DANGERS OF DRAFT

Drafts feel best when we are hot and perspiring, just when they are most dangerous and the result is Neuralgia, Stiff Neck, Sore Muscles or sometimes an attack of Rheumatism. In such cases apply Sloan's Liniment. It stimulates circulation to the sore and painful part. The blood flows freely and in a short time the stiffness and pain leaves. Those suffering from Neuralgia or Neuralgic Headache will find one or two applications of Sloan's Liniment will give grateful relief. The agonizing pain gives way to a tingling sensation of comfort and warmth and quiet rest and sleep is possible. Good for Neuritis too. Price 25c. at your Druggist.

CRISIS CAUSED BY WILSON'S VACILLATION

United Republican Party Needed to Restore Self-Respect and Honor to U. S.

Portland, Ore.—A review of the inconsistencies of the present Democratic Administration, particularly in its dealings with the belligerent powers of Europe and with Mexico, was presented by Theodore E. Burton, Ohio's candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

Mr. Burton, who is ex-United States Senator from Ohio, spoke under the auspices of the Oregon Republican Club. His address was essentially political in its nature, but in view of the present difficulties confronting the Nation it was touched throughout with a highly patriotic tone.

The audience manifested its unequivocal approval by a tremendous ovation when he said:

"At times like this we are not Republicans nor Democrats, Socialists or Prohibitionists, we are American citizens."

But Senator Burton was emphatic in his declaration that the very presence of these international complications calls for firmness and experience in handling the affairs of the Nation.

Under such conditions and under such circumstances, he asserted, the thoughts of the people instinctively turn to the Republican party—the party of experience, the party of capability, the party of accomplishment.

"The one fact more obvious than any other in all the conflicting current of events," he said, "is that the present ignominious status of the United States in relation to other countries has been brought about by the halting, the vacillation and the hesitancy of the present Administration."

He then took up in detail a discussion of the present Administration's conduct of international affairs, saying:

"Now the President makes the most extravagant speeches for preparedness; he says we must have the largest Navy in the world; he says that no man can tell what a day or an hour may bring forth. It was surely just as obvious when the first gun was fired in Europe that the United States must be ready to protect itself as it is today. There is such a thing as being too late to prepare, but when danger threatens there is no such thing as being too early. Yet the Administration has been on both sides of this question, with equal extravagance of assertion, with equal impatience of all who disagree and with equal inability therefore to convince anyone of its entire sincerity."

"And what is all about? Here again the whole difficulty arose from the exercise of those two conspicuous talents of the present Administration, the passion for interference in the affairs of other nations and the inability to keep away from both sides of the same question."

"On February 10, 1915, the Administration warned the German government of the consequences of carrying out the policy foreshadowed in its admiralty proclamation in case it should result in destroying any merchant vessel of the United States or in causing the death of American citizens, and threatened to hold the German government to a strict accountability for any such act."

"A note from the Secretary of State on May 15, last, limited the rule that lives of noncombatants of neutral or other states should not be put in jeopardy to such as sailed on unarmed merchantmen."

"The word 'unarmed' is important. But, departing from these earlier declarations, in the latter part of January, 1916, the State Department, in a note to the various powers sought to induce the allies to disarm their merchantmen and placed especial stress on the disadvantages of submarines in conflict with armed merchantmen, saying in substance it would not be fair that the submarines should be compelled to expose themselves to destruction from such vessels and that merchantmen should not be permitted to carry armament at all, stating further that the United States Government was seriously considering the announcement of its purpose to treat a merchant vessel carrying guns as an auxiliary cruiser because of the changed conditions in maritime warfare resulting from the introduction of the submarine and its defenseless character."

After the publication of this note Germany and Austria-Hungary on or about February 19 very promptly announced that on and after March 1 they would regard all merchantmen carrying armament as warships and would exercise the right to destroy them without warning."

"What did the President do then? He said: 'No, for such a course would involve the loss of American citizens, and American citizens have the right to travel on merchantmen armed for defense.'"

"Thus we attempted to persuade England and France to give up a right which they claimed under international law, but would not ask American citizens to yield a right which we alleged belonged to them under the same law."

"In other words, we took the position that England and France had no right to arm their merchantmen, for thus they became warships, while, on the other hand, only a few weeks later we maintained that although they were warships, Germany had no right to attack them without warning."

"So it appears that the whole controversy, of which the end is not yet, fraught as it is with so much danger to the peace of the United States, discussed from one end of the country to the other, causing the most acrimonious debates for many years in Congress and leading to a split in the party charged with the responsibility of government, was brought about by shifting our position and taking a stand directly contrary to the one first assumed."

PLANK THE NEWPORT ROAD

We are informed that there is a strong movement on foot in Newport for the planking of the Newport-Toledo wagon road. This is an improvement that would prove of lasting benefit to these two towns and the Leader is glad to boost the proposition along.

Toledo and Newport, pulling together, should have no trouble in securing this improvement. Not only will the road prove of immense value to the towns of Toledo and Newport, but will also open up a means of egress for the products of the many fine farms lying between the two towns.

Billy Clausius of Siletz went to Corvallis on business Tuesday.

Mrs. O. R. Hollingsworth returned Tuesday evening from Newberg.

Miss Lillie Miller of Pioneer is visiting with Mrs. F. N. Hayden in this city.

Rev. Robert H. Allen, pastor of the local M. E. Church, will preach both morning and evening next Sunday.

Jim Derrick, Fred Stanton, Jack Ross and Henry Campbell are surveying the route of the new road to Elk City this week.

Circuit Court will convene next Tuesday for an adjourned session of the February term. Judge Coke of Marshfield will be on the bench. The jury has been called and at least one jury trial will be had.

The schooner Ahwaneda was in port last Friday, having a cargo of shingles for the Moore Lumber company here. The shingles were brought from Bandon. Captain Morse reported some thrilling experiences when the vessel was disabled off this bay last week. For a time the Captain and crew were not so sure of making port again.

In this issue appears the announcement of A. J. McMillan for the nomination on the Republican ticket for the office of County Surveyor. Alec is a good, clean young man and has had considerable experience as an engineer, having been with a large railroad gang in British Columbia for several years, and is well qualified for the position which he seeks.

County Surveyor Derrick informs us that the work on the new Pioneer Mountain road is going rapidly forward and that by the first of July the road ought to be ready for travel. He says that there will be no grades on this road steeper than six per cent. P. H. Elting is in charge of the road crew. They have the right of way nearly all slashed and will commence blasting next week. Roadmaster Porter and Surveyor Derrick were over the route this week, running levels, etc.

At a meeting of the school board last evening the following teachers were elected for the term of 1916-17: Principal, John Blough; assistant High School teachers, Miss Leila Laseley and Mrs. Edith Elder; 7th and 8th grades, S. B. Ports; 5th and 6th, Miss Mabel Booth; 3d and 4th, Miss Aileen Gaither; 2d Mrs. Elder; primary, Miss Verne Ross. This is the same corps of teachers as at present, with the exception of Miss Pennington and Miss Booth, and we believe will again make a success of the schools next year. Miss Booth is a new teacher. Miss Pennington will attend the Month Normal next year and will again have charge of our primary department the year following.
