Butter, Cheese and Apples.

"Please side step and give me the center of the stage," says the dairyman to the fruit grower, and continuing, the producer of butter and cheese has this to say: "We are all proud of Oregon's apples and pears. Glad you got the use of the great show windows in which to present yourselves to the admiring thousands, but you only come once a year, while we add a little to the wealth of Oregon every day of the three hundred and sixty-five.

"Oregon fruit's five million dollar yield for 1907 is great, but Oregon's dairy product, growing from nothing ten years ago to five millions in 1902, and seventeen millions in 1907, is going to give a grand entertainment in Portland December 12 and 13.

"Two floors of the big Woodmen's Hall at 11th and Alder have been engaged for that purpose, one for the exhibits and the other for the convention. The prizes offered are the greatest ever presented in the West. The program will be excellent. There will be a reception, with refreshments and music, at the Portland Commercial Club, the evening of the 12th.

"It is the farmer and dairyman who should be present at this convention. All of the commercial bodies should have delegates present, and as the women of Oregon have made the state famous for its dairy products they will be especially welcome and some of the best papers on the program will be delivered by women.

"The exercises will open promptly at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, December 12, at Woodmen's Hall. Each and every paper will be discussed so that the practical points may be brought out. All delegates are urged to be present, however, an hour before the opening Thursday so as to register, receive badges, and get time to examine the exhibit in the large room just below the convention hall.

"The officers of the Oregon Dairy Association want you to come prepared to ask questions, to feel that you are present to be benefitted, and to appreciate that the discussion of the papers after they are delivered is more valuable than the papers themselves, for this character of discussion brings out all the strong points.

"The business men of Portland have put up money to insure the publication of the proceedings in the best possible manner, and to illustrate the same, but only the facts and vital information will be printed, and these are wanted from every district in Oregon. The railroads have made a rate of a fare and a third from every point in the State."

An aged Jersey farmer, visiting a circus for the first time, stood before the domed cage, eyes popping and mouth agape at the strange beast within. The circus proper began and the crowds left for the main show, but still the old man stood before the cage in stunned silence, appraising every detail of the mishapen legs, the cloven heels, the pendulous upper lip and the curiously mounded back of the sleepy-eyed beast. Fifteen minutes passed. Then the farmer turned away and spat disgustedly.

"Shucks! They ain't no such animal!"—Everybody's Magazine.

The meanest man we ever knew, lived in Hannibal, says an exchange. He sold his son-in-law half of a very fine cow, and then refused to share the milk with the young fellow on the ground that he had only sold him the front half. The son-in-law was also compelled to provide all the cow's fodder, and to carry water to her twice a day, her mouth being at the front end. Finally the cow butted the old man through a barbed wire fence, and he sued his son-in-law for $50 damages. As a result the young man hit his part in the head with the axe and his paw-in-law's part died.
