Deloate Irony.

Makart, the great Viennese painter, was tactless to a fault. It is related of him that once at a dinner party he sat next to Mme. Gallmeyer for a whole hour without uttering a syllable, when his fair neighbor playfully nudged him with her elbow and said: "Come, Herr con Makart, let us change the conversation."

Let not care and humdrum deaden us to the wonders and mysteries amid which we live, nor to the splendors and glories. We need not translate ourselves in imagination to some other sphere or state of being to find the marvelous, the divine, the transcendent; we need not postpone our day of wonder and appreciation to some future time and condition. The true inwardness of this gross visible world hanging like an apple on the bough of the great cosmic tree, and swelling with all the juices and potencies of life, transcends anything we have dreamed of superterrestrial abodes.—John Burroughs.

How Matches Are Made.

Certain kinds of matches are shaved with the grain from sawed blocks; others are cut both ways by saws. In still further varieties the blocks are boiled to make them cut easily. By some machines a boiled or steamed log is revolved on its own axis, and a shaver the thickness of a match is cut round and round. This shaving is at the same time cut into lengths and split into match sticks. It may be said that there is hardly a limit to the varieties of methods employed. Round matches are made by forcing them through dies.—Harper's Weekly.

HARROWING SNAKE STORY

Naturalist Tells of His Exciting Experience in Taking a Snake Out of a Bottle.

A naturalist relates in a London paper his experience in taking a snake out of a bottle. He says: "One of the first poisonous snakes I ever possessed was brought to me in a brandy bottle, and after twisting and shaking and tapping it for an hour without avail I grew impatient.

"The tail just then happened to protrude about half an inch, so I seized it with my fingers, and, rapidly drawing the body through the other hand, had the reptile safely in my grip, behind his death dealing jaws, now distended with anger.

"But the lid of my snake box was shut over, and I could not draw it back with one hand, so I was obliged to let him slip back into the bottle again.

"Having set the box all in order for the newcomer's reception, I once more essayed to lay hold of him by the tail; but now, most provokingly, no amount of maneuvering would bring that useful member to the top.

"Another half hour's unsuccessful angling converted my impatience into desperation, and at length, when I saw the tail protruding about two inches from the mouth of the bottle, I stuck my forefinger in recklessly to try to secure it.

"This was hopeless, as I might have known; but it certainly did cool my spine a little when I discovered on attempting to withdraw it that my finger was jammed.

"I pulled, wrenched, twisted it with all my might, but the brute was raising its head and its flickering tongue was rapidly approaching the unhappy digit that involuntarily corked up the poison.

"I gave a final tug, the violence of which nearly dislocated all my phalanges; but it was no use, and with a yell I raised the bottle high in the air, intending to smash it on the edge of my bunk.

"I distinctly felt the snake, momentarily inverted, fall on the end of my finger; but as I flung my hand up the bottle slipped off and fell on the deck behind me, fortunately without breaking.

"By the time I picked it up the snake was half way out, hissing furiously with rage and fright, and I had just time to thrust it into the box.

The Biggest Excursion.

The biggest railroad excursion in the world probably is that of the employees of Bass & Co., the English brewers. Once a year the firm treats its employees and their families to a trip to the seashore. They were taken this year from Burton-on-Trent to Scarborough, on the east coast, a distance of 134 miles, where they spent the day. Twenty trains were required to transport the 8,000 men, women and children from Burton to Scarborough.

In addition to the day's outing the cost of which was borne by the firm, each employee received a day's wages. These excursions were inaugurated 45 years ago, when two special trains were sufficient to carry Bass' 900 employees and their families to Liverpool.

Another English firm, Lever & Co., the soapmakers, give their employees an annual excursion and sometimes have taken their men as far from Liverpool as Paris. The outing is confined to the employees alone. Their families do not participate in it.

Just the Place.

Motorist—It does seem possible that the automobile will be useful down around the south pole, after all.
 Nervous Pedestrian—Er—yes, I'd like to see all of them down there.

The Passing of the Old Hotel.

It is too bad that the old hotel is so scarce in a way, for there is much comfort and peace to be derived by being around one of them. In your old hotel Mr. Traveler may turn completely around without having to pay five cents. He can put on his hat without giving up a nickel. If he drops his umbrella he does not have to part with a dime to have it recovered. He may scrub his hands in the washroom of the old hotel without having somebody buzzing in his ears, asking if the water is satisfactory and collecting money to hand him the towel, which is on the shelf in front of him. He may part his hair, if he has any, without paying demurrage. He may smoke, write a letter, go where he pleases and be glad that life is not all marble slabs and gilt boys. It is such a fine thing to have an old hotel.—Simon Ford in Leslie's.

Cold Comfort.

"Do you think that dog of yours will bite me?"
 "I haven't the slightest idea of what that dog will do. He's the most impulsive creature you ever saw."

Reverie.

Reverie, like the rain of night, restores color and force to thoughts which have been blanched and wearied by the heat of the day. With gentle fertilizing power it awakens within us a thousand sleeping germs and, as though in play gathers round us materials for the future and images for the use of talent. Reverie is the Sunday of thought, and who knows which is the more important and fruitful for man, the laborious tension of the week, or the life-giving repose of the Sabbath—Amiel's Journal.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

To a Certain Sweet Extent.

"Do you wholly trust me, darling?" murmured the young man to the fair creature who was sitting beside him on the front seat of the trolley car.

Were Well Taught.

The children of an infant school in Wales are taught very much by signs. The hand of the teacher sloped signifies "oblique;" the hand held flat, "horizontal;" the hand upright, "perpendicular." One of the Welsh bishops was preaching one day in behalf of the school, when, observing several children whispering together, he held his hand upright in a warning manner, meaning thereby to impose silence, on which almost the whole school, in the midst of the sermon, shouted out, "Perpendicular!"

Truly Wonderful Alarm Clock.

A few years ago the French government acquired by purchase from a private collection a wonderful alarm clock which was once the property of the great Napoleon and which not only tells the time of day, but, as well, the day, the month, the year, the mean solar time, the phases of the moon, and indicates, in addition, the quarter hours. Its attachments also include a thermometer.

Set Age Limit on Marriage.

According to Russian law, no man or woman who has attained the age of eighty can contract a legal marriage. No other country nowadays imposes such a restriction. In ancient Rome, however, legislation on this point was even more stringent; the maximum age limit for men being sixty and for women fifty.
