The Annual Fair.

Lincoln County's Third Annual Fair a Thing of the Past.

While the fair here this week may not have been a financial success it was nevertheless a greater success in the way it was intended than any previous exhibition. But for the rains during the first two days of the fair it would have undoubtedly been a financial success as well.

Never before in the county's history has such a magnificent display of superior vegetables, grains and grasses, live stock and poultry, and domestic science and arts and school exhibits been displayed. It means that the citizens of Lincoln county are waking up to the benefits to be gained by the annual exhibition.

The many thousands of visitors this week have been agreeably surprised at the amount and superior quality of the varied exhibits. Stock, some of the very best in the world, has been shown—the barns were full of blooded animals. In the vegetable and other farm exhibits—well, they just simply cannot be beaten any place.

While the fair was shy on attractions, owing to the amusement companies being at the Centennial at Astoria, the crowds were entertained by good horse racing, steer wrestling contests, baseball and other field sports. The wrestling match between Messrs. McBride of Eddyville and Urdike of Elk City was a fine exhibition, showing skill, strength and perseverance. These gentlemen gave an excellent exhibition.

In the horse races each afternoon were good attractions. Many good horses and races were run. The free for all race Tuesday was won by Waceka owned by Frank McIntyre, and the pony race was won by Ralph Henry's little Happy. The second day's free for all race was won by Waceka, and Happy again carried off the pony race. Yesterday's free for all race was won by Maggie Thomas, owned by Mr. Cordell, and Pinto, owned by Mr. Harris won the pony race. The horses entered for today's races are Maggie Thomas, Waceka, and Blue Diamond, the latter owned by Mr. Brown. The last race this evening will be a slow race.

The throwing of a big four year old steer by Frank McIntyre was an interesting and exciting exhibition. Mr. McIntyre leaps from his horse to the steer and with nothing but his hands throws the steer and holds him down. This feat was a good one. This afternoon Mr. McIntyre will do the same trick with the steer, but instead of using his hands he will use his teeth, while his hands will be tied behind him.

Yesterday was the biggest day in attendance, the rains of the two preceding days settling the dust and cooling the air. Large delegations from Newport and other points on the lower bay were here, Siletz turned out by dozens of team loads, and the whole upper eastern end of the county was well represented. Waldport sent up the band and a large delegation of residents of that part of the county accompanied them. It seemed that everybody was here yesterday.

Governor West, was of course, the attraction yesterday. Everybody was anxious to see and hear our Governor. He arrived on the noon train from Salem and spoke at the fair grounds immediately after dinner. He then departed for the state capitol on the two o'clock train.

Congressman Hawley spoke Wednesday morning, and departed in the afternoon for Dallas, where he delivered a speech yesterday.

Dr. Olmsted, Lincoln county's gifted orator, of Waldport, arrived last evening and will speak this afternoon.

Among the large exhibitors are L. G. Wesley, owner of the herd of full blood Galloway cattle—these elegant blacks. Mr. Wesley will go from here to the state fair at Salem, then to Spokane, Boise, and many other fairs. He will return home in about two months. Mr. Wesley's exhibit is worth many thousand dollars.

S. T. Loudon and John Veit of Eddyville, I. J. Pepin, and many, many others, too numerous to mention in this short sketch, are showing cattle, sheep and goats, that cannot be excelled anywhere.

D. J. Derby has a most complete and extensive exhibition of vegetables and fruits, many varieties even many of the old residents of the county never dreamed of being raised here. Mr. Derby's exhibit is good and it has taken much hard work and expense to prepare it.

Mr. Derby's exhibit is not the only good and large exhibit by any means. Good exhibits are here from nearly every section of the county.

Newport's exhibits are excellent, among the most noticeable were many pieces or fancy work and works of art. An elegant display of native agates is displayed by A. L. Thomas, the pioneer lapidist of the county. Dr. Berry has a curio exhibit worth thousands of dollars. There are many other exhibits we would like to mention but time and space forbids.

Eddyville did herself proud in her farm and stock exhibits of every description. Her citizens have brought many exhibits and they are all good. Waldport sent many exhibits, notably of which was a sixty pound salmon exhibited by David Gay. Dave Williams, John Rattey and many others have some mighty good horses on exhibit.

The school displays are most excellent and shows lots of hard work by the little folks in nearly all the schools in the county in the preparation of same. Their work is good and creates comment from nearly every visitor. The Indian Day school of Upper Farm has an especially good exhibit. This school is instructed by Prof. R. Reginald DePoe. Mr. DePoe is a full blooded Indian, and is considered one of the best educated Indians in the United States. His work is shown by this exhibit of his Indian pupils.

Taken as a whole this fair lines up well with any preceding fair and shows that fairs are a success here. They are creating the desired competition among our ranchers and stockmen, and all others who are striving to produce just a little better than their neighbors. The annual event gives the people a chance to meet their neighbors, to visit, to renew acquaintances, to compare notes, to learn what each other is doing, and to have an all-round good time. There has been mistakes made in managing the fair of course but they will be used to help make the next fair a better success. As usual the work of many was put on to a few with the result that those who did the work had too much to do. These mistakes will be corrected and our annual fairs will each year learn more and more and be better able to manage them. Despite these few little mistakes the various committees have done well and are entitled to much credit.
