GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

All Blood Disorders Quickly Driven Away
Astonishing Results With the Greatest Blood Purifier Ever Discovered.

Strength, Power, Accomplishment are all Typified in S. S. S.

Some blood disorders become deeply rooted in the glands and tissues, and the mistake is made of resorting to drastic drugs. These only aggravate by causing other and worse troubles. A host of people know this to be true. They know from painful experience.

To get right down into where the blood is vitiated requires S. S. S., the greatest blood purifier ever discovered.

This remarkable remedy contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment and the medicinal elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food.

Not only this, but if from the presence of some disturbing poison there is a local or general interference of nutrition to cause boils, carbuncles, abscesses and kindred troubles, S. S. S. so directs the local cells that this poison is retained and

WOMEN SUBJECT TO KIDNEY TROUBLES

I beg to say that I have been a constant sufferer with severe pains in my back and was on the verge of nervous prostration resulting from kidney trouble and other complications. A friend of mine recommended Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as a sure cure for these troubles. Acting upon her advice I began taking Swamp-Root and began to improve before I had finished the first bottle. I continued its use until I had taken several bottles and continued to improve until I was completely cured. I am happy to say that I am as well as any woman on earth and have been so for the past nine years, thanks to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and I cheerfully recommend it to all who suffer from kidney troubles.

Very truly yours,
MRS. ALVA BAXTER,

What He Feared.

Mrs. Capron informed her husband one morning that she expected a party of guests that afternoon. Immediately Mr. Capron arose and put all the umbrellas away, much to his wife's astonishment.

"Why, Walter, do you fear my guests will steal your umbrellas?" she asked in an injured tone.

"No," said Walter, as he closed the closet door. "I'm afraid they'll recognize them."—Washington Herald.

AQUEDUCTS OF ROME

EMPIRE HAD MAGNIFICENT SYSTEM OF WATERWORKS.

Daily Supply for the Ancient City Was 400 Gallons Per Capita, Much More Than Used by Any Modern Community.

Will it surprise the citizens of New York, in the year 1914, to learn, if they did not know it before, that the citizens of Imperial Rome in the year A. D. 300, or thereabouts, were favored with a supply daily of somewhat over 400 gallons of water per capita, as against a supply daily of about 100 gallons per capita which is available at the present writing in this city?

Manhattan and the Bronx, with a population of about 3,000,000, receive daily from the Croton watershed about 300,000,000 gallons; but Imperial Rome brought in by aqueduct, chiefly from the distant hills that encircle the Campagna, over 400,000,000 gallons of water per day—and this, by the way, is four-fifths of the total supply which will be led from the Catskill mountains to this city, when the new aqueduct is completed—and New York, be it remembered in respect of its water supply ranks high among the capital cities that are the boast of our modern civilization.

The Romans had a full appreciation of the value of an abundant supply of pure water, as ministering to the health, the pastimes and the artistic delight of a city of 1,000,000 souls. The Romans of Imperial days had a passion for cleanliness of body, and the stupendous public baths such as those of Trajan Diocletian and Constantine, were capable of accommodating at one time from 1,000 to 3,000 bathers.

The water in Rome was the property of the crown, and it was led to the private houses by thousands of pipes, which ran in every direction and under every street, and were stamped with the name of the "concessionaire" to whom it was brought from the nearest crown reservoir.

The Roman was nothing if he was not artistic, and huge drafts were made upon the city supply for the magnificent series of public fountains which graced the public squares and plazas.

To the engineer and artist alike, the most attractive feature of the water supply of Rome is the aqueducts, the remains of which, in many a mile of picturesque ruins, radiate across the desolate and solitary waste of the once fertile Campagna in the direction of the distant hills.

Of these aqueducts there were 11, or, if we include the tributaries, 14 in all. Their total length was 350 miles, and of this 304 miles were below-ground and 55 miles were carried on monumental arcades of masonry.

The answer is that the Romans had no cast iron or other suitable material to construct the strong piping which would have been necessary to withstand pressures. They were acquainted with the principles of the siphon; indeed they built many notable specimens.

Let it be understood, furthermore, that the Romans did not merely divert the water from the river beds into their aqueducts, thereby exposing the supply to contamination by the mud and silt of the river floods. On the contrary, they thoroughly understood, and practiced on a grand scale, the art of impounding the supply by means of artificial dams. Also, the Roman engineers understood all about tunnel construction; and in one case, between Tivoli and S. Gerico, a tunnel some three miles in length was driven through the mountain simply for the conveyance of the water.

All of which reads very much like some of those descriptions which were published recently of the great water supply systems of Los Angeles and New York.—Scientific American.

She Knew.

The modern rural postmaster has not much time to read the post cards of his neighbors, even if he wished to. But his more or less mythical propensity for doing so has at least given rise to many stories, one of which the Boston Traveler repeats.

One day a young farmer drove to town, and wound up at the village postoffice.

"Hello, Beth!" said he. "Got anything here for me?"

"Don't see nothin', Jake," rather indifferently replied the postmaster. "Was ye expectin' somethin'?"

"Yes," answered the farmer. "I was expectin' a postal card from my Aunt Jinny, tellin' me what day she was comin' down."

"Hanner," called the postmaster to his wife, "have ye seen anything of a postal card from Jake Leed's Aunt Jinny?"

"Yes," was the prompt reply of the postmaster's wife. "She is comin' down on Thursday."

Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping-chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TILLIE WATERS, 1135 Knight St., Camden, N.J.

And this one from Mrs. Haddock:

UTICA, OKLA.—"I was weak and nervous, not able to do my work and scarcely able to be on my feet. I had backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, trouble with my bowels, and inflammation. Since taking the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better than I have been for twenty years. I think it is a wonderful medicine and I have recommended it to others."—Mrs. MARY ANN HADDOCK, Utica, Oklahoma.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
