into this mass of meat six teaspoonfuls each of salt and black pepper, twelve teaspoonfuls of powdered sage, two teaspoonfuls each of powdered cloves and mace and one grated nutmeg. Pack in a stone crock. Pour melted lard over the top of the meat to preserve it.

Delicious Rice Pudding.

Take two quarts of sweet milk, two heaping tablespoonfuls of rice, a teacup of raisins, a little salt and sugar to suit the taste; grate in about half a nutmeg, stir all together cold, put into the oven and bake slowly for about two hours, or until it becomes creamy. It is best eaten cold.

Transparent Apples.

Pare twelve large apples and simmer them till soft in enough water to cover them. Dip them out, being careful not to break them. Add to the water a pound of sugar, two lemons and two oranges, sliced. As soon as it thickens, put back the apples and simmer till clear.

Roller Poley.

Make a good biscuit dough, and roll about three-quarters of an inch thick, spread over this thin slices of apples, roll up, tie in a pudding-cloth and steam one hour and a half. Serve with hard sauce flavored with vanilla.

Continuous Politics.

"We must have a leader," said a member of the mob.

"What for?"

"So that we can have a revolution."

"And then?"

"We'll put him in authority."

"And then?"

"Another leader, of course, and another revolution."—Washington Star.

Vain Regret.

"But, Bertie," said his mother, "you asked for two cakes and I gave them to you. Aren't you satisfied?"

"No, I ain't," growled Bertie. "You was so easy I'm kickin' meself 'cause I didn't ask for four."—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE LAXATIVE OF KNOWN QUALITY

There are two classes of remedies: those of known quality and which are permanently beneficial in effect, acting gently, in harmony with nature, when nature needs assistance; and another class, composed of preparations of unknown, uncertain and inferior character, acting temporarily, but injuriously, as a result of forcing the natural functions unnecessarily. One of the most exceptional of the remedies of known quality and excellence is the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., which represents the active principles of plants, known to act most beneficially, in a pleasant syrup, in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to contribute their rich, yet delicate, fruity flavor. It is the remedy of all remedies to sweeten and refresh and cleanse the system gently and naturally, and to assist one in overcoming constipation and the many ills resulting therefrom. Its active principles and quality are known to physicians generally, and the remedy has therefore met with their approval, as well as with the favor of many millions of well informed persons who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual experience that it is a most excellent laxative remedy. We do not claim that it will cure all manner of ills, but recommend it for what it really represents, a laxative remedy of known quality and excellence, containing nothing of an objectionable or injurious character.

There are two classes of purchasers: those who are informed as to the quality of what they buy and the reasons for the excellence of articles of exceptional merit, and who do not lack courage to go elsewhere when a dealer offers an imitation of any well known article; but, unfortunately, there are some people who do not know, and who allow themselves to be imposed upon. They cannot expect its beneficial effects if they do not get the genuine remedy.

To the credit of the druggists of the United States be it said that nearly all of them value their reputation for professional integrity and the good will of their customers too highly to offer imitations of the

Do Spiders Like Music?

It has often been said that spiders are fond of music, but a French investigator, M. Lecailou, now asserts that this is not true. He says that their musical sense must be attributed merely to greed or to hunger. When a fly is caught in a spider's web it buzzes, and the spider immediately makes for the place from which the buzzing comes. M. Lecailou, by experimenting with a violin, some flies, a piano, violoncello and a cornet, found that only those musical sounds which resemble the buzzing of the flies attracted the spiders. The cornet, for instance, invariably frightened it, and so did the piano.
