Hauling Logs Over New R. R.

Last Saturday the first logs were hauled over the new railroad on Depot slough. Just two months and seventeen days from the time work was begun on this road trains were being operated. The road now extends from the Parrish place two and one-fourth miles up Depot into the big timber.

While the road bed is new and uneven the train makes a round trip every thirty-five minutes, which means that logs will be put into the river at a lively rate and also means that the mill here will always be supplied with logs it will also probably mean more sawmills here.

Mr. Miller, the builder, is well pleased with outlook.

DAVID FOREMAN.

David Foreman was born December 9, 1871, at Harcars Parish of Tozo, County of Berwick, Scotland, and died Sunday, June 1st, 1913, at the J. W. Harrison home near Toledo, at the age of 42 years.
Decedent has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Harrison since he was nineteen years of age, being the same as a son to them. He was a boatbuilder by occupation and a large number of the boats in use on the bay were built by him at his shop south of Toledo. Mr. Foreman had been a resident of Toledo the past four years and during that time had made a host of friends who followed him to his last resting place.
Rev. C. R. Ellsworth preached the funeral sermon at the Harrison home Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, after which interment was made in the Toledo cemetery. The funeral was marked by the unusual number and the beauty of the floral offerings, the death chamber being most beautifully decorated.

Who Won?

As near as can be determined by the evidence at hand the married men took the single boys into camp last Friday to the tune of 9 to 0. Of course more scores than this were chalked up, but scores do not always win a game. According to the score card the game was hotly contested from start to finish and one side ahead, then the other. In the final game the score stood 18 to 19 with a little stick work still due the married men, and which, as near as can be ascertained, the "singles" would not allow quitting with the inning half over, and thereby forfeiting the game by the score of 9 to 0. These two teams will meet again in the near future to get revenge. The stars of the game were Dr. Morris, George McCluskey was the official umpire.
