Throat Coughs

Ask your doctor about these throat coughs. He will tell you how deceptive they are. A tickling in the throat often means serious trouble ahead. Better explain your case carefully to your doctor, and ask him about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

ROMANCE IN THE HOME

INABILITY TO DETECT IT CAUSE OF MANY MISERIES.

Domestic Duties Never Appear to Be Mere Drudgery When the Housewife Goes About Them in the Proper Spirit.

The dullness of domestic life is one of the commonest complaints uttered by a certain type of the modern woman. She chafes at the daily task, the common round. To her it seems that the four walls of her home partake of the character of a prison house and that all the romance, the pleasure, and the interest of life lie outside.

Within she finds only drudgery and sordid conditions. She awakes in the morning with a sigh, contemplating the dreary duties. She seeks her rest at night, bored and weary with the tedium of a day's domestic toll.

She envies the woman who works in the wider world, who mixes with men in the mart, who carves for herself a career, and who is free from the endless irritations and annoyances that beset and vex the woman in the home.

Such thoughts as these increase her discontent. The monotony against which she murmurs grows more grievous. She acquires a chronic querulousness that communicates itself to all who come under her influence. The husband feels it and files for comfort to his club. The children are conscious of it and seek solace in other scenes.

Inability to detect the romance of domesticity is more often than not the reasons why the miseries depicted enter presently into many married lives that had opened under the most promising auspices.

But what is the romance of domestic life? Wherein does it lie? Only those who are unconscious of it will ask the question.

Is there not, in the first place, romance in the very name of "family"? Is it not one of the most profoundly interesting culminations of ages of social evolution? A microcosm of the state, it should possess, in little, all the interest of a state. Whether it be an autocracy, a limited monarchy, or a republic of two, it has foreign relations which require the exercise of the utmost tact. It has or should have an annual budget, which may cause much consternation in certain quarters of the domestic menage. It is concerned with commerce. The quality and quantity of its imports, although figuring under the mundane names of bread and meat and groceries and such like, are of as great importance to it as its foreign trade to the most populous state.

It has traffic-indirect, it is true—with foreign lands. Even the humble currant that adorns Wednesday's roly poly pudding grew on the sunny slopes of Greece and each lump of sugar dropped into the cup brings with it a measure of tropic heat of the southern sun.

The increase in the population of the home is, in proportion, as far reaching in its effects as in the growth or dwindling of its people to the greatest nation. It sends forth emissaries to form fresh colonies, and, more often than not, it maintains a defensive force in the shape of a dog to guard it from the invasion of hostile intruders.

It may seem trivial, absurd, to draw such parallels between the home and the nation. But a deep truth underlies such fancies. And were the labors of housekeeping and the responsibilities of family life looked at in the light of their true importance, the monotony and tedium with which, to some minds, they are invested would fall from them as the chrysalis husk falls from the gorgeous wings of the butterfly, permitting it to soar into the higher, brighter element for which it is fitted.

Baked Apples and Nuts.

For a half dozen large apples a good three-fourths cup of nut meats—butter nuts, black walnuts or hickory nuts—will be required. Chop the nuts fine and add a half cup of sugar. Core the apples and fill the centers with the nuts and sugar. Bake in a rather deep pan, with a cupful of boiling water added. When tender remove carefully, place in a pretty dish, pour the juice over the apples and crown with whipped cream or a meringue made from the white of two eggs.

Cream Cake.

Beat the yolks of four eggs, to which has been added one even cup of powdered sugar for five minutes. Then add the whites, which have been beaten thoroughly, one cup of flour with one teaspoonful of baking powder, and lastly add one tablespoonful cold water. Filling: Two cups of milk into which has been beaten the yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls cornstarch, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoonful vanilla. Bake cake in three layer tins.

Ready With Suggestion.
A superintendent of a city Sunday school endeavored to give the summer meetings added attractiveness. Upon a certain warm Sunday lemonade was served. At the close of the service the superintendent announced that slips of paper would be passed round and the pupils allowed to make suggestions as to methods of making the meetings still more attractive. One youngster wrote: "Put more sugar in the lemonade."

Didn't Concern Him.
John Wesley had a reputation for cheerfulness. In his journal he writes: "I preached in Halifax to a civil, senseless congregation. Three or four gentlemen put me in mind of the honest man at London who was so gay and unconcerned while Doctor Sherlock was preaching concerning the Day of Judgment. One asked: 'Do you not hear what the doctor says?' He answered, 'Yes, but I am not of his parish!'"

Never Drink Water.
In Lower California a large number of the smaller desert mammals never drink water, according to American scientists who have recently visited the peninsula. They live and thrive on dry seeds and scraps of vegetation in places where the heat and aridity are excessive without ever touching their lips to water, and it has even been found impossible to teach some of them to take water in captivity.
