

NEWPORT

The Alwandes, Captains Morse, and Senator Johnson will be on hand at Marshfield, Bandon and finally at Medford to be given after-dinner speeches. Sen. Johnson is the speaking enginer and James McDonald as mayor. Mrs. Johnson will be on hand in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse will join her at Medford.

J. H. Fitzgerald, manager of the new road, is on the road and began the project immediately after his return to Newport.

The report of the engineer has been accepted and the old road will be broadened and the location of the road.
After this the old road will be broken up and renewed.

There are fourteen important bridges to be built. They are being built by the experienced laborers on the job.

The northern part of Lincoln County is the most agricultural part of the state of Tillamook county.
These engineers will soon be working on the transportation of corn by rail. The new section will be rich in resources.
It will have thousands of acres of fine land, with hundreds of vegetables and fruits.

The support of hundreds of farmers will come from the coast for making cheese, and all the streams will flow with fish and the bountiful harvests.

It is proposed that the line for this new road, the Newport & Tillamook, will be one hundred miles long. By the time we reach the new road the road will be doubled.

The present is a great day, despite the bad weather and the heavy cloud cover.

The grade on the Salt Mountain is not too steep for the locomotives to be enjoyed by all. It is an exciting journey and the scenery is tremendous.

The wagons will be used by the farmers to transport their products to the market.

This will be a great convenient route between Newport and other places.

The greatest advantage of this new road is that it will connect the farms directly with the markets.

This route can travel easily through the sandy roads and the muddy roads.

The county is well equipped with many canals and bridges.

Newport is a large village, and money is well spent.
The work is being completed.

The old railroad is being replaced by this new road.

FIEGLES CREEK

Here's another fine valley!

Lloyd and P. M. Martin demonstrated the fruitfulness of their farm on the farm, and they were greatly interested.

Many of us are out here looking at the progress made by our engineers, the farms are looking beautiful.

All the farmers are very happy with the new railroad.

It was a lovely day
for a trip.

If we go by car to Fiestle Creek, you can see the beautiful scenery.

POGELE SOULG

Willard Huntzacker made up to Aiyah Wednesday night and Mr. and Mrs. Horst rushed to meet him.

They were very glad to see him and his return to their home.

Mrs. Huntzacker was very happy to see him.

LITTLE ELLK

Summer weather and cans are busy with their Fall work.

Mrs. Johnson and Mr. Hopkins will be working on the hops from the first last week.

visited the school and were very pleased.

S. T. Lowndes received from Rose Lodge last Tuesday.

He says the Pomona Grange is a success and the town fair was more success.

There was quite a bunch of Little Elks going to the Big Fall fair— all pronounced the fair grand and beautiful, and with a large crowd in the big tent.

Mrs. Moller is finishing her new house, getting it ready for the opening day. Mrs. Maese has a day nursery and they be ready to care for them.

W. F. Wadfield has his old house torn down and is getting the foundation ready and Mr. W. F. Wadfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Horst are busy in the kitchen and the new house is coming along nicely.

Mr. Peck passed through the little one day last week on his way to Bend. Two years ago he was at the Big Fall fair.

The time is drawing near for the Elks fair and everyone is busy getting ready for the fair. It will be held in the middle of October.

There are many reasons to know that this will be a success and for that the Elks are responsible.

A number of harvests are being held in the county.

Mrs. Peck was in town last week and visited the school.

It is reported that R. E. Mc-Donald has traced his bloodlines in Lincoln and Tillamook counties, the people are of people.

Moll and father of West Yaphank are in our visitor.

HARLAM

R. L. Hughes and Clifford McDonald took a bunch of chickens to San Francisco.

They were delivered to George Goodwin
for a few days.

Different ranchers.

Chas. Chafin came from Corvallis last week.

He reports his wife
getting along along but they will be some time before she

As Mr. Hughes says,
"We wait to stand quiet until the wind will blow and then we'll go."

The play put on at the Midway Thursday night
by the Swellmead Thale to the audience.

The title of the play was, "Walt's a-lookin'- for a old maid; Carl Edwards, Bethesda.

Ellie Pock, the young man; and Walter Lids, the actor. The actors were present and all the performers did well it was thought. Walter Lids was the star's actor. She acted the old maid to perfection.

The audience was not large but they were very attentive.

The trip will be made to the next Monday and then go south to California, and return to the cities on the way. We wish them success.
