

COPPERPLATE ENGRAVING.

The Art Was Discovered Through the Merest Accident.

Every one has noticed on his visiting card the extremely delicate lines of his name, and almost every one knows that they are produced by printing from an engraved copperplate.

It is a historical fact, however, that one day an engraver on gold, wishing to take a proof of his work, made the usual sulphur cast and then filled up the lines with lampblack, thus enabling him to see exactly how his work looked.

The discovery was communicated to other workers in the art, and they hailed it with joy, as it saved all the arduous trouble of making sulphur casts, but they never saw the full value of the discovery, and consequently the art of plate engraving lay for almost a century before its true import was discovered and brought out in all its great and beautiful results.

Today collectors of plate engravings rave over the crude results of earlier times and search the world for examples of these early masters to add to their collections.

Their First Meeting.

Mr. Harry Furniss tells a funny story of a high legal dignitary, who, when solicitor general, had to appear before Queen Victoria to receive the honor of knighthood.

Butting the action to the word, he immediately fell on his knees, and like the funny man at a child's tea party, propelled himself along the floor on his knees.

And yet the little man rose to the highest post in his profession, and stood by her majesty's side as lord chancellor of England to read her address to the house of lords—London Globe.

A Real Jolly Evening.

A study of Robert May's "Accomplish Cook," published in 1665, will serve to dispel the delusion fostered by many foreign critics that English cookery lacks variety.

"This done, to sweeten the stench of the powder let the ladies take the eggshells full of sweet waters and throw them at each other. All danger being seemingly over, by this time you may suppose they will desire to see what is in the pyes; when, lifting first the lid off one pye, out skip some frogs, which makes the ladies to skip and shriek; next after the other pye, whence come out the birds, who, by a natural instinct, flying in the light will put out the candles; so that, what with the flying birds and skipping frogs, the one above, the other beneath, will cause much delight and pleasure to the whole company."

Klem Had the Correct Dope.

Here is a good yarn concerning an incident of the Giants-White Sox tour around the world. Umpire Klem was judging a game at Sydney, N. S. W., and Sam Crawford was at bat when a fast ball cut low across the plate.

"Strike one," sang out the indicator holder. "That was below my knees," said Sam with spirit. "No," replied Klem, "your knees didn't come up when you were asked; you only imagine they did."—Lennie's.

His Pious Wish.

When Irvin Cobb was rewrite man for the New York Evening World he left the office one night, highly incensed, after a spat with Charles Chapin, the city editor. He returned the next morning, still ruffled, to find that Chapin was absent.

"Where's the old man?" he inquired. An assistant informed him that Chapin was ill.

"Dear me!" said Cobb, much concerned. "I hope it's nothing trivial."—Evesleigh's.

HOUSEKEEPERS Must be Watchful

For great efforts are being made in this vicinity to sell baking powders of inferior class, made from alum acids and lime phosphates, both undesirable to those who require high-grade cream of tartar baking powder to make clean and healthful food.

The official Government tests have shown Royal Baking Powder to be a pure, healthful, grape cream of tartar baking powder, of high strength, and care should be taken to prevent substitution of other brand in its place.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price per pound, and is cheaper and better at its price than any other baking powder in the world.
