Once upon a time a child who was asked upon an examination paper to define a mountain range replied, "A large sized cook stove." The same method of reasoning seems to go with older growth. A recent examination paper at the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale contained the question, "What is the office of the gastric juice?" And the answer on one paper said, "The stomach."—Cleveland Leader.

"Mix half pint of good whiskey; two ounces of glycerine; half ounce of Concentrated pine compound. Shake the bottle well each time and use in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful four times a day." This prescription is said to work wonders.

The Concentrated pine is a special pine product and comes only in half ounce bottles, each enclosed in an airtight case, but be sure it is labeled "Concentrated" in order to get the genuine article.

Before 1880 most English railway carriages had only four wheels, and weighed ten tons. From 1880 to 1890 they had six wheels, and weighed fifteen or sixteen tons; from 1890 to 1900 they had eight wheels, and weighed twenty-four tons; and since 1900 the fashion is twelve wheels for dining and sleeping cars, and the weight is thirty-five to forty-two tons.

MORE "POOR MAN'S DIGGINGS."

Alaskan Discoveries Promise Well for the Man Without Capital.

According to the current stories from Alaska, poor man's diggings of great promise have been struck in the Innoko country, southeast of Norton sound, and there is a general stampede to the new camp, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. This is the third season of prospecting in that region, and each report received tells of rich strikes made in the shallow diggings, which give it its characteristic of poor man's camp.

What has made Alaska and the British Yukon the poor man's diggings. The original prospectors had none of them money enough to buy machinery or to transport it into the country of magnificent distances and no transportation facilities. Neither would capital have been enlisted during the present generation in development work on mines in Alaska had it not been for the immense wealth taken out by men of no capital save their own brawn and energy. The Klondike was a poor man's camp in its inception, and paid the original locators for the grass roots down. So rich were the claims that the first miners got money sufficient to purchase their supplies during the first winter after discovery by panning the dirt off their dumps with melted snow.

Some of the best discoveries in Alaska of recent years have been at such depths in the frozen ground that it was useless for a man without capital to attempt to open a claim. It required money to put in the appliance for thawing the frozen ground and sinking to considerable depth. But men with capital are now willing to take over all such properties, and development proceeds apace.

If reports should prove to be true, the Innoko country promises to give the poor man a chance to make a mine.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

A Clean Mouth.

Now and then one hears incredible stories of persons, otherwise apparently intelligent and cleanly, going round for months, and even years, with their mouths full of germ-laden, aching, decaying teeth.

These persons will give the most ridiculous reasons for their uncleanly folly. They are too busy, or they have an insane dread of the dentist, or some such nonsense. In the very poor and very ignorant all this may be understood and forgiven, but in other classes it is unpardonable. Luckily their number is small, and their punishment is sure.

Very few of those who are children to-day will be able to say by and by that they suffer on account of neglect of their teeth in youth, but many adults can honestly say so now. The science of dentistry and the mechanics by means of which that science is applied have made enormous strides of late, and will undoubtedly continue to advance in the future.

The modern germ theory of disease as applied to the mouth and teeth has brought about so much exact knowledge of prevention and cure that soon a decayed tooth should be a disgrace to any civilized man.

It is universally accepted that a clean surface does not decay. All decay is caused by germs, and the germs cannot multiply and work evil unless particles of food are left on, under or between the teeth. When these particles are so left they first become softened by the saliva, and then afford lodgment for certain germs which excite an acid fermentation. The acid so formed attacks the enamel of the teeth, and this is finally perforated.

Now the door is opened for the germs of decay to enter. In this minute opening in the enamel they find a sheltered spot where they can increase, and by their action cause the destruction of the vulnerable dentine.

This whole process of the formation of the destructive acid may take place within a single day, if the toilet of the mouth is neglected.

Seeing how easy it is for this destructive work to be started, one should make trips to the dentist very regularly, that damage already done may be repaired, and that the deposits which settle on the teeth in the form of tartar may be cleaned away. This tartar does serious damage as long as it is allowed to stay, and it cannot be removed by any home treatment.—Youth's Companion.

If flies are such a horrible menace, the milkman and the grocer could tell you of kitchens where the cook deserves a hero medal.

Or furbelows or food.

With other sagacious vices

They may economize.

They tell us of the thrifty French,
Who all excesses shun;
But I'm not anxious to retrench;
It isn't any fun.
I'm weary of this endless song;
I wish some seer wise
Would show us how to get along
And not economize.

Tact.

I am sorry to have to tell you so boys," said the pleasant looking visitor who was addressing the Sunday school "but there is not one chance in a thousand that any one of you ever will be President of the United States."
Still he failed to secure their undivided attention.
"But if you live up to your opportunities," he went on, eyeing them keenly, "some bright boy in this audience may become a great baseball pitcher or the world's champion batsman."
Instantly every boy sat up straight and began to listen.—Chicago Tribune

Destroys Hair Germs

Recent discoveries have shown that falling hair is caused by germs at the roots of the hair. Therefore, to stop falling hair, you must first completely destroy these germs. Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula, will certainly do this. Then leave the rest to nature.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

Recent discoveries have also proved that dandruff is caused by germs on the scalp. Therefore, to cure dandruff, the first thing to do is to completely destroy these dandruff germs. Here, the same Ayer's Hair Vigor will give the same splendid results.
