DYSPEPSIA

"Having taken your wonderful 'Cascarets' for three months and being entirely cured of stomach catarrh and dyspepsia, I think a word of praise is due to 'Cascarets' for their wonderful composition. I have taken numerous other so-called remedies but without avail, and I find that Cascarets relieve more in a day than all the others I have taken during a year."

Sleeping with Feet Raised.
Among the pernicious things that we have all been doing without knowing it is sleeping with a pillow under our heads. No longer if we value health and happiness may we bury our weary heads in these soft and soothing depths. It is the feet that want elevation, not the head, says a German doctor, and a pillow isn't big enough to raise them to the required height. The doctor has the foot end of his bed elevated about eight inches and says that in this position his circulation is better and that his brain and nerves have profited thereby.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Not in the Thunderbolt.

"I sent you a communication a day or two ago," said the indignant caller, "and you wouldn't print it just because it didn't happen to agree with your views."

"What was it about?" asked the editor of the Morning Thunderbolt.
"It was about woman suffrage."
"O, yes, I remember."
"You threw it in the waste basket, I presume."

"I presume I did."
"My object, sir, was to show that a good deal can be said on both sides."
"Well, you said it all right, sir—on both sides of the sheet. That's the reason why you can't say it in the Thunderbolt. Good morning, sir."

Precocious Foresight.

"Tommy," said the teacher, "you have made some inexcusable mistakes in your geography lesson."

"Yes'm," said the precocious youth.
"When I'm a man I'm going to be an explorer. I want to avoid the minute accuracy which will lead people to discredit my observations."

"You had a housewarming the other evening, Mrs. Guernsey? You didn't say a word about it to me!"

"O, it was quite impromptu and informal, Mrs. Jipes. The janitor turned on the heat."

When You Take Cold

One way is to pay no attention to it; at least not until it develops into pneumonia, or bronchitis, or pleurisy. Another way is to ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. If he says, "The best thing for colds," then take it. Do as he says, anyway.

The development of motor-car engines, and other machines having much vibration, has concentrated attention upon devices for locking nuts upon bolts.

In a recent discussion of this subject attention is called to the fact that, for ordinary motor-car work, a well-fitted nut tightened upon a well-fitted thread will not slip under vibration if the number of threads is more than twelve to the inch. Such bolts and nuts should be secured with spring-lock washers. They are then safe up to a bolt diameter of over three-quarters of an inch.

Whether the globe on which we dwell is gradually drying up or not is a question that has been much debated. Recent discoveries in Central Asia have been regarded by some as favoring an affirmative answer, but others have replied that the observed phenomena are simply periodic changes.

Doctor Walser of Zurich champions the affirmative view on the ground that a great number of European lakes have certainly disappeared within the last 250 years. The canton of Zurich, for example, had 149 lakes a quarter of a century ago, and only seventy-six to-day. He believes that a similar tendency to disappearance has affected the lakes of Germany and Russia.

Constitutional Elm to Be Saved.

The old elm at Corydon, under whose rugged limbs the State constitution was drawn up ninety-three years ago, and which for a while seemed doomed to destruction, has at last found a permanent caretaker in the Corydon organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

This old elm, which has always claimed the attention of visitors to the first State capital and has been an object of reverence for loyal Hoosiers, is called the constitutional elm because of its connection with that important event in the history of Indiana. At present it is in an excellent state of preservation, although there is evidence of some past neglect in caring for it.

The trunk of the constitutional elm is five feet in diameter at the base and the branches have a spread of nearly 120 feet. A forestry expert recently estimated that the tree is now 250 years old and said that with proper care, barring destruction by the elements of course, the elm should flourish another hundred years.—Indianapolis Star.
