The text is not legible due to the quality of the image. It appears to be a newspaper article, possibly from the late 19th or early 20th century, given the style of handwriting and the content. The article seems to be about a celebration or event, possibly related to a clock, given the word "clock" and "clockmaker" scattered throughout the text. However, without clearer visibility, it's challenging to extract coherent information. If you have a clearer image or more context, I might be able to provide a better transcription.