James Schoolcraft Sherman, who was nominated by the republican national convention for the vice presidency, is a lawyer, a resident of Utica, N. Y., and president of the Utica Trust & Deposit Company. He was born in Utica, October 24, 1855, graduated from Hamilton College in 1887, and received the degree of L. L. D. in 1903. He was admitted to the bar in 1880, was elected mayor of Utica in 1884, was chairman of the New York State republican convention in 1895 and 1900. He entered congress from the Twenty-third New York District in 1887, serving till 1891, served from the Twenty-fifth New York District from 1893 to 1903, and was elected in 1903 from the Twenty-seventh District, to serve until 1909.

Last Saturday the people at Newport and all along the beach had a fine view of Uncle Sam's torpedo boats Rowan, Goldsboro, Davis and Fox as they passed enroute to San Francisco from Puget Sound. The atmosphere was clear and the vessels were so close in shore the men on board could be easily seen. For some unaccountable reason the big fleet as they passed this point going north on May 22 could not come in close enough to be seen, as had been promised they would. But we are satisfied. Everybody got a view of the smoke from the fleet as they went north, and some of us were fortunate enough to see the torpedo boats Saturday, so there is no kick coming—wouldn't help matters to kick, anyway.

A stockbuyer went up near Elk City the other day to look at some porkers which one of our farmers wanted to dispose of. The buyer liked the hogs only they were a little light in weight, and he also wanted to know what made the hogs race across the field so often. The farmer in a hoarse whisper explained that he had always called the hogs to feed them, but that he took cold and lost his voice, and then got in the habit of pounding on the fence with a stick, and now since the weather is getting warm the darned woodpeckers were running the hogs to death.

Grover Cleveland was born March 18, 1837, at Caldwell, N. J. He was assistant district attorney, then sheriff for three years, in 1881 mayor of Buffalo and in 1882 governor of New York. In 1884 he was elected president, ran again in 1888 and was defeated by Harrison, whom he in turn defeated in 1902 and served his second term, retiring to his private home at Princeton where he died June 24, 1908.

There is talk among citizens of taking some action to keep the Albany horse car off the streets during the Fourth of July celebrations as it is realized that the sight of this dilapidated relic of by-gone days does more harm to the town when seen by visitors to the city than anything else in town unless it is the luxuriant growth of dandelions, which decorate the streets.—Albany Herald.

A Georgian paid $1 for a quart bottle of dark brown liquid—a suggestive, rich dark brown—which was delivered to him with a wink, for it was conspicuously labeled "Cold tea." The purchaser drew Notice.

 Owing to the dry season now being at hand and the consequent danger from fire, the City Council orders that no paper or other waste material be thrown on the planking or any of the streets of the city. That if such waste material is burned within the city limits it must be done under careful supervision before the hour of 10 o'clock forenoon, while things are still damp from the night dew and less danger from the wind, and to see that such fire is entirely extinguished before left to itself.
