James J. Hill Will Aid Oregon in its Development.

The visit of James J. Hill and party to Portland during the past week has been of great significance. Accompanied by railroad officials, Louis W. Hill has left Portland to make a tour of the state. He will cross Central Oregon and see for himself what the tonnage possibilities of that great region are. After this trip, it is expected that a definite announcement will be made as to the expected east and west lines across the state.

While in Portland, Mr. Hill talked freely and his statements mean much for Oregon. He confirmed his purchase of the Oregon Electric and United Railways, interurban systems running out of Portland, and says he will extend them down the Willamette Valley. He also confirmed his purchase of the Pacific & Eastern but said it was yet too early to talk of a connecting road clear across the state. The Deschutes road will of course go ahead as fast as possible, he said, and besides all this railroad activity in this state, Mr. Hill proposes to do a great deal in securing publicity for Oregon throughout the East and Middle West.

The Steamer Truant brought about twenty five Newport people up to the dance Saturday night. On the return trip about two a. m. the boat run hard aground over on South Beach. The life saving crew came out and took the passengers off, but the Truant did not get off until 10 o'clock the next morning. She was scheduled to leave Toledo for Elk City at 10 o'clock so immediately she got off South Beach she headed for Toledo and when within sight of the crowd waiting to go to Elk City, broke her shaft. This was certainly the Truant's unlucky day.

The City Council of Newport could make a decided hit with the sixty odd launch owners on the Bay and also increase the business of the town if they would provide some means for a public landing at that city. As long as the launches have to tie up to some private landing they will go to that city only when it is absolutely necessary. Make a floating landing where the launches of all sizes may land at any stage of the tide and invite these crafts to your city. They will come if you give them an opportunity.

The Toledo-Newport Telephone Company has purchased the Waldport Telephone Company's lines and phones. They have also made switching arrangements with the Yachats and Ona telephone lines. This gives their patrons good service for the south end of the county. Now connections should be made with Kernville and the Salmon River country.

E. J. Avery with a party of timber seekers went over to Siletz the first of the week and went down the river to Kernville. They returned by way of Newport arriving here yesterday morning.
