HOW TO CURE A COLD.

Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold, and when you do get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Otto O. Krogstad.

CONTEST NOTICE.

U. S. Land office, Portland, Oregon.
September 10, 1908.

A sufficient contest affidavit having been filed in this office by Anna D. Elliott, contestant, against homestead entry No. 12902, made August 4, 1900, for 1/2 of 1/4 section 35, township 9 south, range 10 west, by Charles M. Brown, contestee, in which it is alleged that she is well acquainted with the tract of land embraced in the homestead entry and knows the present condition of the same; also that said entryman has never established his residence on the said claim, nor has he resided thereon at any time, or at all, and has wholly abandoned the same for a period of more than six months last past; also that he has never cleared any portion of the land, or cultivated the soil, and the only improvements on the claim consist of a rudely constructed log cabin wholly unfit for human habitation; and that said alleged absence from said land was not due to his employment in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps of the United States as a private soldier, officer, seaman or marine, during the war with Spain or during any other war in which the United States may be engaged. Said parties are hereby notified to appear, respond and offer evidence touching said allegation at 10 o'clock a. m. on November 13, 1908, before the Register and Receiver at the United States Land Office in Portland, Oregon.

The said contestant having, in a proper affidavit, filed September 8, 1908, set forth facts which show that after due diligence personal service of this notice can not be made, it is hereby ordered and directed that such notice be given by due and proper publication.

ECCENTRIC HOGARTH.

Incidents in the Life of the Vain and Able Artist.

Hogarth, one of the ablest and certainly one of the vainest artists that England has produced, was as a painter hardly recognized in his lifetime, to his bitter grief and disappointment. He made money out of his prints, but could only sell his pictures with difficulty and at low prices.

Yet Whistler once declared that Hogarth was our greatest painter. He painted some admirable portraits, but his manner was too independent and his tongue too sharp for success in a profession that requires a certain amount of diplomacy and much patience.

He resented any criticism of his work, and there is a story of a very ugly peer whom he painted that illustrates this. The portrait was returned to the artist. It was, in fact, too good a likeness.

But Hogarth declined to alter it in the least and told his sitter that unless the portrait was paid for in three days he would add a tail to the figure and sell it to a wild beast showman to hang outside one of his caravans. The peer paid the money and instantly destroyed the picture.

More curious still is a story of Hogarth's absence of mind. When the sale of his prints had made him prosperous, he set up a carriage and one day went in it to visit the lord mayor.

While he was in the Mansion House the weather became stormy, and Hogarth, who happened to go out at a different door, after vainly searching for a hackney coach, walked home through the rain and was soaked to the skin. He had entirely forgotten his carriage.—Modern Society.

HIS LIFE MASK.

The Actor's Breezy Story of the Way It Was Taken.

A famous actor entertaining some ladies at dinner showed them his life mask, then told them with feeling how the mask had been made. "They put me in a chair," he said, "tied a towel around my head, plugged my ears with greased wool and stuck a quill in each nostril.

"Shut yer eyes," said the workman, drawing near with a ladle and a large steaming tureen of pink plaster of paris of the consistency of thick soup, and he slapped the stuff on my face in great ladlefuls. I could feel it running down my collar and over my chest just as soup would have done. I motioned with my hands wildly. The man laughed.

"That's all right, boss," he said, and kept slapping the hot, horrible, slimy stuff upon me.

"He stopped when my face was iced in a half inch coat of plaster. He told me it would dry and harden in a few minutes. It did, but the minutes were awful. As the plaster dried it seemed to shrink, shrinking my skin with it. In a hundred places I was pinched and pricked as though by tiny crab claws. And the heat of the thing! And the difficulty of breathing through the quills stuck in my nostrils! Then, very carefully, very slowly, they drew the hardened cast from my face. I gripped the chair arms and shrieked. Did it pull? Did it tear? Let us draw a veil over the painful scene."

The actor smiled and handed his life mask about. "Behold," he said, "the result of my suffering! It looks like a particularly dull and inanimate false face, doesn't it?"

Photography.

Practical photography first saw the light in 1839. On Feb. 21 of that year Talbot, who had obtained permanent prints and camera images as early as 1835, published his process. Daguerre's was published on Aug. 19, and somewhere between those two dates Ponton in a paper read at the Royal Scottish Society of Arts made known to the world his discovery that soluble organic matter in the presence of an alkaline bichromate was rendered insoluble by exposure to light, a discovery the value of which was not recognized for some years, but which is the basis of all that is included in "process work."

The Dark and Bloody Ground.

Before the white man began to explore Kentucky, about the middle of the eighteenth century, the region was a vast hunting ground for many large tribes of the south, north and east, and between these tribes there was continuous conflict for the possession of the rich game privileges. Later on, when the white people settled in the territory, their struggle with the red men was more bitter and persistent than in almost any other section of the continent; hence the sanguinary name that was given to the territory, "The Dark and Bloody Ground."—New York American.

Whist.

An acquaintance of Talleyrand once remarked to him that he did not think it worth his while to learn the game of whist. Talleyrand's reply has been remembered until this day: "Not know whist, young man? What a dismal old age you are preparing for yourself!"
