Buy a Cow.

Whether we are better or worse than our fathers is open to dispute, but there is no doubt that domestic animals of all kinds are advancing at a rapid ratio. The horse's trotting record has gone down steadily from the minutes until now it is under two, and the average farm horse, chicken and dog are ahead of the last generation or any preceding generation. And yet they have not gone to school or college. Butter is going up all the time, but so is the cow. In Wisconsin a Holstein-Friesian cow has produced 260 pounds of butter in sixty days. For the uninformed we remark that that beats the world's record by forty pounds. If the milk that cow produced had been sold for five cents a quart, the return to the owner in sixty days would have been $133.—Ex.

There had been a railway accident near the town, and a shrewd lawyer had hurried to the scene of the disaster. He noticed an old negro with a badly injured head, and hurried to where he lay moaning on the ground.

"How about damages?" he began. But the sufferer waved him off. "G'way boss, g'way," he said; "Ah nebber hit the train; ah nebber done such a tin' in all mah life; yo' cain't get no damages out of me."
