REGISTERED STOCK ON LITTLE ELK

Editor Lincoln County Leader: No doubt your readers would like to know what the farmers, dairymen and stock raisers are doing in the way of improving their stock in this community.

Prior to 1910 there was not a registered animal of any kind here, now there are several registered cattle, goats and sheep. At the present time Chas Brothers have 27 head of registered cattle, 70 head of registered goats besides 100 head of high grades, 100 head of high grade Cotswool sheep.

S. T. Loudon and son have 7 head of registered Jersey cows and heifers besides 6 head of high grade heifers.

W. F. Wakefield has got 22 head of grade and high grade Holstein heifers and a registered bull.

A. B. Hunt has 12 head of grade and high grade Jersey cows and heifers and a registered Jersey bull.

Now this improvement in stock has been done in the last seven years. S. T. Loudon and Son were the first to start improving stock. They brought in the first registered Jerseys and then others got the fever so now we have as much good stock as any place in Lincoln County.

Willoughby Brothers are breeding to Herfords. They have 30 head of the white faced beauties and they thrive in this climate we are getting more and a better class of stock now than ever before and as we improve our stock, our ranches increase in value and as our ranches increase so our community, county and state improves in value.

We would like to hear from other localities, how they are improving their stock. If some one in every community would write to the county papers and tell of the improvements they are making we believe it would stimulate all to improve more so let us hear from all. Yours for a better Lincoln Co., S. T. Loudon.
