No official in Oregon ever had a cleaner official record than has Jim Ross. He has always conducted the Sheriff's office properly, therefore has made us a good official and is entitled to every Republican vote in the county at the election next Monday.

We do not feel that it is necessary to ask the voters of Lincoln county to vote for Ira Wade for County Clerk. For six years he has filled that position and during all this time not one word of criticism has ever been uttered against his official record. Under his administration the office has become a large source of revenue to the county instead of an expense. Courteous and impartial to all, his office open at any hour of the night to accommodate the public, a man of integrity and ability, he should and will receive the vote of every man in the county next Monday.

The Oregon Rural Letter Carriers' Association will hold their convention at Albany Friday, the 29th. Secretary-Treasurer John H. Goins of the Association is a resident of Albany, and in connection with Bury I. Dasent, secretary of the Albany Commercial Club, is arranging an intensely interesting program. The motto and banner of the Rural Letter Carriers is "Stand for better roads and a greater Oregon." President John H. Scott of the Oregon Good Roads Association, President Cambell of the University of Oregon and other distinguished speakers will be present.

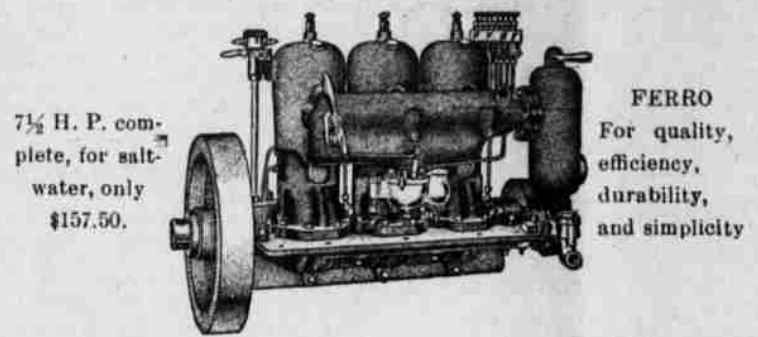

One of the most important questions to be voted on next Monday is that of a county High School. Every voter who is interested in schools in this county, and it is hoped every voter is, should vote for the measure. What is the sense of sending our boys and girls out of the county to take the high school studies, or of paying tuition for them to go to a district high school? The expense to the taxpayers of maintaining a county high school will be small considering the benefits to be derived from having such an institution. The most prosperous counties and communities are those having good schools. Let's help better our school condition in this county by having a county high school. Put a cross after 53 on your ballot next Monday.

In last Friday's Portland Journal appeared a "Special Dispatch" from Newport in which the writer attempts to give local option a black eye, and, incidentally, to slap Toledo. He claims Toledo is so full of blind pigs that the people of the county are becoming so disgusted that they will vote against local option, next Monday; that Newport liquor dealers have obeyed the law well since the county went dry two years ago. When he wrote the article there had been two arrests in Toledo for the violation of the local option law, and five at Newport, all plead guilty. Were they pulled because they were obeying the law? Yes? No? Will the gentleman ever accomplish much good for his own town by trying to injure his neighboring town? We know the citizens of Newport do not approve of such a sentiment.

Get an '08 Ferro

Its a Beauty as well as a thing of Utility.

7½ H. P. complete, for salt-water, only $157.50.

FERRO
For quality, efficiency, durability, and simplicity

Built in 1, 2 and 3 Cylinders, from 1-2 to 25 H. P.
Single Cylinders 1½, 3½, 5½ and 7½ H. P.

No other engine on the market gives equal value for twice the price. The Ferro is the best Gas Engine for small boats that has ever been placed on the market. It is a durable engine, being of sufficient heft to withstand its power.

It is a reversible 2 cycle, 3-port engine--no valves nor cams to get out of order.

It is used, exclusively, by several of the largest boat building establishments in the world and gives absolute satisfaction wherever used.

It is equipped with a forced feed lubricator, which insures perfect lubrication to all parts of the engine.

It has a battery of eight feeds situated on the back of engine where they can be seen at all times.

It has a self-priming, quick starting Carburetor of the latest improved pattern.

Its water cooling system is entirely hidden, being cast in the engine walls, doing away with external water pipes. The tank for lubricating oil is cast in the engine's base, being out of sight and out of the way.

It has an exhaust head cooler and silencer combined and attached directly to engine. This takes the place of the cumbersome muffler, and it never gets hot. Study the cut.

Its material and workmanship is guaranteed to be absolutely the best. The Ferro is not a "half-baked" engine, thrown together in any old way, but is elegantly finished in every detail.

Write for "Treatise on Gasoline Marine Engines" and enclose 10c. in stamps or coin to pay postage. This treatise explains every detail in the construction of gasoline engines and gives a wealth of information concerning same.

Pioneer boat patterns and knock down frame at greatly reduced prices, also Triumph reverse gears, etc.

About the Commissioners.

Mr. Editor:—In the recent issue of your paper in the editorial, matrimonial, memorial or some other column, there appeared an article from the pen of our worthy brother of the south end of the county in which he attempted to justify himself for the position he is taking relative to the office of County Commissioner, for which he is a candidate. One would infer from the trend of his argument that he is thoroughly convinced that the Almighty has, or at least attempted to, bring about a political disaster upon our county by causing that great downpour which necessarily detained about 400 Republicans at home, who, according to his belief, would have unanimously voted for him. We have long held that people were largely governed by climatic conditions, but not to such an extent as that.

The brother need not take his defeat at the primary so much to heart. These things occur at every election, but it is an uncommon thing for a man to suffer himself to have the second dose administered to him within less than two months' time.

There are others of us who fully realize his feelings upon receiving the official announcement of his defeat, and how he retires to his quiet repose dreaming that the world had suddenly ceased its rotation and everything was sent flying helter skelter through space because of the great shock brought about by that final announcement. And again we see him as he awakes from his restless dreams, springing to the floor, grasping a bed-post or a door knob in order that he might not be hurled into eternity because of the recent disappearance of the laws of gravitation. And as his reasoning faculties begin to return we see him working his way slowly from post to knob and from knob to chair until at last he stands before the huge mirror, which ordinarily is tall enough to reproduce an image of his entire person, but now owing to the recent elongation of the face there is to be seen but a narrow strip across the eyes, and it requires much surveying by the hands and persuasion by the good wife before he is fully convinced that there is yet two ends to that once smiling face. How amazed he must have been upon reaching the open air. There in the heavens above him was the same sun illuminating the earth. The same gentle breeze fanned his fevered brow. The same cow-bell tinkled in the distant pasture. In fact there seemed to be a sameness of all the surroundings as on previous occasions. While he stands meditating and pondering over the singularity of the situation a sound comes to him. He bends forward with his hand to his ear and a moment later rushes into the house exclaiming, "The county will yet be saved; 4 Democrats of the 300 registered have voted for me, and as it is office I am after, I will accept on any ticket."

Now, if Mr. Keady wishes to be a Democrat why does he not resign the office of Secretary of the Republican County Central Committee and take an honorable stand some place? Since the Republicans have not come up to his expectations, and I am much of the opinion that the Democrats will do likewise, it appears to me that it would be very appropriate and acceptable if three or four Socialists in some precinct
